Lumumbists, Reds Named as Plotters

Unidentified Embassy Hatched Conspiracy, Announcement Says

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Communist cash and followers of slain Patrice Lumumba were behind a plot against President Joseph Kasavubu's government, informed sources said today.

A government announcement said the plot had been hatched by an unnamed foreign embassy. Many have been arrested, including 40 soldiers of the Congo's army and an official in the foreign ministry.

Set For Next Wednesday
Gen. Joseph Mobutu, the army commander, told reporters the plotters set next Wednesday as the day to strike. He said the plot involved poisoning or kidnapping government leaders.

It had been apparent in this capital of the troubled Congo that something was in the wind for the past five days.

Police and paratroopers in trucks and jeeps have been cruising the streets, rounding up suspects and examining identity cards.

Last Tuesday they seized a young Indian diplomat, who later was released, and a Dutch radio reporter.

The foreign ministry official under arrest is Laszlo Marothy, a Hungarian who took part in the uprising against the Russians in his native land in 1956. He has been handling protocol and consular matters.

Informed sources said leftist followers of the dead ex-Premier Lumumba had been working on the plot for a month.

Children in India To Get U. S. Food

WASHINGTON (AP)—George McGovern, director of the Food for Peace program, Friday announced the United States will provide daily food for a year for 500,000 school children in the state of Madras, India.

The gift of food was accepted by G. Subramaniam, minister of education and finance for Madras.

Granddaughter Of Revolution Vet Gets Pension Hike

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)—In its closing hours, the 100th Maine Legislature gave a $60 a month pension to an 88-year-old woman who claims to be the only living granddaughter of a Revolutionary War Soldier.

It isn't much—but it is more than double the $25 on which Mrs. Kate Libby of Charleston has been living on since 1957.

How do you live on that amount? Mrs. Libby will tell you it isn't easy.

"If I weren't a prudent woman," she told a newsman, "I wouldn't have had enough to eat this past winter."

Mrs. Libby said the Veterans Administration's records show that her grandfather, Thomas B. Lowell, enlisted in Col. John Brooks' Massachusetts regiment in 1781, took part in the Battle of King's Ferry and was discharged with a pension in 1783.

At the age of 89 Lowell married a woman of 28. They had four children, one of whom was Mrs. Libby's mother.

Weapon of the Future?

'Death Ray' Via Neutron Bomb May Be Future Killer in Target Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "death ray" bomb that would kill all life in its target area has been discussed as the weapon of the future. But just how far in the future is worrying at least one senator.

The projected bomb—which might make the awesome hydrogen bomb seem clumsy—is called the neutron bomb, and it has been thrust back into the news by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Wants Tests Resumed
Dodd hinted the Russians could be secretly experimenting to develop the neutron bomb while the United States is honoring an atom-test moratorium.

He put forward such a possibility as an argument for resuming tests.

Dodd—who referred to the neutron bomb as "a kind of death ray"—said in a Senate speech Wednesday that the bomb "would do next to no physical damage, any type nuclear weapon.

It would result in no radioactive contamination. But it would immediately destroy all life in the target area."

Dodd, in warning of the possibility of the Russians developing such a bomb, said it was one way "for destroying us at relatively small risk to ourselves."

Scientists have speculated on two possible versions of the bomb—

1. A small nuclear reactor that would shoot radioactive neutrons through a lead tube.

2. A scaled-down version of an atom bomb tailored to give off more neutron radiation than bomb scaled-down A-bomb, said.

"It is of dubious military value because many of its victims on the battlefield will be condemned to die of radiation sickness on following days and can afford to be very brave in the meantime."

Testing Necessary
When told of the two alternative versions, Dodd told news-men—"You are not far off."

Asked to explain the nature of the bomb he had in mind, Dodd said "I think I know, but I'm sure I should not say."

"I don't believe the United States has developed such a weapon or is working on it," Dodd said. "It can't be worked on until testing is done."

Last November, the late Thomas E. Murray, former member of the Atomic Energy Commission, wrote an open letter to both presidential candidates, John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon, in which he said "conceptional designs" for the weapon "have existed in American laboratories" and that "they would already have been tested, had it not been for the sibility of the Russians developing such a bomb, said it was one way "for destroying us at relatively small risk to ourselves."

U.N. Leader Given Czech, U.S. Spy Case

Washington Wants Member of Mission Expelled; Latter Says He Rejected American Offer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. spy charges against a handsome Czech diplomat and his counter-claim that American intelligence tried to hire him landed on U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's desk today.

Central figure in the drama is Miroslav Nacvalac, 39, No. 3 man in the Czech U.N. mission. He declared he will ignore U.S. demands that he leave the country until he gets instructions from his government.

A U.N. spokesman said Hammarskjöld is studying a U.S. request that Nacvalac be expelled on grounds he had been collecting information from an American government worker for almost a year.

Also before the secretary-general was a protest from the Czech U.N. mission claiming U.S. agents had dangled promises of unlimited wealth before Nacvalac if he would become a spy for the United States.

Sensational Charges
Both the U.S. and Czech accounts were replete with cloak and dagger details including threats of blackmail and violence, but the facts varied sharply.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White gave this account to newsmen in Washington.

Nacvalac made contact about a year ago with an American, then a government employee and declared his cooperation, threatening that the American's fiancée in Czechoslovakia would be prevented from joining him in the United States.

"She was used as a hostage to force the individual's cooperation in espionage activities," White said.

White said Nacvalac not only used threats but indicated there

Coalition Plan For Laos Aired By Gen. Phoumi

Strongman Asserts Warring Princes Reach Agreement

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, pro-Western Laotian military strongman, said today the kingdom's three warring princes have agreed to seek formation of a "government of national union."

Phoumi issued the statement after a meeting between Premier Prince Boun Oum, and his pro-Communist rival, Prince Souphannouvong, head of the Pathet Lao guerrillas.

"We are all in perfect agreement," Phoumi told newsmen. "We are now going to seek formation of a government of national union."

The two princes met following a preliminary huddle Friday between Boun Oum and Prince Souphannouvong, self-styled neutral who claims to be rightful premier of Laos.

Single Delegation
Immediate aim of the three rival princes will be to decide on a single delegation to represent Laos at the Geneva conference, which has bogged down in efforts to make the Southeast Asian kingdom peacefully neutral.

Phoumi said earlier the items the three princes will take up will be application of the cease-fire in Laos where scattered jungle fighting continues, the country's neutrality and "national reconciliation."

Phoumi said Boun Oum will continue to meet with his rivals in an effort to iron out details of what he said will represent "a general agreement."

Mace-B Missile Meets All Tests

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force Friday successfully launched a Mace-B guided missile on an evasive 1,000-mile flight down the Atlantic range.

The missile altered course and altitude several times as commanded by its inertial guidance system. Its altitude ranged from 1,000 to more than 40,000 feet.

Such action would enable the Information Agency offices in weapon to avoid enemy countermeasures.

Carries Secret Payload

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Discoverer No. 25 satellite was circling the earth every 91 minutes today, carrying a secret payload.

Air Force hopes to recover in 4 to 6 days.

The 2,100-pound satellite, 18th in the series to achieve polar orbit, blasted into space through heavy fog at 4:03 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time Friday.

Because of the fog, newsmen a mile from the launch area were unable to see either the missile or its exhaust. But they heard its roar as it sped upward.

An hour and 45 minutes later, tracking stations in Hawaii and Alaska reported the space vehicle was in orbit.

Since the first Discoverer launching Feb. 28, 1959, only seven have failed to orbit. But the figures on capsule recovery are much less impressive.

Twenty of them have had the capability for ejecting space capsules but so far only four capsules have been recovered.

In keeping with custom, the Air Force declined to say what type of gear the latest 300-pound capsule contained. Officials would neither confirm nor deny that sky-spy camera equipment for the projected Samos satellite surveillance system was aboard.

Plans call for the Discoverer No. 25 to remain aloft as long as possible—perhaps the full four days—so instruments may gather a maximum of data.

Weather and the condition of the vehicle will be the determining factors.

After the capsule is ejected over Alaska, cargo planes will try to hook its parachute as it drifts down near Hawaii. Failing this, surface ships will attempt to recover it from the sea.

The satellite was orbiting with an apogee (highest point) of 250 statute miles and a perigee (low point) of 140 statute miles.

Talk Heard Of Federal Court Writ

NEW YORK (AP)—The creeping paralysis of a major maritime strike spread to seaports around the nation today as federal mediators pleaded for a full resumption of peace talks. There were reports that a federal injunction might be sought by one shipping group.

Thirty port cities and almost 1,000 freighters, tankers and passenger liners are involved in the strike, which began last Thursday midnight.

Piers Picketed
Major snarls to a settlement are a shippers' claim that the striking unions threatened to price the industry out of existence, and union demands for the right to organize "foreign-flag" shipping.

With White House intervention to head off the walkout a failure, pickets in New York, New Jersey, Louisiana, Texas and Massachusetts and other shipping areas marched at piers to halt work.

Violence flared. Three men were injured in a fight Friday when Texaco refinery workers near Camden, N.J., tried to cross a picket line set up by the National Maritime Union. Four persons were arrested.

May Invoke Taft Law
Federal officials intensified efforts to get the seven unions representing 85,000 seamen and the bulk of the nation's shipping operators back to the bargaining table.

They worked amid reports that the American Merchant Marine Institute might ask President Kennedy to bring the Taft-Hartley Act to bear with an 80-day injunction so that shipping would

Real Story of Fishing Trip On Outdoor Page

The Post-Crescent's Outdoor Page (in Section A, Page 16) today details what it's really like to take a long weekend fishing trip into the Canadian bush country some 600 miles north of the Fox Cities.

It isn't just a survey of fishing or scenery—Outdoor Editor Jay Reed and three companions drove to the bush country and packed in by boat. They kept an exact accounting, so if you're interested in real outdoor living you can discover just how much it will cost. It is, Reed found, surprisingly inexpensive.

Read the Outdoor Page in tonight's Post-Crescent for more of the personal, factual service this paper offers every day.

CBS to Visit Famed Surgeon of Burma

'Dedicated American' to Tell Story Of Renowned Dr. Gordon Seagrave

BY JINGO
One of the most stirring stories out of the Far East during World War II was the saga of the Burma Surgeon, Dr. Gordon Seagrave. When the Japanese overran his Namkham hospital in northern Burma, a sanctuary he started building in 1922, he and his staff of Burmese nurses marched out of the country with Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell into India. When Burma was retaken, Dr. Seagrave found his hospital in ruins, bombed out by the U. S. Air Force, and he started rebuilding. However, the troubled times after the war touched him and he was jailed for treason by the Burmese government. Although wronged, the Burma Surgeon returned to his Namkham sanctuary. Next Wednesday night CBS will visit him there to tell the story of "The Dedicated American—The Story of Dr. Gordon Seagrave."

Peter Kalischer, the CBS Far East correspondent, suggests, "He was a one-man Peace Corps, without government aid, in 1922. He might be called the Forgotten American."

'Fallen Angels' Set To Run for 3 Weeks At Miller Theatre

Ann B. Davis, popularly and affectionately known as "Schultzy" through her appearances on TV's Bob Cummings' Show, will star for three weeks, June 20 through July 9 in the Fred Miller Theatre's second show of its first summer season, Noel Coward's comedy "Fallen Angels."

Miss Davis appeared for five years on the Cummings' show and handled the part of "Schultzy" so adeptly that for her fourth and fifth years she won "Emmies" as best supporting actress in a comedy series. She also appeared on Broadway in "Once Upon a Mattress."

Returning to the Miller folds after a season's absence are Evelyn King and Karl Redcoff, off stage known as Mr. and Mrs. Redcoff. Each won a "Freddie," the Miller's annual acting awards, for their performances in Miller productions during the 1959-60 season.

Fallen Angels
"Schultzy" will portray one "fallen" angel and Miss King the other. Mr. Redcoff will play his wife's husband. The director is Ray Boyle.

"Fallen Angels" is Noel Coward at his inimitable best, gay, debonair, infinitely sophisticated. The plot centers on Julia (Schultzy) and Jane Evelyn (King), best friends and both happily married for five years. But before their marriages, both had brief affairs with Maurice, who is French and a great charmer. Now Maurice is visiting London and has asked to see them both. The husbands are gone for a day of golf, and Julia and Jane nervously await Maurice's call.

They quarrel, make up, get high on champagne and quarrel again. Maurice finally arrives, very late, and the husbands return unexpectedly to increase the complications. Still other problems are provided by Saunders, Julia's new butler, who has been absolutely everywhere and done absolutely everything.

The regular performance schedule for "Fallen Angels" is Tuesday through Friday at 8:30 p.m.; Saturday at 7 p.m. and 10:15, and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. There will be one matinee, every Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Top Awards Go To Same Plays

NEW YORK (AP)— Broadway's chief prizegivers see eye to eye — most of the time. The annual Pulitzer and Drama Critics Circle awards have gone to the same shows eight times in the past 10 years. Rather oddly, the critics' citation was established 25 years ago because of prior disagreement with Pulitzer committee choices.

Both groups named "All the Way Home" as the best of the 1960-61 season. Previous dual selections over the past decade were "Fiorello!" "Look Homeward, Angel," "Long Day's Journey Into Night," "The Diary of Anne Frank," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "The Teahouse of the August Moon," "Picnic."

In 1959, the Pulitzer prize went to "J.B." while the critics chose "A Raisin in the Sun." In 1952 the respective citations went to "The Stride" and "I Am a Camera."

Actor Continues Fight Against Typecast Roles

TORONTO (AP)— After 15 years on stage, Donald Harron is still trying to prove to himself that he's "the kind of actor I want to be."

The 36-year-old performer's problem is typecasting. The Toronto-born Harron played a steady diet of juvenile leads on Broadway, television, in London and in films for a long time. Recently he has been cast in neurotic roles.

"They've thrown the whole book of Freud at me," he protests. "Now they don't see me any other way."

Star Advises U. S. Wives To Try 'Spoiling' Husbands

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Ireland's leading actress has suggested U.S. wives would enjoy life more if they spent more time spoiling their husbands instead of nagging them—or competing with them.

"The Irish woman takes it for granted that it's a man's world," said Siobhan McKenna, who has red hair, green eyes—and a serene temper.

"When I married, my grandmother told me, 'Marriage is a partnership. As in all partnerships, sometimes one must give in—and it might as well be the woman.'"

NEW YORK (AP)— Broadway's chief prizegivers see eye to eye — most of the time. The annual Pulitzer and Drama Critics Circle awards have gone to the same shows eight times in the past 10 years. Rather oddly, the critics' citation was established 25 years ago because of prior disagreement with Pulitzer committee choices.

Both groups named "All the Way Home" as the best of the 1960-61 season. Previous dual selections over the past decade were "Fiorello!" "Look Homeward, Angel," "Long Day's Journey Into Night," "The Diary of Anne Frank," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "The Teahouse of the August Moon," "Picnic."

In 1959, the Pulitzer prize went to "J.B." while the critics chose "A Raisin in the Sun." In 1952 the respective citations went to "The Stride" and "I Am a Camera."

Mediators in Plea for New Peace Talks be resumed while negotiations continue.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, here since Thursday under direct orders of the President, withdrew Friday night from active participation in mediating the nation-wide strike after urging the parties to resume negotiations.
Goldberg made his request shortly after Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union, predicted that there will be an important "break" soon toward settling the walkout.
One negotiating session—between the American Merchant Marine Institute and the National Maritime Union—was set for today.
Reports to Kennedy
Goldberg, who cancelled a trip to Europe which he had scheduled for today, held a news conference Friday at which he said: "I have been in touch with the President of the United States concerning the maritime situation, and have given him a full report about the situation. The administration views with grave concern the strike under way involving the maritime industry."
He described the maritime industry as "an important, vital" one and said "the nation can ill afford a shutdown of this kind."
The effects of the strike have been slow to show up.
Only six ships were tied up in New York Friday.
In San Francisco, no vessels were scheduled to sail and there was no immediate way of measuring the scope of the walkout.
Seven ships were being picketed in New Orleans, and other ports reported similar situations. Union leaders said the number of vessels affected would mount over the weekend.
The first major passenger-liners that might be snarled in the walkout are the United States and the Constitution, scheduled to arrive here Wednesday.
Tankers figure as the big economic worry of the strike. However, the oil industry said the long negotiations prior to the walkout gave them ample time to meet the strike with full storage tanks.
Sources in the petroleum industry said there was a 40-day supply of stocks on the Eastern seaboard. Four big companies—Esso, Socony, Mobil, Sun, and Atlantic—are operating their tankers with crews whose unions are not involved in the strike.

Accident Injures Youth
NEW LONDON — An Appleton youth injured his leg Friday night in what is believed to be a motorcycle accident. The youth, Lester Price, 21, 2435 N. Glendale Ave., is being examined in Community Hospital. The extent of his injuries will not be known until X-ray results have been studied. Price was brought in to the hospital by three unidentified boys and a girl about 11 p.m. Friday. The details of the mishap are being sought by the police.

was a possibility he might defect and remain in the United States.
"Let me make clear, however, that in fact the American citizen was cooperating with this government while seeming to act under Nacvalac's instructions," White said.
The spokesman said the American had access to classified U.S. information, but that he furnished only "purported" secrets to Nacvalac.
He added that the American was of Czech origin. The department withheld his name and that of his fiancée. She has since been admitted to the United States and they are now married, he said.
No Expulsion Move
"Nacvalac paid sums of money for what he believed to be classified information of the U.S. government," White said.
"Other improper activities of Nacvalac were under close scrutiny by this government."
"No action was taken to expel Nacvalac from the United States, since during his contacts with American citizens, Nacvalac indicated his interest in discussing the possibility of defecting and remaining in the United States."
He said a meeting was arranged with Nacvalac last Tuesday at the Gripsholm Restaurant in New York. The meeting was attended by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Lt. Col. Frantisek Tisler, military attaché at the Czech Embassy in Washington who defected in 1959 and was granted asylum in the United States.
White said the agents were present to discuss with Nacvalac his alleged interest in remaining here.
"During the course of this meeting," White said, "it became unmistakably clear that Nacvalac's motivations and intentions were not genuine and were highly suspect."
Nacvalac gave a sharply different version of the rendezvous. Sipping a martini in the U.N.'s south lounge he told reporters this story:
Last Tuesday he was lunching with an unidentified American friend at the Gripsholm when three men entered, one of whom he recognized as Tisler.
Tisler introduced the two others to Nacvalac as "Mr. Mack and Mr. Jack," and the American friend left when one of the two flashed a badge.
Nacvalac's Version
"Mirek," said Tisler, using a familiar form of Nacvalac's first name. "We would like you to be with us. Mr. Mack can open all the doors to the White House for you."
"Mirek," Mack interposed, "if there is something we can do for you, the question of money is completely unimportant to us. We can get you all the money you want."
Mack then promised a "nice big home, cars, clothing for you and your family and an excellent education for your children."
"They gave me a presentation I couldn't even dream of," said

Macvalac who is married and the father of two.
Macvalac said the agents wanted him to keep his job as counsellor in the Czech mission and work for the U.S. government.
When he made plain he would not accept the offer, Nacvalac said, "they started to threaten me. Told me 'we know what this means to you. We can practically destroy you.'"
Tisler even hinted at "physical liquidation," Nacvalac said.
At the end of a two-hour talk, Nacvalac said, the agents appeared "fed up with the whole thing."
Zdenek Cernik, Czech minister who is acting U.N. permanent representative, said he received a note from the U.S. mission Tuesday night demanding Nacvalac's withdrawal. He said he telephoned U.S. Ambassador Charles Yost the following morning and rejected the note. The Czech mission sent its formal protest to the U.N. Secretariat Friday.
"The State Department quickly countered with the disclosure that it had sent the Czech delegation, through the U.N. Secretariat, its demand that Nacvalac be expelled for abuse of the privileges accorded U.N. delegates here."

Doctor Treats President at His Estate
MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP)—President Kennedy settled down today to a weekend in the country with his family, and more rest and treatment for his lame back.
The President and his wife arrived Friday night by helicopter at their rented Glen Ora estate. Awaiting them were the Kennedy children, Caroline and John Jr., who preceded them from Washington by automobile.
The President will have at least one visitor today. Dr. Janet Travell, the White House physician, is due for her daily check of the President's back.
Continues to Improve
She will bring equipment to give Kennedy an ultrasound treatment, which he has been receiving on alternate days.
Assistant news secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said Dr. Travell did not plan to remain overnight.
Hatcher said Kennedy's condition continues to improve and that he has not lost any weight.
Kennedy made his first public appearance on crutches away from the White House Friday at the conference on international economic and social development at a mid-town hotel.
As the band struck up "Hail to the Chief," the chief executive unceremoniously entered through a freight service door.
The unorthodox entrance was arranged for the President's convenience as the shortest distance between two points.

Medal Comes for Superior Man 15 Years After War
CAMP MCCOY (AP)—It took more than 15 years to get it, but Police Officer Frederick J. Johnson of Superior finally has received his Bronze Star for bravery in action in World War II.
The award was made many years ago, but Johnson never got the medal. The Army, finally, presented him the medal here Friday.
Col. Joseph Stehling of Beaver Dam, who was with Johnson the 12th Infantry Regiment, Johnson's old outfit, made the presentation at the 32nd National Guard Division encampment here. The award cites Johnson for bravery under fire in removing men to a safe area. Johnson was with a medical detachment of the 12th Infantry at the time.
Maj. Gen. Herbert A. Smith of Oshkosh, the camp commander, said he was highly satisfied with the performance of the troops in the field this week. He cited the 3rd Battalion of the 127th Infantry from Milwaukee and Company E of Spooner of the 724th Engineer Battalion of the 12th Infantry.

Price Boosting and Price Cutting

Lawyers from the U. S. Justice Department, who recently succeeded in having fines assessed against 29 electrical equipment companies and prison sentences for some of the company executives, now are dickering with the same companies in an effort to have them agree to a new form of price fixing. This time they want the companies to say they will not sell at unreasonably low prices.

It may be a little difficult for the average citizen to understand the activities of the government lawyers in this instance but apparently it all is very clear to them. They want the companies which pleaded guilty to price fixing charges to agree to end those practices. During the high point of that case, the government's attorneys made much of their claim that they, the government lawyers, were attempting to protect the consumers from unreasonably high prices fixed by the electrical firms. Now, however, they want the companies to agree also not to sell at "unreasonably low" prices. The electrical companies have asked what an unreasonably low price is and government attorneys said it would be a price "where the effect is, or where there is a reasonable probability that the effect will be, substantially to injure, suppress or stifle competition or tend to create a monopoly."

The Justice Department lawyers know they are in a weak position here. Some time ago, after they had indicated that they would ask for such price agreements, they were much cheered when they heard that prices for electrical equipment were rising because of the business upturn. They indicated then they believed this increase in prices would take much of the strain out of their effort to get a proper consent decree into effect with the electrical firms.

However, now that the case has been presented, General Electric has balked declaring that the corporation's management considers the decree proposed by the Justice Department to be "foolhardy and impossible of fulfillment."

The decree, which the firms are asked to sign to avoid a civil suit, in this instance relates only to the six leading equipment manufacturers producing power switch gear assembly. However, the department has said this first decree is a "prototype" for 18 other product lines to follow.

General Electric has pointed out that if it should sign the decree it immediately would be in the position of having to assume the burden of proving its innocence of violating the decree if some small producer should lose a contract job to General Electric. In fact, it is pointed out, that the company might be considered in contempt of court the moment its officials signed the document since it has no way of knowing at what level its prices might be regarded as "unreasonably low."

As a countermeasure, it has offered to pledge compliance with all existing laws governing monopoly, competition and restraint of trade. Such an agreement would leave the burden of proof on the government as it now is or on any other complainant claiming a violation of the decree. The Justice Department immediately rejected that proposal and then, according to some reports, threatened General Electric with divestment proceedings under a civil suit to be brought by the federal government. Assistant Atty. Gen. Lee Loevinger, who was accused of making the threat, since has denied it but evidently General Electric feels it is being coerced.

The matter is of great interest to everyone, in the nation since the use of electricity is universal. America has made great progress because of its efficient use of electricity. This would scarcely be possible without the efforts of the large electrical manufacturing corporations. Generally speaking the anti-trust work of the Department of Justice was supported by the people when it appeared that they were acting with the intention of protecting the public from price gouging by large corporations.

Now, however, if they are going to put these corporations in a strait jacket where they will not be permitted to pass on to the public the benefits of more efficient operation which they may develop, there will be little cause to cheer. Nevertheless, the consent decree which the Justice Department is proposing would practically end competition in the electrical manufacturing field and put the electrical consumer in the position of paying the price necessary to maintain the least efficient operator in business.

The Reds Make Mistakes, Too

It is absolutely necessary that the American people keep as well informed as possible on our expenditures of huge sums in foreign aid. In recent years there have been some discouraging stories of foolish waste of money taken from American citizens to be spent abroad. The only way to minimize such waste is to publicize every blunder discovered.

When we read discouraging news about our representatives abroad it is well to be reminded occasionally that the Communist countries make similar blunders. Thus there was a pleasant surprise for American readers in the testimony of George W. Ball, undersecretary of state for economic affairs, before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Ball told of the experience of the Russians in delivering a sugar mill by the Soviet bloc to Indonesia. The sugar mill broke down on its first test run and was out of commission for a year. It is easy to imagine the unfavorable results of that breakdown upon the Indonesians who had sugar cane ready for the mill and could ill afford to lose it.

On another occasion, he said, the Russians made a gift of a motor launch to the leader of another Asian country. When the launch arrived at the end of the rail line it could not be moved to the water because the roads would not accommodate it. The idea of the Russians unloading a beautiful yacht out in the back country where it was immobilized for lack of good roads to move it to the shore is the poorest kind of propaganda. This blunder is similar to that of the boat builder who put his craft together in the basement with no door large enough to accommodate it.

Since we've heard so much about the silly blunders of our own people in foreign lands it is cheering to hear that the Russians have some of the same kind of trouble.

BY STEPHEN W. SEARS

The Confederate States of America had hardly begun a second year of life when disaster threatened. Union forces had opened the Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers and occupied Nashville, and the bloody fight at Shiloh had failed to halt the blue tide; New Orleans, the South's greatest city, had fallen; and by the end of May, 1862, a handsome young Yankee general named George B. McClellan

Not until the death of Joseph E. Johnston in 1862 did General Lee take over the command of the Army of Northern Virginia. Then he lost a battle a day for seven days—and won the campaign that hustled McClellan out of Virginia. The story of this crucial campaign that established Lee as a master tactician is told here by an editor of American Heritage.

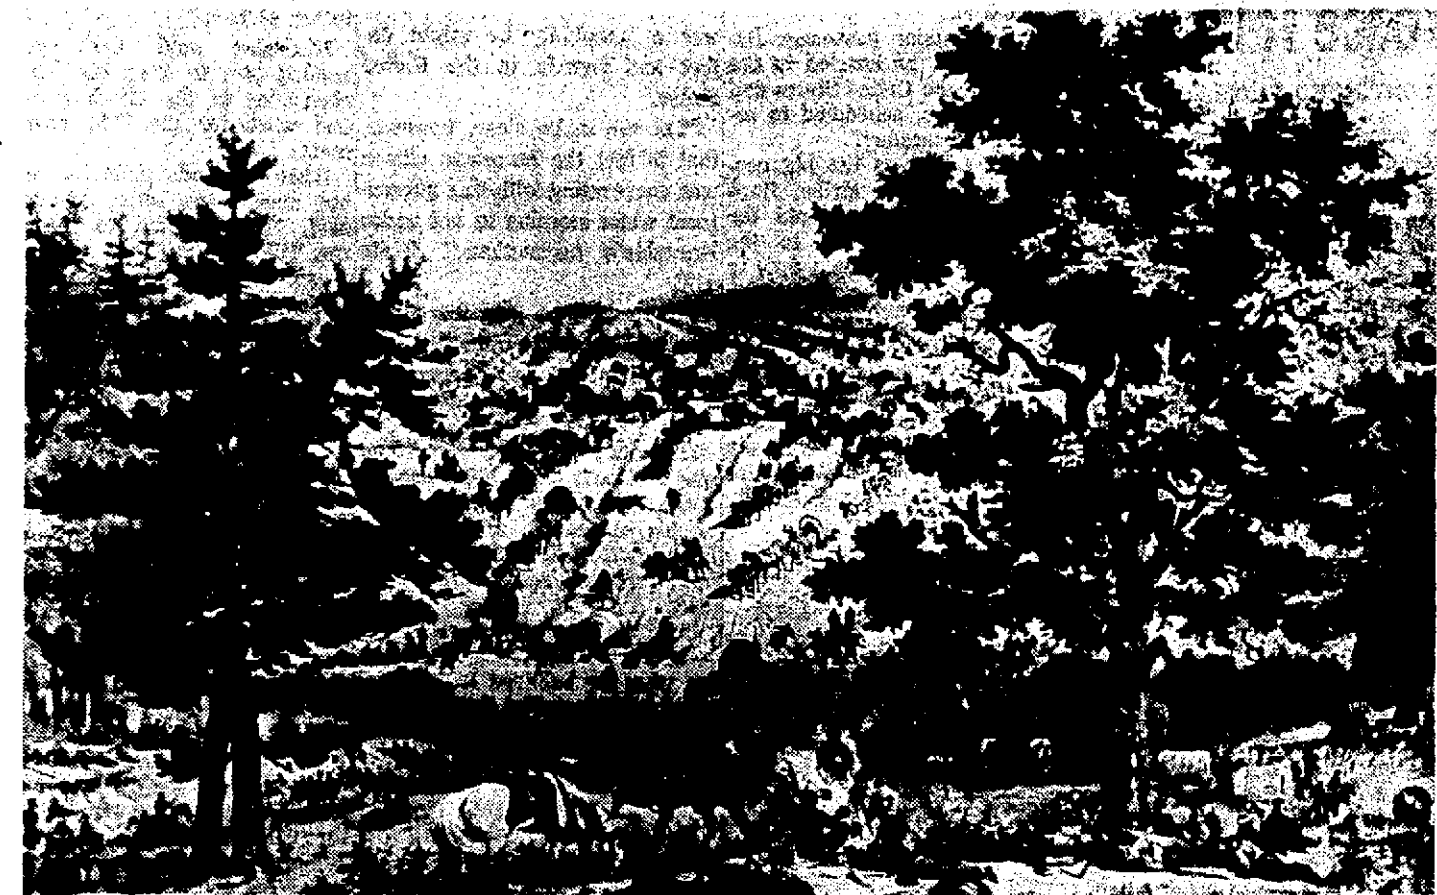

had led a vast army so close to the Southern capital itself that Richmond's spires could be seen and its bells heard from the federal lines.

McClellan was 36 years old, a West Pointer and distinguished veteran of the Mexican War. His tidy little campaign in western Virginia the previous spring had captured the North's imagination, and newspaper editors took to calling him the "Young Napoleon." After a disillusioning winter as general in chief of the federal armies he now commanded only the Army of the Potomac. This army he had shaped with his own hands, and shaped well. He loved his troops, and he inspired the enlisted men's loyalty and affection. Yet he lacked the aggressive, warlike spirit needed to crowd an enemy relentlessly.

Despised Officials

The Young Napoleon had another grave shortcoming — he was completely unable to see that in a civil war politicians would have as much to say about the conduct of the war as professional soldiers. McClellan despised official Washington. In the midst of his campaign he complained in a letter to his wife of "the rebels on one side, and the abolitionists and other scoundrels on the other." As a result, the general and the government supporting him breathed and poisoned air of mutual distrust and suspicion.

Robert E. Lee Takes Over

For two months McClellan cautiously pushed up the James River peninsula east of Richmond, expecting to receive from Washington substantial reinforcements for his 100,000-man army. Between his force and its objective lay the flooded Chickahominy River — "the confounded Chickahominy," McClellan called it. He threw a bridgehead of two divisions across the stream at Fair Oaks, and on May 31 the Confederate commander, Joseph E. Johnston, tried to wreck this advance guard. The badly mounted Southern attack achieved virtually nothing, and one of the 6,100 Rebel casualties was Gen. Johnston himself, severely wounded by a bullet and a shell fragment.

In Johnston's place Jefferson Davis appointed his military adviser, Robert E. Lee. It was probably the most momentous appointment of his presidency.

Eccentric, Talented

Johnston pinpointed a key fact about Lee: "The shot that struck me down is the very best that has been fired for the Southern cause yet. For I possess in no degree the confidence of our government, and now they have in my place one who does possess it."

Lee had the trust and loyalty of President Davis, but he also had to contend with what was probably the most eccentric, touchy, individualistic — and talented — group of general officers ever assembled in an American army.

There was acid-tongued D.H. Hill; impetuous A. P. Hill; James Longstreet, ponderous but wholly capable; the incredibly flamboyant Jeb Stuart; "Old Bald Head" Dick Ewell, bird-like and sickly; and, strangest of them all, Stonewall Jackson, a warrior of fire and brimstone straight out of the Old Testament. The forthcoming segment of the peninsular campaign known as the Seven Days was the fiery crucible from which Lee's newly christened Army of Northern Virginia would be cast.

McClellan Stalls

For more than three weeks McClellan pattered before Richmond, waiting for his artillery, waiting for the roads to dry, waiting for reinforcements, waiting for this, waiting for that. He must save the country from the "wretches" in Washington, and nothing could be left to chance. His cautious soul was haunted by wildly inaccurate intelligence reports compiled by the famous Chicago detective Allan Pinkerton, reports which credited Lee with 150,000 to 200,000 troops when the Virginian could count but 85,000.

McClellan shifted his army across the Chickahominy until four of his five corps lay south of the river; the fifth, under Fitz-John Porter, remained on the north bank, guarding the army's supply line and ready to link up with the expected reinforcements from the North. But Stonewall Jackson's Shenandoah Valley campaign had tied up these reinforcements, and Jeb Stuart's dazzling cavalry reconnaissance around the entire federal army indicated Porter's corps to be vulnerable.

With calculated daring, Lee left but 25,000 troops in the Richmond lines to face the bulk of the Army of the Potomac. The rest he massed against Porter's line situated behind a peaceful little tributary of the Chickahominy called Beaver Dam Creek, a mile east of the hamlet of Mechanicsville. The success of the plan hinged on Jackson getting his veteran Valley force in behind the Yankee lines. The same day — Wednesday, June 25 — McClellan launched a reconnaissance in force toward the Richmond defenses. This resulted in the first of the Seven Days' Battles. The following day Lee took, and held, the initiative.

Lee Defeated

Lee's orders for the Battle of Mechanicsville called for Jackson to open the action when he reached position on Porter's flank; the rest of the Confederate force would then charge Porter's front. But the appointed day wore away with no sign from Jackson. Finally, late in the afternoon, A. P. Hill decided to wait no longer and opened fire.

The result was a stinging defeat for Robert E. Lee in his first battle. Jackson was so badly delayed that he took no part in the fighting at all. Porter therefore devoted his full attention to the Confederate frontal assault. A Northern correspondent who watched said: "Powerful bodies of troops plunged into the valley to charge our lines, but our men, securely posted, swept them away ruthlessly."

Suspecting Jackson's flanking intentions, McClellan ordered Porter to withdraw that night to a stronger position. He made no attempt to break through the weakly held lines guarding Richmond, largely because he was thoroughly bamboozled by Confederate Gen. John Bankhead Magruder.

Magruder had been known in the old army as "Prince John" for his interest in amateur theatricals, and now, commanding the Richmond defenses, he pulled out all the stops. Massive troop movements were simulated by a few regiments repeatedly parading through clearings visible to the federals; officers stood in the woods and shouted marching orders to non-existent troops; skirmishers were aggressive and batteries sporadically sprang into action. For two days the nervous Union commanders girded for an assault. Magruder's combat record was only mediocre, but as an actor he served the Confederacy well indeed.

On June 27 — the third day — Lee took another crack at Porter's corps, and for a time it looked like a repetition of the previous day's fiasco. Porter

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 21, 1861.

Our currency seems just now to be the object of a general scale. It is evident that the nearer we approach the first of December, the time limited by the recent session of the Legislature for the circulation of this currency on the present stock basis, the more careful the people are becoming about having the stuff in their hands.

The banker at Oshkosh declined to receive any more on deposit. Last Saturday, which made a panic here in a few hours, not a dollar would circulate until something had been ascertained of the cause.

And now the currency is being taken and passed from hand to hand, each seemingly anxious to get rid of it as speedily as possible. That there will be a smash of this rag stuff before Dec. 1 next we cannot doubt. Banks are closing up their business from one pretense or another, but the real reason is fear of being salted on doomed bills. We say let it go down, and the sooner the better. The people already have lost heavily and must still suffer loss. But better this, if this worthless trash can be driven out of circulation and we can have a reliable currency.

America Drifting To Dictatorship Under Kennedy

From The Morning News

Never was there a time when Americans needed to be more alert and on their guard against steps toward dictatorship. In a report to his constituents, Rep. Bruce Alger lists more than a dozen actions, proposals, and threats of the Kennedy administration in the direction of dictatorship. Many would severely curtail state and individual rights.

The items include the packing of the House Rules Committee, the giving away of food surpluses by executive order, the censoring of military speeches, the demand for censorship of the press, the threat to radio and television stations, the call for a blank check on foreign aid, and the opening of the way for backdoor spending in so-called depressed areas.

Thus, inch by inch, we are edging toward an American form of big government that usually ends in a centralized dictatorship. Ironically, we are spending billions to prevent the same trend abroad.

Wyngaard Hints at 50 Per Cent Surtax

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The current prognosis for the Republican leadership plan to promote a sales tax law as the key to Wisconsin state — local tax revision is so doubtful that the state house has been obliged for the first time this year to consider the alternatives.

It should be made clear in all discussions of tax policy at Madison today that there is no doubt about the prospect for higher tax levies upon the body politic. The question is one of variety. The state's fiscal officers the other day reported that the deficit between income and authorized outgo for the next two years has already reached $55,000,000. It is likely to go to $60,000,000 before the session ends, at a conservative forecast.

Wyngaard

If the sales tax proposal and the related items in the Republican tax revision fail, what are the alternatives?

Fundamentally they are two. The Republicans could accept Gov. Nelson's plan for a bracket by bracket revision in the normal individual income tax rates, which would be burdensome on the lower and middle income brackets, and would be extremely difficult to enact without some such sedative as a withholding law.

THE OLD FAVORITE

Then there is the old favorite of legislatures in a jam — the individual income surtax.

The surtax alternative is not a pleasant one, but if a choice is made, it is more likely to be in that direction than in the total revision of the normal individual income tax rates. Habit will come into play there. A dozen times since this corner started observing legislative proceedings legislatures have resorted to the surtax, which has the effect of annoying fewer voters because it falls with greatest weight upon the upper bracket earners.

A 20 per cent surtax rate is now in effect. The $55,000,000 deficit calculation was based on the assumption that the surtax will be reenacted when it will otherwise expire on July 1.

To make good a prospective deficit of at least $60,000,000 would require the levying of a 30 per cent surtax over and above the 20 per cent rate now in effect, which would put Wisconsin income tax rates above those of any other state in the country and make them the most severe and the most progressive since the days of the great depression of the 1930's. The highest surtax ever levied here was at the rate of 60 per cent. It was then a desperate expedient, by a distressed administration confronting historic problems in the field of indigent relief and other emergencies.

THE REACTION

Curiously enough, there are some influential voices in the conservative element of Wisconsin politics that would prefer a surtax alternative — even at such arduous rates — to normal rate revision, with or without withholding.

It is too early to tell whether this will be a decisive view. But such reactions also are being heard from representative legislators in their private comments.

The reasoning is that a surtax of such an extreme rate would serve to dramatize for all the taxpayers the tax revision challenge that faces the state, a challenge that is not yet widely understood for all of the educational labor of the last several years. Such a cruel rate of surtax, moreover, would not assure any relief whatever of the burdens of the real and personal property tax.

Any normal income tax rate revision, so the argument goes, would tend to become permanent. And any concession to the advocates of withholding, according to this fear, would be an open invitation to future legislatures to increase those normal rates even more, and thus prevent for an indefinite period fundamental tax revision by way of the sales tax. Whether such views will prevail cannot yet be determined. That they are held in some influential quarters is a meaningful aspect of the legislative deliberations.

'Crazybone' Game Fools Elbows With Odd Shapes

BY CAPPY DICK

How highly developed is your elbow's sense of touch? The game of "Crazybone" gives you an opportunity to find out. A good time to play it is at a party when all the guests are sitting at the dining room table.

The idea is to see how many objects each player can correctly describe and identify when he touches them only with his elbow without, of course, seeing them.

First you must gather six or eight objects which feel quite different to the touch. Typical articles are shown in Figure 1 — an eraser, a ring, a small wire spring, a cherry, a piece of sandpaper, a coin, a pencil and so on. Let no person in the game see them in advance.

Ask each player at the table to roll up one sleeve to expose his elbow. Then, passing behind the players hold one of the objects against the elbow of the first player, then the second player and so on until all have had a chance to touch and describe it. Each player is allowed only one word of description. As his elbow touches the object he must say it is round, sharp, cold, rough, small, slippery, square, fluffy, etc.

When you have placed the object against everybody's elbow, go back to the first player and, in the same rotation, let them all guess what the object was. They may use as many words as they like this time. Each player who identifies the object gets 10 points, but don't disclose the correct answer until all have guessed.

A second object is touched to their elbows as before and again they describe and guess what it is. The player who has won the most points after all the objects have been used is the winner.

Shiocton FFA Sets Summer Program

SHIOCTON—The Future Farmers of America chapter at Shiocton High School will continue its program during the summer.

Monday Harvey Thoma, Sugar Bush feed mill operator, will address the chapter. The manager of the Greenville Co-op will be the speaker at the July 14 meeting and Jim Lautenschlager of the Shiocton Bank will speak of farm financing at the August meeting.

Victor M. Wawiora, adviser, said the meetings are a part of a service program and will be open to the public.

The Sky of Lights is a feature attraction at Druck's Electric, 234-236 Main street, Menasha. There are at least 500 lighting fixtures from which to choose, guaranteeing just the right fixture for you to use.

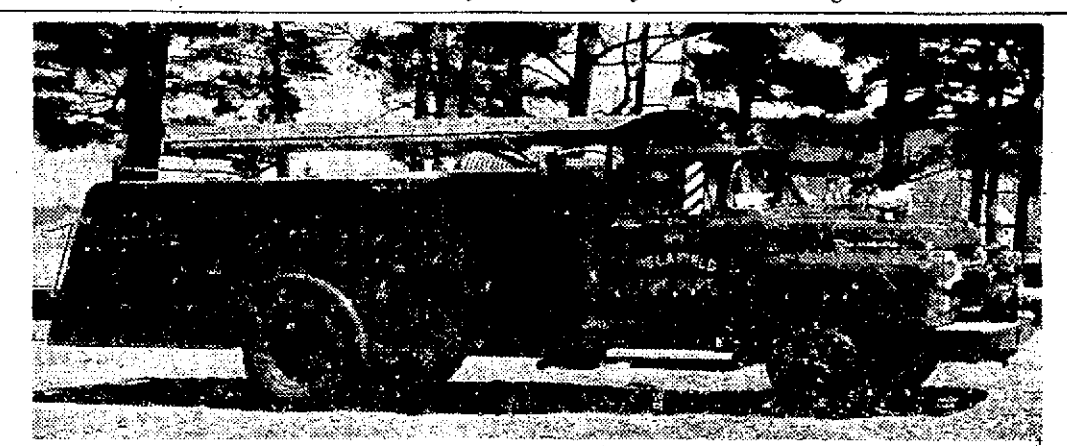

This Scene Isn't So Far Away as John Schoenike, owner of the Stalker Archery & Trailer Sales of Clintonville gazes at his fine catch of trout. In the background is an Avion aircraft constructed lifetime trailer, the perfect companion of the hunter or fisherman.

Catches of fine trout, like the one above taken last fall from a river near L'Anse, Mich., are fishing cabin. It can be your requisite common in the spring and fall on rivers and streams flowing into Lake Superior in northern Wisconsin, upper Michigan, Minnesota and Ontario, Canada. An Avion trailer can be your cabin in the woods, in the most desirable spot, for weekends of fun, relaxation and fish galore, advises John Schoenike. The Avion goes where you go. It is light, easy to tow and sweet to handle, Schoenike says. The trailer can be your hunting and fishing quarters while you vacation and photograph from lake to lake, through the Rocky Mountains and in and out the national parks. The trailer can also be used for a second home for seniors after retirement — to go where you have always wanted to go and see all the things you have never had time for before. Trike, Bike, Wagon or Stroller can make a happy summer vacation even happier for any boy or girl, according to Bill Callaway of Callaway Repair Shop. Callaway is the place to get your child some fun on wheels for the summer months. The shop is located at 204 Brien street, and the telephone number is PA 2-3296.

Whatever the age of your child, something on wheels for him to play with or ride on this summer, will make his vacation more exciting and fun and one to remember. A new or rebuilt secondhand item will make the summer months a time to be out in the fresh air and sunshine in healthful recreation. Callaways have fixed up many secondhand bikes and trikes, and will also order new ones for your little ones. Callaway's is located in Neenah, across from the Presbyterian Church parking lot. The owner, Bill Callaway, says it is unwise to let your child ride a bike with faulty brakes or in need of other repair. He advises that thoughtful parents check over equipment before summer vacation days begin. Callaway has had 15 years of experience in bike repair work. Any Fox Valley customers are assured of reliable service. Another good reason for visiting Callaway's is the large selection of bicycle accessories. Callaway's carries them all, including lights, generators, balance wheels, etc. Come over to Callaway's Repair Shop soon — and bring the youngsters along.

Something New Has Been Added at Melray, Inc., metal fabricators of Hortonville. It is a new machine that will speed up your work — a combination punch press, angle shear and copier, or notcher.

Melray, Inc., of Hortonville, has long been called the fire fighters' friend. The firm has built hundreds of fire trucks and truck bodies, such as seen in the picture above. Fire trucks and truck bodies are built according to the customer's specifications at Melray, Inc. Almost 20 years of experience in sound engineering design goes into every standard or customized combination fire truck pumper and tanker units which are especially designed for rural and small communities as well as lead units for city departments. Now the metal fabricator firm of Hortonville has something else in its shop. It is a new punch press, angle shear and copier. The machine will speed up your work and help you with your difficult tasks. This new machine punches holes up to 1", through 3/4" steel; it shears angles up to 3" X 3-1/2"; it shears 3/4" plates and notches up to 3/4" plate. Manager Ray Richards said today that he would be very happy to have readers come in or inquire about the performance of this new machine. The firm is located in Hortonville and the telephone number is SP 9-4842.

Robards Back, But Without Lauren Bacall

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Jason Robards Jr. is back in the United States, but without Lauren Bacall.

A marriage license was denied the couple in Vienna because Miss Bacall couldn't produce a death certificate for her late husband, Humphrey Bogart, and Robards lacked certification of his Mexican divorce from his wife, Rachel, last April.

Robards arrived here by plane last night, saying Miss Bacall remained in Paris "to have her hair fixed."

He added that she would arrive here today.

Concerning plans to marry Lauren, Jason said: "I love a girl and I want to marry her. What will work out, will work out."

Asked about reports of a split, the actor replied: "You can't split love and I love the girl."

As for reports that Austrian authorities frowned on marriages there of Hollywood personalities, Robards barked: "I'm a Broadway actor, so forget about Hollywood. I don't want to hear the name."

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 19-year-old girl who needs help before I end up in the bughouse. My parents argue and fight constantly. When I go to bed at night I hear them cursing, shouting and throwing things. It's been like this for as long as I can remember and it seems to be getting worse. They have been separated three times but they always go back together.

I hate to have friends over because I never know what sort of mood my folks will be in. They both drink a little and they will fight in front of anybody. I have talked to my mother about it but she says all families have little arguments and that I'm too sensitive.

I have a steady boy friend but I don't want to rush into marriage just to get out of this house. Please tell me what to do.

— Headache

DEAR ANN: I'm a grandmother whose heart is breaking. Six years ago my daughter left her husband. He was a lazy bum and didn't treat her right. She had to take a job out of the city because he had a violent temper and threatened her.

I took their five-month old baby and agreed to keep him until my daughter was able to send for him.

The boy is now in the first grade at school. He calls me Mommy and I love him as if he were my own child. Two weeks ago my daughter wrote that she married a fine man and wants the child back. I can't bear the thought of losing him. Please tell me what to do. — B.M.D.

be faced and dealt with realistically.

How much do American teenagers spend a year?

A colossal 10 and one-half billion dollars is spent every year by teenagers in the United States, according to The Public Relations Board. Most teens buy records and fountain pens. Boys buy sports equipment more than anything else. Girls buy lipsticks, hand lotion, blouses, sweaters and skirts.

"Teens have the predominant say in such areas as radio, record players, TV... not to speak of the dozens of family items — from food to automobiles." What a market!

Dear Headache: Your folks are not going to change, so your best bet is to invest in some wax ear-plugs.

Your suggestion that they drink "a little" leads me to suspect that they probably drink a lot. Suggest that they take each other to A.A. and discover the dignity and peace that comes with sobriety.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am being married in six weeks. My father passed away less than a year ago so we are having a simple ceremony in the minister's study with only the immediate family present.

My fiancé's sister is very bossy and she likes to run everything. I've managed to get along with her by keeping a respectable distance between us. She insists that I wear a white gown and veil because according to her, any girl who doesn't is admitting she hasn't "earned" it.

I think it would be foolish to spend money on a bridal outfit to wear for 30 minutes in front of nine people. My fiancé says it makes no difference to him. Shall I agree just to keep peace in the family? — Marge

Dear Marge: No. Your conclusion is logical and here is not. Don't do something you feel is senseless just to pacify your future sister-in-law. She's supposed to be a guest. How did she get into this act anyway?

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Before and After Is the Picture Above, showing an unused porch and how it was made into a popular, year-around porch for indoor-outdoor living. Tom Temple Window and Door Sales can install the DeVac glass walls at a smaller investment than the reader dreamed possible. Telephone number of the firm is RE 4-9700.

"You really have to see one to believe it," according to Tom Temple Window and Door Sales, 304 W. Parkway Blvd. The livability and the easy carefree upkeep in the new glass wall porches are a delight to any wife or mother.

A visit to some of the 100 Fox Cities' homes which now have this new addition can be arranged by Tom. It is then that one sees the children playing, out of the mud and rain, the baby napping in perfectly controlled ventilation, the entire family lurching, relaxing or entertaining in an atmosphere of informal, happy comfort.

Ask the lady of the house. She will tell you that the closed porch is easier to care for than an open one. The three glass panels adjust quickly and easily to any position and may be removed completely from the inside for washing. She will tell you that her De-Vac glass wall porch takes hours of wear and tear out of her living room and it is a family room in every sense of the word.

Ask the man of the house! He will tell you that the enclosure was economical and the best investment he has made in his home. In the winter the full-length fibre glass screen panels can be removed and glass storm panels substituted, affording winter protection, making the porch an all year around room.

Not Enough Wall Space? Make It Do According to Plan

Not enough wall space is so often a problem, especially in new homes. How can furniture be arranged attractively in the wall-space room? Or how is it possible even to fit in enough of it to supply basic needs.

Best solutions, even reasonably workable solutions, are no guessing matter. It might not have been disastrous once upon a time to buy furniture in standard sizes and take a chance on their settling pleasantly enough in one room or another, but with new variety of furniture sizes and the many window walls, half-walls and big fireplaces, today's furniture must be bought according to plan. Careful plan, that makes the right decisions before the writing of the first check.

The plan must begin with evaluation of needs. For a living room, how many should seating provide for? Must at least one table be big enough to assist with the serving of refreshments or meals? Is one chest enough for put-away space, or will clutter creep in if there isn't more storage?

Not even professional decorators can guess the answers to all the furnishing questions and none of them try. With exact needs firmly in mind, the plan must proceed on paper. This means on exact floor plan of the room. Every dimension must be measured to the inch and set down accurately before arrangement ideas can be tried.

And arrangement ideas can be tried, any number of them, on the floor plan with cut-outs corresponding to actual furniture and in scale with the floor plan. It is clear this way that a sofa of one length won't do, but another will. There's no doubt about whether or not a table will crowd a corner, or how many storage units of what size can range along a wall. If furniture that is liked in the store is measured and corresponding cut-outs are used to represent it on the floor plan, it is easy to determine the pieces to buy.

The floor plan can be drawn on any paper, and cut-outs can be made for it, too, but the whole thing is so much simpler with the Furniture Arrangement Kit devised especially for Designing Woman readers. It supplies the paper, ready-made cut-outs, instruction and ideas, and is ready to mail to you for 50 cents and your request sent to me at this newspaper.

Sheinwold on Bridge Try Chicago Bridge to Hurry Up Your Games

Rubber bridge is the traditional fact that it cannot be used to form of the game. You need two games to win the rubber. In the course of getting two games you may pile up a few part scores and dozens of penalties for contracts that are not made.

The average rubber lasts for only five or six hands, but we all have endured rubbers that dragged on for twenty or more hands and two hours or more. If

Most scores are the same as in ordinary rubber bridge. For making a game when your side is vulnerable, you get 500 points; 300 if you are not vulnerable.

Regular rubber bridge is a more fascinating game as a steady diet, but Chicago is a perfect substitute when time is short or when you have five or six players. Try it instead of the last rubber when you want to avoid playing too late.

Plan Your Entries
It isn't always enough to have the right idea; you may have to execute it properly. For example, you may have to time the play so that you're in the right hand at the right time.

West leads the queen of spades, and you see the right idea almost immediately. You plan to draw trumps, ruff out your losing spade and get rid of the diamonds. If you can do this before too many clubs are led, you may not have to risk a club finesse and your contract may be completely safe.

When the hand was actually played, South grasped the idea. He won the first trick in dummy with the king of spades and led a trump to the ace. On seeing the bad trump break he led two more rounds of trumps.

Declarer then led the ace of spades and ruffed a spade in dummy. This forced him to begin the diamonds by leading from the dummy.

West won with the ten of diamonds and led a club through dummy. East won a trick with the queen of clubs and got out safely with a diamond. East could then wait for his other club trick to defeat the contract.

Must Lead Diamonds
South must lead diamonds for the first time from his own hand. What's more, he must first draw trumps and ruff out a spade.

The first two tricks were all right, but South should not draw any more trumps. Instead, South takes the ace of spades and ruffs a spade with dummy's queen of hearts to protect himself against an over-ruff.

Declarer continues with a trump from dummy, finessing the king and drawing a third round of trumps with the king. That takes care of spades and hearts, and leaves the lead in the South hand, where it belongs.

South then leads a diamond from his hand. West can step up with the ace of diamonds, if he likes, and can lead a club. East gets the queen of clubs but cannot get out. East must take the king of diamonds and must then lead a club up to dummy's ace-ten. (Any other return by East you have a five-handed game, with one player waiting impatiently for his turn to play, a long drawn-out rubber can be a nuisance to everybody.

The problem is solved in our leading bridge clubs by a variation of bridge called Chicago, after the city where it is said to have originated. A rubber of Chicago consists of four hands, no more and no less. After roughly twenty minutes, the four hands come to an end, and the kibitzer can get into the game.

The vulnerability alters hand by hand, depending on which hand it is rather than on whether your side has previously scored a game. In the first hand neither side is vulnerable. In the fourth hand both sides are vulnerable. In the second and third hand the dealer's side is vulnerable.

A passed hand is recaptured by the same dealer. A part score counts toward game, but a part score made on the fourth deal gets a bonus of 100 points to make up for

Sisters Renew Friendship After 40 Years' Separation

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Auf Wiedersehen."
With these words two sisters parted in 1921. Now, 40 years later, they will again say goodbye when Mrs. Hilda Wilhelm, Cologne, Germany concludes a month-long visit with Mrs. Gertrude Peters, 1604 W. Rogers Ave.

Mrs. Wilhelm was 18 years old when Mrs. Peters and her husband came to the United States. The sisters knew it might be some time before they would see each other again, but neither expected that 40 years and a world war would intervene.

Mrs. Peters and her husband lived in Houghton, Mich., for a few years, then moved to Appleton. The couple reared five children. Since her husband's death, Mrs. Peters has been employed in the cafeteria at the YMCA.

Owned Shop Store
Mrs. Wilhelm married and moved from her home town of Halle a Salle in central Germany to Seitz. Her husband owned a large shoe store. When Hitler came to power and he had to serve in the Germany Army, she operated the store herself.

Sitting in the comfortable living room of the Peters' home, Mrs. Wilhelm recalled those years during and after the war. She speaks no English, yet her hazel eyes and quick gestures made it almost possible to guess the words her sister translated. At times Mrs. Peters, would forget that her sister couldn't speak English, and would repeat my question in the same language. Then they would laugh with warmth and affection at each other and the long years of separation appeared very far away.

End of War
When the war ended, Mrs. Wilhelm recalled that her husband was imprisoned. The Italians and Russians ransacked their store and stole everything they could carry off. What was left, they destroyed.

Seitz was occupied by the Americans for six weeks. Mrs. Wilhelm remembered. Then Berlin was made a free city and the Russians took over Eastern Germany.

When her husband was released from prison he rebuilt his store and his home. Things went well for a number of years; then the Russians arrested Wilhelm and tried to make him give up his business. After four arrests, the couple decided to try to leave the Russian section at the first opportunity.

Decided to Leave
The Wilhelm's only daughter, JoAnn, had escaped to Cologne in 1953, two years earlier. When her parents decided to leave, she convinced a member of the Russian police force that she was being married and talked him into giving her parents a pass to attend the wedding. The Wilhelm's, precious pass in hand, walked away from everything they owned and traveled to Cologne. They never returned. The Russians took over their home and store.

Begin Again
So, in 1955, the couple was forced to begin all over again. Mr. Wilhelm found employment repairing shoes. His wife worked in a large store. The couple worked day and night and finally saved enough to start a little store of their own. As neighboring shops moved to other locations, the Wilhelm's expanded. Their present store is larger and better than the one left behind in Seitz.

The daughter who helped them effect their escape to the western part of Germany is now married and has a son, Michael. She lives in a small town near Cologne.

Mrs. Wilhelm stated that conditions in Germany are much worse under Russian rule than they were when Hitler was in power.

Recall Old Friends
All the hardships endured during the years the sisters were apart — bombings, long nights in underground bomb shelters, rationing, fear, problems of beginning a business over again — have been talked over during the last few weeks and settled in the Russian zone. She's not sure, however, about making such a long trip.

June 29 is Mrs. Wilhelm's departure date. She will leave Milwaukee at 1 p. m. and arrive at her home at 9:30 a. m. the next morning. As she said, "It took 40 years to make a trip that takes less than a day." Both sisters hope that the next "auf Wiedersehen" will be much sooner than that.

Parents of the bride couple are Mrs. Roman Schierl, 516 Seventh St., and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Koehler, 236 First St.

Miss Janice Gullickson served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Marlene Schierl, sister of the bride, and Miss Marlene Weber.

David Koehler was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were James Koehler and Robert Schierl, brothers of the bride couple. Ushers were Ronald Burr, cousin of the bridegroom, and Roger Schierl, another brother of the bride.

A dinner was served at Poinsettia Tearoom. A reception and dance will be at Marathon Union Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Koehler are graduates of St. Mary Catholic High School. The bridegroom attended the University of Wisconsin and Appleton School of Business.

When they return from a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin, the newlyweds will live at 618½ Fourth St.

would allow dummy to ruff while South discards a club.)

West cannot gain anything by playing the ten of diamonds on the first round of that suit. Dummy covers with the queen, and East is forced to win the trick. East's only safe exit is a diamond, and West wins. West must lead a club, and East gets the queen of clubs. At this time East must return a club to dummy or give declarer a ruff-and-discard.

The important thing is to limit West to one diamond trick. This can be done if South leads the first diamond from his own hand rather than from the dummy.

Four Fish Canadian Bush 3 Days for About $10 Each

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

How much will it cost four men for three days of wilderness fishing on a Canadian bush lake?

The writer and three companions, L. A. Lawrence, Ralph Raiche, and Post-Crescent Photographer Ed Deschler, Jr., all of Appleton, went north to White Lake, Ontario, on assignment to find out.

The result: Excluding the $6.50 fee for a non-resident angling license, the cost per man comes slightly over $10. The total bill was $40.81.

Planned Now — DeLuxe Trip

Before you raise too skeptical an eyebrow, consider these facts: We fished and traveled without benefit of guide service; we deliberately planned a non-deluxe trip, cutting away all the frills and leaving just the basics we were after—fishing, eating and sleeping; we pooled our gear.

This is how we spent the money:

Gasoline for car, $21.55.

Food for camp, $8.96. (3 pounds of lard, 65 cents; 2 dozen eggs, 85 cents; 2 pounds of butter, $1.39; 4 loaves of bread, 95 cents; 2 pounds of coffee, $1.39; bacon, $1.35; toilet paper, 26 cents; salt, 13 cents.)

Eating on way, $8.85.

Round-trip ferry across Soo, $3.45.

Total cost, excluding licenses, $40.81.

Automobile costs are the greatest single expense. White

Lake, by the mileage indicator on Lawrence's station wagon, is exactly 596 miles from Appleton. You reach it by crossing over at Sault Ste. Marie and taking new Highway 17 north.

We selected White Lake for several reasons. First of all, the writer had been there before and had some knowledge of the lake. We knew it to offer excellent walleye and northern pike fishing. Secondly, it's a waterway which provides access deep into the bush and that is what we wanted to do—get off the beaten track. Our camp was about 8 miles into the bush off the road.

Limit Amount of Food

Since we wanted to hold our expenses to a minimum, we decided early to limit the amount of food taken along and depend, largely, on a fish diet. This is somewhat hazardous since the possibility always exists that nothing will be caught. We figured, however, that with the eggs, bacon and bread we could get along for three days even if we didn't catch any fish.

Our equipment included: Four sleeping bags, a camp stove and bottled gas (this is quicker than a campfire and more dependable besides taking up little room), fishing gear including both spin and bait rods, two outboard motors—one for a spare, 17 gallons of outboard fuel, a 14-foot fiberglass boat and a small duck skiff which we towed behind, warm clothing including a full change of clothes, three freezer chests—two remained in the car to hold the fish we intended to bring home, incidental camp gear such as a hand ax, flashlights, knives, small shovel, rope, sheets of plastic, cooking and eating utensils and a gas lantern.

If you intend to fish this area along the new highway at all, you will be obliged to bring a boat with you. There are no rentals there. Neither are there places close at hand to purchase gasoline. Everything must be brought with you. If you do not have a boat you must fish in such water as is available along the road and these now are crowded almost beyond belief.

Didn't Take Tent

We did not take a tent because we thought it to be excess equipment. This, however, is a matter of personal choice and it might be safer to bring one along if you plan a trip here. At the least, provide yourself with something to make a lean-to in the event of rain.

We took no fresh water with us. The lake consists of clear, cold water and this is what we cooked with and drank.

The cost of any trip can be adjusted in one direction or another depending on your desires. We did not include in the final accounting money spent for personal items such as cigarettes or refreshments along the way. You can spend as much or as little on this sort of thing as you like. Also not counted was outboard fuel already in the tanks. We could have eliminated the $8.85 item for eating along the way. Again, this is a personal choice.

If you should choose to fish White Lake yet this summer, you must remember this: You will not be alone on the lake.

The road has made it available to anyone with the inclination to drive there and fish it. Many are doing just that.

But the majority of fishermen remain close to the road. You will not be crowded if you boat up the lake toward the far end where the Shibotic River comes in. Check your map before you start. The river now is choked with pulp wood but this will be clear by July.

If you should come to White Lake and boat in to the mouth of the Shibotic, pause for a moment just where the river meets the lake. Look to your right and you'll spot high, rocky ground with openings here and there through the trees. This is where the writer and his companions made camp. The bay, also to the right, is where Lawrence hooked and landed an 18-pound northern.

This Is The Route

This is the route we followed to White Lake: U. S. 41 to Rapid River, Mich.; Highway 2 from Rapid River to 77 at Blaney Park, Mich.; Highway 77 from Blaney Park to Highway 28; Highway 28 to the Soo. The ferry boats at the Soo operate all night during the summer, we were told. On the way up, we arrived at the dock at 1:30 a. m. We were across and through Customs by 2 a. m. Our round-trip on the ferry cost $3.45 for car, trailer and passengers. Highway 17 is just across the International Border. It goes both north and south. Take the north route to White Lake.

Complete driving time for us from Appleton to White Lake was just over 14 hours. We drove straight through taking turns at the wheel.

Canadian Fish Hit Best on Yellow Lead-Heads; Weather Warm but Flies Pester White Lake Anglers

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

WHITE LAKE, Ontario — We were working a back bay of this big Canadian lake when L. A. "Pappy" Lawrence, Appleton, flicked a small silver and red "bleeding minnow" toward the rocky shoreline. He retrieved slowly and, about 15 feet from the boat, the big northern hit.

Lawrence's spin reel screamed as the big fish stripped the light monofilament line from it. The rod bent in a fascinating arc. The fight was on.

This wasn't exactly our introduction to fishing here but, as it turned out, it was to be the high point of three days of wilderness angling which produced for us a fine example of good Canadian fishing.

All Night Drive

Lawrence, Post-Crescent Photographer Ed Deschler Jr., Ralph Raiche and the writer had arrived at White Lake that Friday morning after an all night drive from Appleton. We had an indication of things to come shortly after arrival when we fished for enough walleyes for noon lunch. In about 20 minutes we had boated four pike and were off for shore to make camp and have lunch.

Always a good walleye lake, we arrived at a time when the fish were hitting especially good. Our original intention was to boat up the Shibotic River which empties into White Lake but the river was filled with pulp logs. We quickly adjusted our plans and made camp on some high ground nearby.

We fished the lake three days, Friday, Saturday and most of Sunday. (Other stories on the trip appear elsewhere on this page.)

111 Fish Taken

Counting the fish we ate in camp, the limits we brought home and those we released, we took exactly 111 walleyes and northern pike during the three-day period. Even at that there were times when we fished hard with no results.

That noon we ate walleye fillets with bread, butter and coffee while a light wind moaned through the pine and spruce stands, causing the lake to lap at the rocky shore in a gentle, rhythmic beat. If you think that's hard to take you should check your tastes.

We fished through the afternoon, keeping six pike for our evening meal. That night, about an hour before dusk, we took a turn at a small bay not far from camp. Lawrence, Raiche and the writer were in the big boat while Deschler fished alone from the skiff we had towed along.

When the northern hit Lawrence's "bleeding minnow" you could tell immediately it was a good one. The fish made several powerful runs, putting heavy pressure on the light spinning gear. Lawrence finally brought the fish around where Raiche netted it. We estimated its weight at 15 pounds.

Checked By Warden

A short time later, an Ontario Conservation Warden, Michale Wilton, checked our licenses. He had a scale with him and the northern weighed in at 18 1/2 pounds. It measured 42 inches in length.

Wilton told us he is usually stationed out of Sudbury, Ontario, but that he was on special assignment in the White Lake area for the Department of Lands and Forests to check fishing pressure along the new highway which winds through this country along the north shore of Lake Superior. He said Lawrence's northern was stars and feel particular joy because he knew he was alone.

The man who remembers all this must be prepared for change. But then he walks to the shore of a lake and spots a moose track. Beside it is a broken beer bottle. Then he's sad all over again.

This Scene Greeted Appleton fishermen Ralph Raiche, L. A. Lawrence, Photographer Ed Deschler, Jr., and writer Jay Reed when they returned to camp after a morning of fishing on White Lake in Ontario. A bear, which had been chased away earlier in the morning, returned to rip apart the group's camp.

Black Bear Unhappy; Meal Ticket Departed

WHITE LAKE, Ontario—Some of the eight large walleyes we had where here on the shores of this Canadian bush lake there roams an unhappy black bear. The reason: His meal ticket has departed.

L. A. Lawrence, Ralph Raiche, Photographer Ed Deschler Jr., and the writer (Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor Jay Reed) did not drive the 600-odd miles here to feed the bear, but that, however, is what happened and the incident cost us one day of our planned four-day fishing trip.

We had put in two full days and nights fishing this fabulous walleye and northern lake and were resting comfortably in our sleeping bags when, about 5 a. m. Sunday, Raiche was awakened by noises on the lake. He unzipped his bag, sat up and checked the lake. He saw nothing. As he turned to slide back into the bag he saw a bear pawing through our cooking equipment a few feet away.

What to do Next
Raiche lay quietly wondering what to do next when the bear began clawing at a freezer chest which contained our food supply. The noise awakened Deschler who was even closer to the bear.

At that point the bear picked up a container of lard and scampered several yards away from our camp site, but still in full view.

The activity, by this time, had awakened Lawrence and the writer. Lawrence, who also acted as our camp cook, noted immediately that the bear had "our cookin' grease." He took several steps toward the animal and it dropped the container and retreated into the bush.

After we checked the camp to see what damage had been done we walked the few yards to the lake shore where we had staked

Flat Water Clue To Good Fishing

Where are the fish hiding?

That's a question that needs answering, most anglers will agree. Well, here's one answer that's certainly worth a try. If you're looking for a school of big bass (and who isn't), go out to the center of a likely lake just before sunset. Watch for flat water surrounded by a slight ripple. This is the clue that there's a dropoff on the bottom below. The calm water indicates the shallow area. Work your lure in one of these spots for a lunker largemouth.

There's many a slip betwixt an unscaled fish and a fish dinner. That fish may be dead, but often it seems determined to give the angler a bad time right up to the bitter end. To hold a fish tight,

Tackle Tips: Here's a Way To Keep Plastic Worm Lures

The new plastic-worm lures are fine on the end of a hook, but many an angler has had cause for despair when upon opening his tackle box he has discovered the worms have melted all over everything. It's a sticky situation. Here's the answer. Next time, place your worms in a jar filled with water. The advantages are obvious.

When the action is slow here's a tip that will speed things up if you are fishing for pike or similar fresh-water game fish. Before you go out, get some fish blood, either from your local fish store or from your own cleanings. Soak several pipe cleaners in the liquid and let dry. When you're getting anxious for a strike, wrap one of the cleaners around your leader in front of your lure. When it hits the water the blood comes off and any fish in the area will be attracted to the hook.

Anglers who tie their own flies need no blacktop because there were no cars. Soft moonlight, then, provided all the light any one ever needed. A moose could come down to a lake and munch hilly pad bulbs without feeling a thing. Soak the feathers in its gut liquid bleach. The fuzz just fizzes away.

Tourists Flock To Canada in Great Numbers

Tent Villages Numerous Along New Highway 17

WAWA, Ontario — A highway opened the door to this vast wilderness region of Ontario last fall and tourists this summer are pouring through in almost unbelievable numbers.

That section of Highway 17 north from Sault Ste. Marie between Batchawana and Marathon is drawing the heaviest pressure. It is there that foot roaring rivers and sparkling streams which offer top speckled trout fishing—or at least they did before man arrived with his machines and tents, tin cans, bottles and fishing gear.

There is hardly a lake or stream between those two points which is not occupied by a tent village of some size. Where there is no water people pitch tents along the road or park camping vans.

They stand and wait in line to launch boats just as if they were at Shaw's Landing or Fremont. They compete for the best camp sites.

Most of the tourists who come onto the "Circle Route" are content to stay right along the road. That is the reason for the congestion. The scenery, now, is beautiful and, perhaps, they feel there is no need to get away from the crowd.

And they keep coming in ever-increasing numbers.

Wawa, which once had a dirt street and very few buildings, now has a broad, black-topped main stem on which is sprouting brick and glass buildings at a breathless rate. At night the town is bathed in the bland light of modern street lamps.

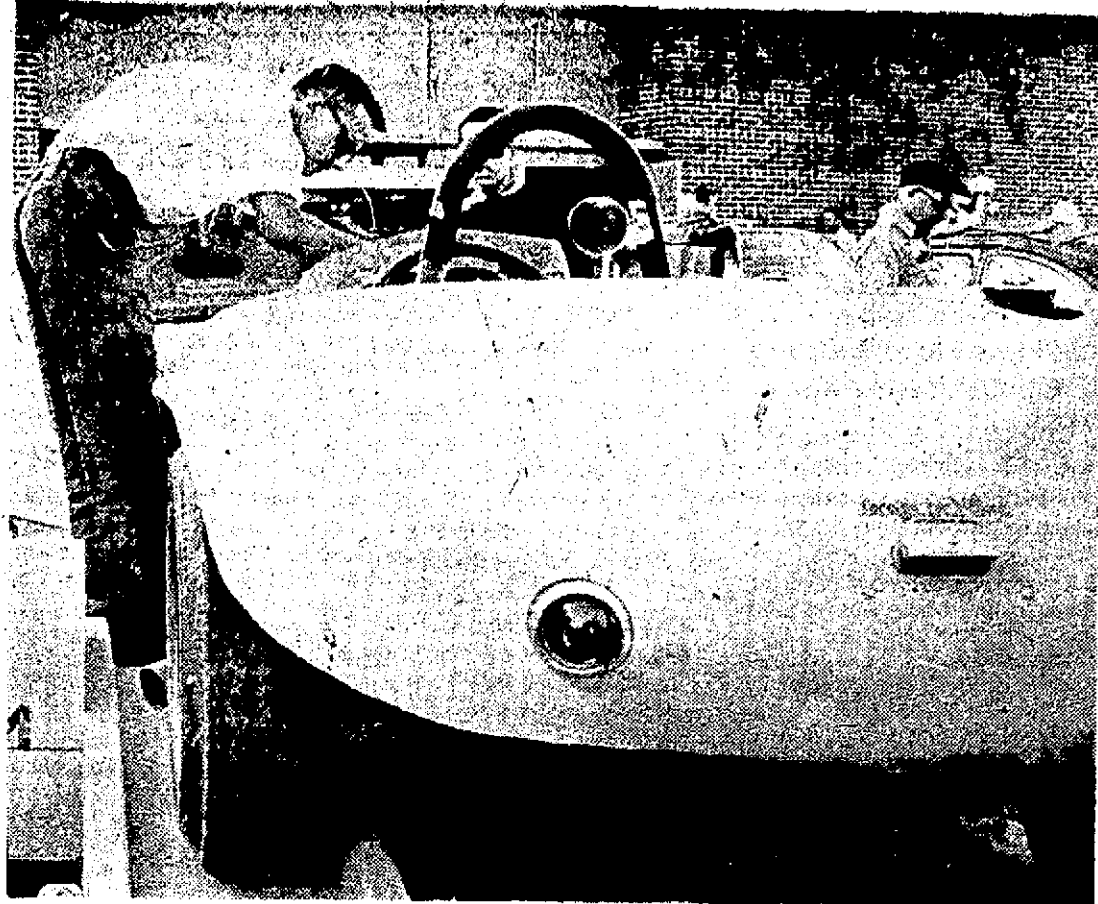

Name of Progress

All of this has come to Canada in the name of progress, it can be assumed, many people are happy for it.

But, for a man who remembers how it used to be here before there was a road, it is all more than a little saddening.

There was a time when they needed no blacktop because there were no cars. Soft moonlight, then, provided all the light any one ever needed. A moose could come down to a lake and munch hilly pad bulbs without feeling a thing. Soak the feathers in its gut liquid bleach. The fuzz just fizzes away.

Camping Season to Open For Gardner Dam Scouters

Camping at Gardner Dam Boy Scout Camp gets underway July 2, according to Dwight Donelson, Valley Scout executive. Scout officials are predicting a record season for the 1,600-acre camp, 30 miles north of Shawano.

Openings still exist for all camp periods, although the July 16-22 week has only a limited number. Camp officials emphasized that the camp will be ready to go on opening day.

Camp leaders and crews will spend the week before opening in a program of training and getting the camp ready for the first crew of campers. A total of six periods have been scheduled.

47 On Staff
A full-time staff of 47 will be on duty during the entire season. In addition, each Boy Scout troop will provide adult leaders during its week of camping.

Religious services are planned to provide scouts of all faiths to worship.

Included on the program of activities are hikes and nature study, pioneering, archery, fishing, rowing, canoeing, swimming and lifesaving training. Singing around the campfire is a highlight of the week.

Camping Programs
Different types of camping programs are available. Scouts may come and "rough" it, camping in their own tents, providing their own meals and using camp facilities. Campers generally use all camp facilities in camp-owned tents and cots, using scout camp equipment and taking meals in the dining hall.

Cost ranges from $1 to $21 a week, depending upon who furnishes food, equipment and leadership. Basic dining hall fee is $13 a week.

Reservations must be made in advance, scout officials emphasized. Reservations can be made through local scout troops. Further information can be obtained from scout headquarters in Appleton.

Auto Driven by Little Chute Man Fails to Make Curve

COMBINED LOCKS—Four Fox Cities residents were injured when a car in which they were riding failed to round a curve and overturned about 2:45 a.m. today on County Trunk Z, just east of Combined Locks.

The car was eastbound at the curve and knocked over guard posts, rolled over four times, then came to rest partially on its side.

Caught Under Car
Most seriously injured was Miss Lambie who was thrown from the car by the impact, but had her foot caught under the car. Kimberly and Combined Locks police helped lift the car to remove her.

She suffered a broken ankle, severe cuts, shock, back and head injuries.

Miss Wright had deep head cuts, possible fractured ribs, shock and head and neck injuries.

Tousey received back and knee injuries. Van Gompel reported minor bumps and bruises.

All four were taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital by Larry's Ambulance. Van Gompel was released after treatment.

Injunction Blocks Closing Of Menasha Gay 90's Bar

Mayor, 10 Aldermen To Appear at Hearing Before Cane on June 26

MENASHA — Efforts of the city administration to close the Gay 90's Tavern, 10 Tayco St., by denying Class B beer and liquor tavern licenses, were blocked Friday night by a temporary injunction.

Named as defendants and ordered to appear for the city in Winnebago Municipal Court before Judge Arnold J. Cane at 2 p. m. Monday, June 26 are Mayor John Klein and all 10 aldermen.

Judge Cane ordered the city to issue the Class B licenses to Kenneth Schavel, owner of the building, or show cause why the licenses should not be granted.

Denied May 16

The licenses in question were specifically denied May 16 to Wayne and Betty Jane Wolf by the council in a 9-1 vote. Mrs. Wolf has operated the tavern since last July 1. The licenses were issued to Lenz-Gazewski Post 152, American Legion that same night.

Schavel's petition contends the council is denying him a property right. He says the building has been a tavern since 1933 and the premises are set up for tavern use only. Schavel operated the tavern from 1944 to 1956. He then leased it to various tenants, who also qualified for tavern licenses.

In his petition, Schavel charges that City Atty. Richard J. Stefens, up to June 7 Legion post commander, was involved in a conspiracy "to unlawfully deprive the property of (Schavel) of the alcoholic beverage licenses and transfer the same to a new business building" (the Legion post).

Legion Applied
(Council minutes show that the Legion applied for the licenses April 18 and Schavel May 15, the night before the council acted to deny the Gay 90's licenses. Wols applied April 18. The council acted to issue the licenses to the Legion because its application predated Schavel's.)

Schavel's petition contends that Stefens incorrectly advised the common council on the law regarding the tavern license issuance, that it could deny the licenses to the premises because of objections raised to the applicant. The petition cites part of the

Red China Called Hungry, Ruthless

1,200 4-H Club Members Hear Description of Life in Country

Post-Crescent News Service

MADISON—Hungry, aggressive, industrious, intoxicated — that's Red China.

A Red China, more than 1,200 Wisconsin 4-H Club members and leaders were warned here Friday, that looms as a future prospect for triggering atomic war.

John Strohm, widely known author, editor and world traveler, spoke at the closing session of the State 4-H Club Week on the University of Wisconsin campus.

Strohm persuaded the Chinese to let him into their country several months ago. He came back, he said, frighteningly impressed.

Can Afford War

"The Chinese say they are the only nation that can afford atomic war," Strohm reported. "They could lose 300 million people and still have more than 300 million left."

One-quarter of the world's people, he said, are Chinese. Western scientists believe they will have the atom bomb in another year or so.

Strohm described Russia as a constant threat to world peace, but China a greater one. With Russia the real danger is its skill and ruthlessness in spreading its own brand of communism by persuasion.

Backing Off

"Russia seems to be backing off from pure communism, and more emphasis is being put on incentive and profit," Strohm said.

"This is sinful in Red China. That is why I nominate Peking as the real capital of Marxism."

"And Red China seems almost intoxicated with running its own show. I am sure Khrushchev spends sleepless nights worrying about what is happening there," the speaker continued.

Eager Men

Chinese may starve to death, but there are eager men and women to take their places and the rulers don't seem to mind the losses.

"My first impression of Red China was the tremendous Hate America campaign that is being waged," Strohm said. "There is a frenzy of production, the people are willing to work long hours, and they are constantly told that America is a devil that must be crushed."

During the next 26 years, the speaker told the young people, they will be called upon to face one of the greatest challenges of the ages.

Recreation Is An Important part of the special school for children of migrant workers being conducted at St. Mary Catholic Church, Chilton. Here the Rev. Raymond Conard, who organized the school, helps a youngster to a seat on the merry-go-round.

Catholic Parish Organizes Migrants' Children's School

CHILTON — A vacation school for children of migrant workers, for the children of families residing at the Brillion camp.

Three Nuns

The children arrive at about 9:30 a.m. and are divided into primary and advanced classes. Three parish teaching nuns, Sisters M. Adrene, M. Mercedes and M. Eustacia, are in charge of instruction which consist of film strips, Bible study and academic work.

There is a recreation period and the children are served a hot lunch prepared by the Christian Mothers Society of the parish before they are taken home.

Father Conard, who has worked with the migrant workers for several years, also has distributed playground equipment to each of the three camps as well as coloring books and reading material for young and old.

In somewhat missionary fashion, Father Conard tours the camps attending to the spiritual needs of the adults.

Clothing also has been collected and distributed.

C of C Opposes Aid to Education

NEENAH — The Congressional Action Committee of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce has registered opposition to bills which would provide federal aid to education.

The two bills are the Thompson bill, dealing with subsidies for school construction and payment of teacher salaries, and the Green bill, dealing with loans and grants.

Opposition was based on the grounds of alleged recent progress in education making federal aid unnecessary and because the bills "obviously are aimed at

Family Plans Different Father's Day for Dad

NEW YORK (AP) — Mother was cajoled into putting on his best suit and escorted to the family bus. He was startled when Junior drove the car into the parking lot of the "Sirloin Gulch" restaurant.

"Every year I give dad a necktie," she told her children. "Sis, you always give him a pair of socks. And Junior, you usually give him a tie clasp—or something else he never wears and you happen to need."

Surprise Party

Fire at Kaukauna Residence Causes Over $2,000 Loss

KAUKAUNA — A fire at the residence of Mrs. J. J. Haass, 422 Park St., caused more than $2,000 damage about 6:15 p.m. Friday.

According to Fire Chief William Haupt, a workman was burning paint from the house with a blow torch when wood shingles beneath the asbestos shingle covering ignited.

It is believed the shingle smoldered for some time before the fire was discovered. There was no one home at the time.

Firemen were forced to tear off part of the roof, Haupt said, to get at the fire. Ceilings and roof rafters were charred and there was extensive water damage.

4-H Club Wins Tour For Conservation Work

DE PERE — Its possible to get bonus mileage out of sound club work, the Rockland Boys 4-H club realized this week.

Because of the outstanding character of their club conservation project, the Rockland group will be guests on a three-day state tour sponsored by Midland Cooperative. The boys will gather at Devils Lake Sunday and take a conservation trip in the Wisconsin River valley.

Rockland is one of three 4-H clubs in the state to be recognized.

The club went into conservation a year ago by collecting some 200 Christmas trees and distributing them in the township as shelters and feeding centers for wildlife.

The boys planted 2,000 multi-flora rose and 125 white pine seedlings at a club conservation area. The club also went into pheasant raising and released in the refuge were some 400 birds.

A setting of mallard duck eggs also was hatched successfully in the refuge pond. The pond itself, originating in small springs on the property, was expanded and improved with tractor and manpower.

In fall the club wildlife refuge reflected the bounty of nature on adjacent agricultural lands. Corn stalks, small grains, hay and even pumpkins were set out for winter use by small game and birds.

Boys nominated to make the conservation tour include Mike Welch, Larry Peeters, Dave VanGheem, Dick, Francis and Mike Hutgens, Ralph Goffard, Norbert DeBuckelar and John Nusbaum, of a dad on Father's Day.

When the attraction is "how low priced" rather than "how good," certain corners must be cut which, of course, lowers standards. As in any commodity or service, you get what you pay for . . . particularly in dry cleaning and laundry.

Instead of the questionable economy of a "bargain," we prefer to give you the full measure of value in dry cleaning . . . extra steps in cleansing the apparel . . . extra gentle care in handling each individual fabric . . . and all the skill and knowledge our staff of dry cleaning specialists command.

Berlin, Germany at Core of Awesome Clash With Russia

Mistake by Khrushchev Over Fate of City Could Mean War

BY DAVID M. NICHOL
Chicago Daily News Service

BONN, Germany — In the spring of 1945 the shooting war in Europe ground to an end in Germany, where it had its beginning six years earlier.

This old continent was shattered, exhausted and bled white and was yearning for peace. The United States, emerging reluctantly as the strongest power in the Western world and still nursing a great many illusions, had yet to settle with Japan.

That done, or so it was thought by most people, survivors would head home, mind their own business, try to patch up the wreckage and live happily ever after.

In retrospect it is possible now to see that a new type of war had begun—a conflict that would dominate the second half of the 20th Century and engulf vast regions previously almost untouched.

Maps of the world would change, names and colors and boundaries, in bewildering succession as nations were born or were cut up.

Arms races would dwarf anything in the past in cost and destructiveness and engage alike the smallest particles of the atom and limitless regions of space.

The Communist bloc would thrust in every direction, probing for weak spots in the free world's defenses, threatening with rockets that would put New York and Chicago in the front lines, utilizing the techniques of subversion and revolution perfected over 40 years of assiduous experiment.

And once again at the core of this awesome and universal clash would be Germany and Berlin.

Berlin Role
For this there are a variety of reasons. Militarily, the "Iron Curtain," which divides Germany and stretches from the Baltic to the Mediterranean, roughly to the high-water mark of the Soviet armies' advance during World War II.

Only in part of Austria, and there under circumstances that

It was almost 21 years ago when David M. Nichol first flew into Germany as a Daily News Foreign Service correspondent.

From that day Nichol has been deeply immersed in the fate of Germany. He covered World War II from various vantage points, including Bern, Switzerland and Moscow.

The Nuernberg trials, Berlin blockade, German election crises, and more recently, the Eichmann trial have all been reported under the Nichol by-line.

Nichol has developed key contacts with refugees from Iron Curtain countries during his long stay in Bonn, Germany, since the war.

brought them military advantage, have the Communists voluntarily surrendered control of any portion of the vast Eastern European territory they overran in pursuit of Hitler's forces.

Soviet-type societies have been introduced everywhere behind this line, with the single exception of beleaguered West Berlin. Economically, Germany is Europe's richest reservoir of indusground and warning system for Soviet intentions.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization alliance was a direct result of Soviet efforts to remove the Western Allies forcibly from Berlin by means of a year-long blockade.

The airlift made it possible for Berliners to resist the blockade, which they did heroically. The Western Allies repaid this courage and loyalty with the most solemn pledges to resist any new attack on the city's liberties by every means, including H-bombs, should it be necessary.

The growth of this alliance and repeated pledges to Berlin have given political significance to the area far beyond its already great intrinsic value.

If it cannot be preserved in freedom, if the West Germans decide that the Western alliance is shaky and ineffective, most of the uncommitted nations and many of America's allies would begin looking to Moscow rather than Washington.

Move to U. S. Shores

The cold war would move from distant regions to United States shores. Americans have had some foretaste of what this might be like in Cuba.

To Nikita Khrushchev and his followers this simply would be confirmation of the historical process they believe is inevitable and which will end in destruction of the free world's way of life.

President Kennedy tried in Vienna to persuade the Soviet premier that was an error. The extent of his success remains to be seen.

How did the free world get itself

'Loose Ends' Add To Berlin Morass

The victorious Allies at the end of World War II divided Germany into four occupation zones, with the United States, the Soviet Union, England and France each assuming control of one. They also agreed to administer Berlin on a four-power basis, even though it lay entirely within the Soviet zone of occupation.

But the details on access to Berlin from the Western zones never were pinned down, and therein lay much of the subsequent trouble.

The situation was not improved when, in September, 1955, the Soviet Union turned over control of its occupation zone to the East German Communist government.

It was the stated purpose of the Allies that the ultimate disposition of the German problem was for free elections, to choose representatives who would decide on the country's future, presumably reunification. The Allies then would negotiate peace treaties with the German government.

trial skills and capacities. Since this new type of war, which is called "cold" but isn't, also is a war for production, Germany is a major prize.

Tip the Balance

In Soviet hands, all Germany would tip the balance of industrial output heavily in favor of the Soviet bloc.

Communist-ruled East Germany, representing only about one-third of the country, is Soviet Russia's biggest industrial producer outside the Soviet Union itself.

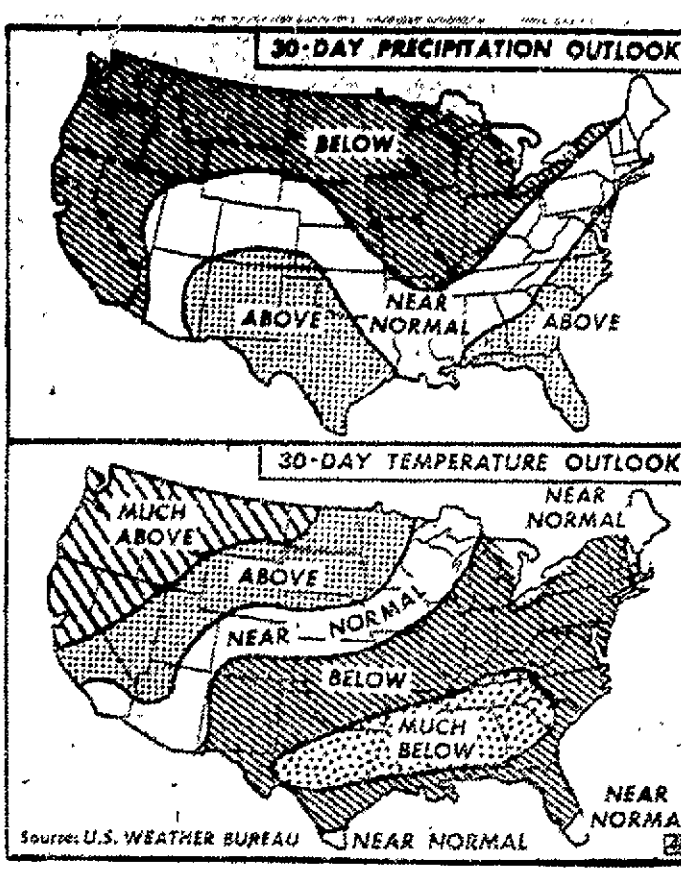

Truncated Western Germany is the free world's biggest industrial producer, next to the United States.

West Berlin, even without its eastern portions, which are in Communist hands, is Germany's biggest city and largest industrial complex between the Ruhr Valley and Moscow.

As the extent of the Soviet threat to the postwar world became apparent, West Germany was assisted in assuming a major role in an Atlantic alliance intended to check any new Soviet advance into Europe.

Thankless Role

It was Berlin's somewhat thankless role in the early postwar years to serve as a proving MILWAUKEE (AP) — Robert Welch, founder of the ultra-conservative John Birch Society, said Friday night the same Communist tactics used against the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy were employed against a general relieved of his command in Europe.

Welch's reference to McCarthy, made midway in his two-hour prepared address, brought the first applause from a crowd of 500

Democrats to Hear Ribicoff At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wisconsin Democrats staged their annual Jefferson-Jackson gala today, presenting a full schedule of speeches and receptions to be capped tonight by an address by Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare.

A crowd of about 2,000 is expected to hear Ribicoff at a $25-a-plate fund raising dinner that could produce gross proceeds of about $80,000. The estimate was made by dinner chairman James Megellas, who said the advance sale was between $35,000 and $40,000.

Ribicoff was scheduled to arrive at 2:45 p.m. at Gen. Billy Mitchell Field. A welcoming committee headed by Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier and County Executive John Doyle was organized to meet him.

A reception for Ribicoff was set for 5:30 p.m. at the Arena, where the dinner will begin an hour later. The secretary, due to speak at 9 p.m., will be introduced by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Proxmire was the speaker at a noon luncheon of the Democratic county chairman. He replaced Gov. Gaylord Nelson who was scheduled to inspect the 32nd National Guard Division at Camp McCoy. The governor plans to attend the dinner.

The Democratic State Administrative Committee planned a meeting for 2 p.m. and a reception was timed for 4 p.m. to greet Carlyle Runge, formerly of Madison, who is now an assistant secretary of defense.

Parents' Club to Study Insurance For Bugle Corps

LITTLE CHUTE — An insurance program for members of the Drum and Bugle Corps will be discussed by the Parents' Club at 8 p.m. Monday at the village hall.

Discussion is also planned on the pop and ice cream stand to be manned by the corps during the Legion picnic and a July 8 Madison trip for the corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wildenberg are in charge of the social committee.

If Mistake Made

If Khrushchev feels he can take Berlin without a fight, he will. If he can take it without a fight, it would be his biggest single cold war victory. If he makes a mistake on this point it probably would mark the beginning of World War III.

On paper the Western case in Berlin is strong. There is an imposing record of notes and protests and legal briefs. In fact, the Communists have been nibbling at the Western position more successfully than most persons care to admit.

West Berlin's isolation, 100 miles within Communist territory has made local protests by Western commanders almost impossible to enforce.

SELLER OR BUYER

If you have property to sell or desire to purchase a home or lake property, there is no substitute for results and personalized attention to your needs.

The most important service your real estate broker can render is to find a dependable buyer.

Next in importance is to relieve you of the "running" the screening of curiosity seekers from serious minded buyers and of taking care of a multitude of important details.

Whether to sell property on your own or list it with a realtor whom you know and in whom you have confidence is a perfectly natural question. It is worth the modest commission a broker gets to effect a sale for you and to find the kind of a "performance buyer" for whom you are looking.

Foxes Edge Braves, 5-4, In Finale

Griffin's Single Scores Yencha With Winning Run in Tenth

BY RALPH MUELLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Fox Cities Foxes were a determined lot when they came to bat in the bottom of the tenth inning Friday night at Goodland Field.

The local professionals had a long road trip ahead of them. So, when Jim Caldwell's drive off the left field fence failed to write an end to their contest with Cedar Rapids, Dick Yencha and John Griffin teamed to give the Foxes a 5-4 victory and an even split in the four-game series with the Three-I League leaders.

You might say that the Foxes hit for the cycle in the winning frame, gathering a triple, a double, and a single, in that order.

Caldwell's blow appeared to have ended the game twice. The impact of the ball and bat certainly indicated the ball would go all the way. Then, when Caldwell sped around third, trying for an inside-the-park homer, there was that split-second when it appeared he may score. As it turned out, the blond receiver was cut down at the plate, setting the stage for Yencha and Griffin.

Yencha spanked what appeared to be a single to right field and scampered into second for a "leg" double when Cedar Rapids played it a bit too nonchalantly.

Griffin battled for Pitcher Dave McNally, the most feared hitter on the team—he walked in all four plate appearances — and drove a single to left field to score Yencha with the decisive marker.

Longest Trip
The Foxes began their longest road trip of the year at 1.30 a.m. today when they left for nine days to visit Des Moines, Topeka, and

'Goose' Tatum Sent to Jail

Fails to Pay Taxes, Draws 90-Day Sentence in KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Reece (Goose) Tatum, pro basketball clown, has been sentenced to 90 days in jail by a federal judge who gave him a stern lecture. Tatum had pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to a charge of failing to file income tax returns for 1956 and 1957. The court said he may owe as much as $150,000, including penalties.

Judge Richard M. Duncan said Tatum "must realize that a man who can make $40,000 or $50,000 a year has to pay his taxes."

The judge said Tatum drives a $10,000 car, loves to flash a big "roll" in night clubs and has had woman trouble that "is costing him about $2,000 a month."

"Goose," the judge said to Tatum, who stood silent and motionless, "you're a fine basketball player, but I can't say much else for you."

Bonus Pitcher Leads A's

Tigers Dump Yankees Out of First Place With 4-2 Win; Indians Cop

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was late September, 1931, and the Philadelphia Athletics, having already wrapped up a straight American League pennant, turned to kid pitchers while giving the big three of the staff, Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw and Rube Walberg, a rest before the World Series.

One of the kids was an 18-year-old right-hander named Lew Krausse. Making his first start in the majors, he beat Boston 7-1 with a four-hitter.

Friday night the same Lew Krausse, more nervous than he had been on that September afternoon 30 years ago, was in the stands as the A's, now in Kansas City and the second division, sent a $125,000 bonus pitcher to the mound for his first start.

the first off lefty Danny McDevitt,

The 18-year-old lefthanded McNally got his second straight victory in Three-I League competition. He recovered from wildness in the early innings and came up with a final record of seven strikeouts and five bases on balls. He allowed just eight hits.

Each team scored a run in the fourth inning by using a pair of hits. The visitors used Gene Johnson's double and Barry Morgan's single and the Foxes used Sam Bowen's single and Nellie Cochran's triple.

Pitcher Homers
Pitcher Bob Priddy homered for Burlington in the big fifth inning over the Chiefs. Ron Brand of the Bees had a three-run triple. Tom Rinks and Bill Jackson also hit for the circuit for Burlington.

Bob Carmo and Pat Corrales homered to feature Des Moines first game victory at Topeka. But Topeka came back to win the second game behind Ted Davidson's 13-strikeout pitching.

Bottom is Bob Bailey who Friday became just about the highest-paid bonus player in baseball history. He signed with the Pirates for a sum "in the neighborhood of $175,000."

Bobby Brue 2 Strokes Off Lead in Open

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—

Intense, fidgety Bobby Brue of Milwaukee, overcame a siege of the jitters Friday to stay among the leaders for the most coveted prize in golf—the U.S. Open championship.

As a result the 26-year-old professional started the final 36 holes of play today with a 141, only two strokes behind Bob Rosburg and Doug Sanders, who were setting the pace with scores of 139.

He started out with a one-under-par 34 on the first nine holes Friday. He was so fidgety and nervous that sometimes he addressed the ball for a full minute before he hit his shot but nevertheless he was able to go 2-under-par in the first seven holes.

But after barely missing another drive at the 458-yard par-4 eighth, Brue began to rattle. He dubbed a trap shot at the ninth, dubbed another and took a double bogey 6 at No 10 and had a double on the 11th. He got a par on the 12th, a birdie on the 13th, went one-over on the 14th and finished the last four holes in par for a 33 on the back nine.

Fond du Lac will be playing its home opener in the league, and special ceremonies are planned. The Fondy club will be out to crack the attendance record set by Kaukauna when it drew 509 against LC-K.

Bob Mulligan is the likely starter for Fond du Lac and Paul Coppo will be on the mound for Green Bay.

A pair of long-standing rivalries will be renewed Sunday in feature games of the Fox River Valley Baseball League.

Kaukauna will test unbeaten Freedom at the Freedom park, and the Menasha Macs will be at Little Chute to face the Little Chute - Kimberly Papermakers.

In other games it will be Morrison at Harrison and Green Bay at Fond du Lac.

Freedom, the only undefeated team in the circuit, will be facing one of its stiffest tests of the season. Kaukauna is expected to have control-artist Bill Lappen on the mound to oppose Freedom's Gene Schlender.

Worked 5 Innings
Schlender pitched for Tigerton High School and worked five innings for Freedom in an exhibition victory over Clintonville Thursday night. Lappen has an overall record of 4-1 for the season and is 2-1 in league play as he has figured in every Kaukauna decision.

The Menasha Macs and the Papermakers will both be after a chance to remain in contention for the first-round title. Each team has a 2-1 record. The Papermakers may be a bit rusty after three straight postponements, while the Macs will be playing an exhibition tilt with Waupaca tonight.

Jim Meyer is the likely mound choice for the Macs while Al Harke, Bob Schmidt or Faye Mehlberg will hurl for Little Chute. Harke is the likely choice because of his success against the Macs in past performances.

DeBruin to Start
Harrison will be looking for its initial victory of the season when

Burdette Knocks LA From Lead, 2 to 1

Lew Hurls 5-Hitter, Homers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lew Burdette knows the cure for the troubles of the Milwaukee Braves.

The lanky right-hander put the not-so-secret formula to use Friday night and the Braves defeated the Dodgers 2-1, knocking Los Angeles out of the National League lead.

Burdette's victory prescription was a five-hit pitching performance and his third run run of the season. The victory snapped a three-game losing streak for the Braves who had lost 11 of their last 16 games. Despite the conquest the Braves remained sixth, eight games behind first-place Cincinnati.

Burdette seems to enjoy playing in the Coliseum. He has now won nine games there while losing only one since the Dodgers moved in 1958. And while Burdette has had only 10 home runs in his major league career, six of them have been against the Dodgers, all in the Coliseum.

The victory was the fifth in 10 decisions for Burdette who hadn't won since May 22.

Burdette's homer in the sixth opened the scoring and came off Dodger starter Sandy Koufax. The Braves got their other run in the seventh when Koufax walked the bases full and reliever Larry Sherry walked Joe Adcock to send in the deciding run.

Fifth Homer
The Dodger run came in the seventh as Charlie Neal hit his fifth homer of the season. Neal was the only Dodger to get past second base and only two others got that far.

The loss was the third in 12 decisions for Koufax who had pitched six complete games since his last loss, on May 16 to the Braves.

Burdette, in winning the 150th game of his career, gave up one base on balls and fanned five. The Dodgers were held to singles in the first, second, fourth and sixth before Neal hit his homer. The last seven Dodgers then went down in order. The Dodgers got a man on in the third on Burdette's only walk.

The Braves, who rattled out eight hits, failed in their first big scoring chance in the sixth when they loaded the bases only to have Roy McMillan go down on strikes.

Former Dodger and former Pirate Gino Cimoli made his first start for the Braves, getting one hit in four trips as he batted first. He drew a walk in the seventh and scored Milwaukee's second run.

The Braves and Dodgers meet again tonight, Bob Buhl, 3-4, facing Stan Williams, 4-6.

Rosburg, Sanders Lead U. S. Open At Halfway Mark

Defending Champ Arnold Palmer Trails by Full 10 Strokes

BY JERRY LISKA

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — A tense field of 57 awaited the "moment of truth" in today's double-round windup of the 61st U.S. Open golf championship after a royal head rolling Friday.

The two-stroke halfway leaders at 1 under-par 130, Bob Rosburg and Doug Sanders, generally were regarded as sitting ducks in the battle for the game's top title and a $14,000 winner's swag.

Friday's second-round produced a brisk pummeling of Oakland Hills' 6,907-yard, par 35-35-70 course. The big question was whether defending champion Arnold Palmer—10 strokes off the pace — could match his come-from-behind victory strike last year.

Sentimental Favorites
But two sentimental favorites—four-time winner Ben Hogan and Sam Snead—were threats at 143, four strokes behind.

Palmer, at Denver's Cherry Hills last year, was eight strokes behind after 36 holes and seven strokes behind the 54-hole leader, Mike Souchak, entering the final round. Palmer came up with a rousing 65 to win with 280, second low in Open history.

MENASHA — Badger Highways won its first game of the Menasha Little League season Thursday night by edging past Gilbert Paper, 8-6, in extra innings.

The Badgers scored two markers in the top half of the eighth inning to get the victory. Tom Wroblewski, who had relieved Steve Seidl in the seventh got credit for the mound victory.

Todd Kuehl, Dave DeWall, and Seidl had two hits each for the winners. Resch and Preston Alvadj had three blows each for the losers.

Bob Burns, who relieved Mike Pavitch in the seventh inning, was the loser.

Wisconsin Tissue moved into undisputed first place on Wednesday night with a 9-8 decision over the Boxers. The winners scored seven times in the fourth inning and had only four hits during the game. They were aided by six errors, one of which permitted the winning marker to score in the sixth and final inning.

Mike Resch led the winners' attack with a pair of doubles. Mike Stratton contributed a double and a home run to the Boxers' cause. Ted Blohm was the winning pitcher, and Fred Reichelt, the loser.

Dick Quella 1-Over-Par At Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA—Dick Quella toured Fox Valley Golf course in 1-over par 35 to pace action in the men's Twilight League Thursday. Runnerup honors went to Les Forde and Howard Paschen with 38 while Lorenz Mayer posted a 39.

Morgan Printing took a 54-26 win over Johnson Drug to increase its first place point total to 202. Blind bogey winners were Cy Klein, Russ Torgeson, Jerry Van Hoof, Orv Tracy and Omar Wolfgram.

Gary Kriek's 38 Sets Pace in Golf League

Gary Kriek toured the back nine of Reid Municipal Golf course in a 2-over-par 38 Friday for the lowest score carded in the Appleton Municipal Good Fellowship Golf League.

Other low scorers were Laymon "Doc" Wonsner, 39; Tom McKenney, Don Sprague and Syl Bayer with 40s.

Aberdeen Beaten By St. Cloud; Bert Barth Clouts 2 Home Runs

ST. CLOUD knocked off league-leading Aberdeen for the second straight time in Northern League play Friday night, with Jim Fraser hurling a 4-2 victory on a six-hitter.

Winnipeg downed Eau Claire 7-6 for the Braves' 10th straight loss and Duluth-Superior edged Grand Forks 4-3.

Fraser hoisted his pitching mark to 4-0 although nicked for a pair of homers by Aberdeen's Bert Barth. The Phasants' first baseman also singled to account for half the Aberdeen hits.

Badgers Place Last in Dinghy Championship

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—The University of Wisconsin finished last Friday after three days of racing in the National Dinghy Sailing Championship on the Severn River.

The Badgers scored 134 points, well off the pace of 217 collected by winner M.I.T., the leader of the eight-school field from the first day. Michigan, the only other midwestern entry, was fourth with 171 points.

Club's Trap Range To Be Open Sunday

The Outagamie Conservation Club's trap range will be open for the first time this Sunday starting at 9 a. m., Sec. James Kranszuch has reported.

Shooting will continue through the day until about 5 p. m. Clay birds and ammunition will be available at the range. Dick Rickert, Freedom, is trap shoot chairman.

State Outlook For Weekend Fishing Good

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Conservation Department bubbled with enthusiasm today about fishing in Wisconsin.

"Stick a pin in a map anywhere this week and chances are it'll hook a fish," boasted the weekly summary based on reports by fieldmen.

"Nearly all species are biting everywhere and the seasonal peak should stay with us for quite a while barring a bad break from the weatherman," the report continued.

These optimistic observations were added:

Smallmouth bass have lived up in Door County; Big Green Lake is having a record year on lake trout; pan fish are going crazy, and striped bass are starting.

Waupaca County Warden Rex Oatman says pan fishing is exceptionally good on Partridge, Partridge Crop and Shadow Lakes. Trout are hitting on Bear Lake and the Crystal River, he said.

Calumet County Warden Keith Reichenbach reports walleyes hitting on Lake Winnebago.

Wardens Frank Deringer and Donald Knoke say walleyes and northerners are hitting on Lake Poygan. White bass, they said, are being taken in large numbers from the Fox River at Oshkosh but are running small in size.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching Low Krauske, A's, blanked Angels on three singles, along with five walks, but striking out six, for 4-0 victory in first pro game as $125,000 bonus right-hander.

Hitting Billy Bruton, Tigers, went 4-for-4 and scored twice in 4-2 victory over Yankees that knocked New York out of first place and put Detroit on top.

Assisting Karisyn in the program this year are Jim Hablewitz, Bill Becker, Don Karisyn, John Matowicz, Arnold Etn, Tom Steinmetz, and Tom Fitzpatrick.

Doctor Continues Discussion On Development of Pouches

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

As I wrote yesterday, it is quite true that a great many adults have a diverticulum, or pouching, or bulgy area, somewhere in the digestive tract. It is equally true that a great proportion never know it, never have any distress from it, never need to worry about it.

Indeed, a lot of the diverticula, which never caused a symptom and never will, were discovered only incidentally, in the course of X-raying for some other purpose.

What about the cases in which a diverticulum, or pouch, becomes infected, inflamed, troublesome? What are the signs? Treatment?

Severe Pains Diverticulitis, it so happens, is an adroit mimic. It can cause severe abdominal pain at times—the belly is tender. There may be fever. There may even be a lump that can be felt. It can seem, at first look, to be appendicitis, kidney disease, gall bladder disturbance, some ailment of an ovary—it can give the outward signs of almost any illness of the abdominal area. But of course it will be properly identified once its presence is suspected and X-rays are taken.

Treatment ranges from nothing to urgent measures, the extreme one being surgery.

The condition occurs with equal frequency in men or women. In women, about 60 per cent of the cases will involve some degree of constipation. In men, diarrhea is more common.

Serious Cases If the pouch ulcerates, there may be bleeding. In very serious cases of infection, there may be abscesses or perforation and the threat of peritonitis which, of course, requires immediate measures.

If the condition is rather extensive, there can be partial or complete obstruction of the bowel, thus mimicking cancer in that regard—although I hasten to point out that this is not cancer, and has nothing in common with it except that aspect.

In ordinary cases that have become annoying, simple precautions only are needed. Avoid constipation. Some people feel that coarse or seedy foods should be avoided; perhaps so. At least, no harm is done by following this advice.

Constipation can be controlled by natural means. If inflammation is acute, antibiotics, plus rest, and a low-residue diet (to allow the irritation to subside) will be needed.

Simple Case In some percentage of severe cases, where there is recurrent or extensive bleeding, perforation, or obstruction, surgery may be necessary.

But for ordinary cases, as indicated in yesterday's questions, simple care is all that's needed or will be useful. There isn't any "cure" for the bulge, or weak place, or pouch. But in most cases moderate care will keep the condition under control.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 60 and have arthritis. Would ultraviolet light treatments once a week be harmful?—Mrs. C.G."

Ultraviolet, like summer sun, can burn the skin if not judiciously used. I think infrared or a heat lamp would be of more benefit for the arthritis anyway.

MRS. D.S.: No, constant use of mineral oil will not cause cancer. It does, however, have a different drawback: Constant use prevents absorption of certain vitamins.

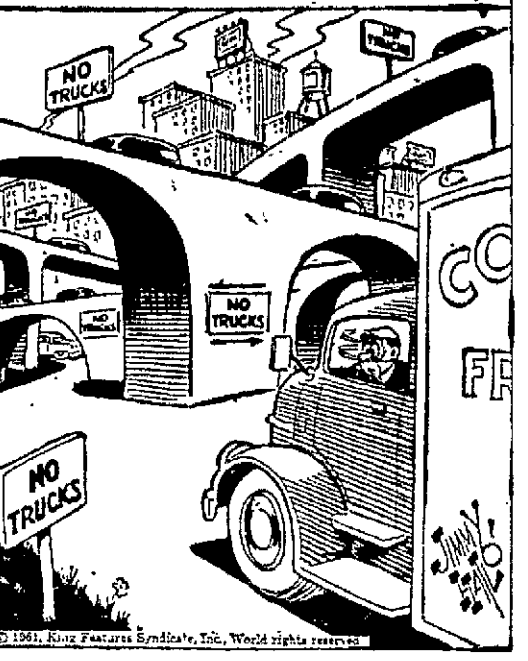

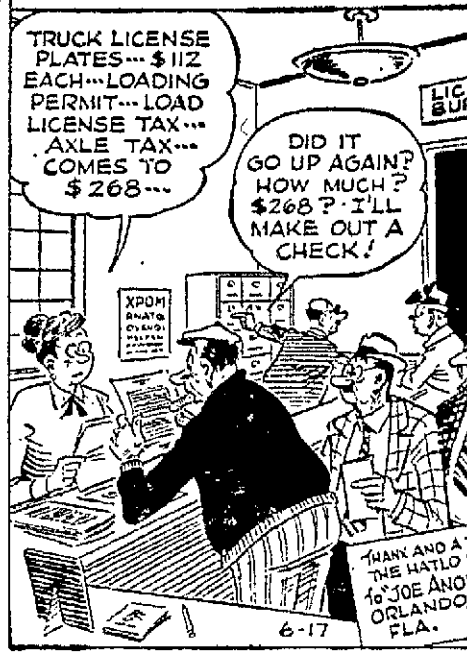

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosed with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Lee Lost Battles but Won First Campaign

It was cunningly situated on a hill near Gaines' Mill, infantry dug in across the slopes, artillery, ranked on the crest. Again Jackson was to assault the federal flank, and again he was woefully late. In the meantime Lee's piecemeal attacks were being fearfully cut up. Finally, as shadows lengthened across the fire-born field, Lee launched a massive, 3-mile-wide assault.

Union Retreat

John B. Hood's Texans broke through the center, and when the gallant, doomed charge by the 5th U.S. Cavalry failed to close the gap, Porter hustled his battered corps to safety across the Chickahominy. Having cut McClellan's supply line, Lee wrote President Davis, "We sleep on the field and shall renew the contest in the morning." The victory had cost him more than 8,000 men. The 1st Texas, fine shock troops, suffered casualties of 75 per cent.

McClellan's next move was expected—he retreated toward a new base at Harrison's Landing on the James River, all the way across the Peninsula. To save his beloved army, he now displayed his genuine abilities. The route to the James crossed White Oak Swamp, and the confused fighting that followed resulted from Lee's efforts to cut the Union column while it straddled this morass.

The fifth day found Magruder advancing from the Richmond lines to strike McClellan's rear guard at Savage's Station. Jackson was to act in concert with this thrust, but he whined away the day, taking no action. That night McClellan continued his retreat, abandoning some 2,500 sick and wounded in a field hospital at Savage's Station.

Monday, June 30, was the last chance for Lee to catch the federales in motion. Upon Longstreet and A. P. Hill fell the task of cutting the Union column near Frayser's Farm, south of the swamp.

A Northern officer in the rear guard never forgot the sight and sound of Malvern Hill's aftermath. Through the morning mist came the steady clanging of Lee's guns, the steady clanging of Lee's guns, the steady clanging of Lee's guns.

Tigers Pay Top Bonus in Club History

DETROIT (AP)—Bonus baby Bill Freehan was a player the Detroit Tigers had to sign out of sheer necessity—and apparently they had him wrapped up for five years.

Having lost several good players from Michigan in the past few years, the Tigers could have lost considerable prestige if Freehan had gone to any other major league club. He was the top baseball prospect in the state.

"We've had our eyes on him since he was 14," said Vice President Jimmy Campbell, head of the Tigers' minor league operation.

The Tigers, a pioneer in the bonus baby race, shelled out their highest bonus—about $100,000—to sign Freehan Friday off the University of Michigan campus.

'Fair Play for Cuba' Group Hears Attack on Kennedy, Stevenson

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Tampa Fair Play for Cuba Committee held its first Cuba-America program Friday night and heard attacks on President Kennedy, Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., and U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson.

V. T. Lee said "President Kennedy should learn a few lessons from Fidel before he gets us into a worse mess than we are in now."

The committee chairman referred to Stevenson as an "egg-head" and asked why Smathers, an outspoken foe of Castro, was not sent on a South America tour in Stevenson's place.

"I'll tell you why," Lee said. "There aren't enough Marines to send who could get him out of there alive."

Notes Importance Of Paper, Wood In State Economy

Stressing the significance of research in forestry, Dr. Edward G. Locke, director Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, told 32 business executives at Engle River, "Our state leads all others in paper production, both in tonnage and in dollar value in spite of tremendous gains in the South."

Speaking on "New Trends in Wood Utilization" to members of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce attending a resource workshop at Trees for Tomorrow Camp here June 11 to 14, Dr. Locke said that dollar value of Wisconsin's pulp and paper, lumber, furniture, and allied forest products exceeds $1 billion annually.

W. A. Rowlands, University of Wisconsin, speaking on "New Patterns of Land Use in Wisconsin" said, "Let us begin to plan and develop on a county-wide basis, a master plan of land use for every county in Wisconsin — The more far-sighted these plans are, the longer their usefulness will be."

Thomas R. Powell, Adelle Beach, Neenah, was a delegate at the conference.

Wealth of Early Pioneer Goes To N. Y. Church

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
SHRUB OAK, N. Y. (AP) — Long ago, Henry Halleck left this quiet little hamlet, bankrupt and humiliated.
Ever afterward, he had wanted to show the hometown people he wasn't a failure.
Now more than a century later, his name is the toast of the town, and of the Shrub Oak Methodist Church which he had attended as an impoverished farmer.
He had become its greatest benefactor — in the sum of a half million dollars.
Henry Halleck had shown the home folks he could make good.
The story has been told by the Rev. Dorland R. Russett, the church's pastor, in connection with a $500,000 bequest to the church by Miss Edna K. Denver, retired Jersey City, N. J., school teacher who died last July.
Pioneer Residents
She was Halleck's granddaughter. He and his family had been pioneering residents of this little community of about 1,500, situated in northern Westchester County.
In the 1840s, he went broke, and lost his farm by a mortgage foreclosure. Judging from subsequent events, the Rev. Mr. Russett recounted:
"He was ashamed and mortified. He also was probably angry that he was forced off his land. He wanted to clear his good name. He wanted to show he wasn't an inadequate, incapable person who had failed."
He moved to New Jersey, and through the years, established a carting business, hauling merchandise between Jersey City and New York City.
Wealth Increased
He returned frequently to Shrub Oak for visits, and his manner of dress and the carriage he drove showed he was prospering.

He and his family made gifts to the historic church, whose congregation dates back to 1787.
When the church relocated in 1867, built its present structure and opened a cemetery, Halleck came over from New Jersey and bought the first plot. He had a 15-foot family monument erected on the plot, the largest in the cemetery.
Meanwhile, he acquired considerable real estate holdings in Jersey City, some of which became immensely valuable because of its location near the present entrance of the Holland Tunnel.
When he died, Halleck's fortune was passed on to three granddaughters, and eventually all went to the last surviving one of them, Edna. Like most of the rest of the family, she was buried at Shrub Oak, bequeathing the fortune to the church.
The will was contested by a nephew, William D. Beattie, but the appellate division of New Jersey Supreme Court upheld it.
The Rev. Mr. Russett, 40, and for 11 years pastor of the church, said the money will be invested with the income estimated at $20,000 a year.
In recent years, the old, granite-stone church, which serves about 1,500 people, has had an annual budget of about $20,000, and the new funds will about double this amount.
Works Board Seeks Bids for Sewer Project
KAUKAUNA — Bids will be opened at 6:30 p. m. June 26 by the board of public works on installation of 1,885 feet of 48-inch storm sewer, eight six- by six-foot storm manholes, 280 feet of 15-inch sanitary sewer, 1,270 feet of 12-inch sanitary sewer, 460 feet of eight-inch sanitary sewer, 10 sanitary sewer manholes and nine catch basins.
Pick Librarian For Children
KAUKAUNA — Mrs. Myron Black, 725 Grignon St., has been appointed children's librarian to replace Mrs. Nancy Smith, who is leaving for California, according to Roderick MacDonald, head librarian.
Mrs. Black is a former school teacher and in recent years did substitute teaching in the Kau-

The POWER of FAITH

Young Athletes Strengthen their spirits and skills at the summer conferences of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.
Their day begins with a devotion at breakfast, followed by sessions of "inspiration and perspiration." Athletes huddle to discuss Christian life, while coaches study ways to impart spiritual values. Greats such as Branch Rickey, Otto Graham and George Kell testify to the strengthening factor of faith. Field workouts follow technical talks by pros and coaches such as the St. Louis Hawks' Bob Pettit, L.S.U.'s Paul Dietzel and Minnesota's Murray Warmuth.
With headquarters in Kansas City, the inter-denominational Fellowship has not only inspired athletes at the Colorado and Wisconsin summer camps, but also over a million youths through talks across America.

Reynolds Puts Roadblock on Highway Bill
Measure Would Let Road Departments Do Private Work
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — An adverse opinion from the attorney general's office has thrown another roadblock in the way of the campaign to authorize local government highway departments to perform repairs and construction work on private roads and driveways.
The measure is being pushed in the legislature by the towns and counties, which have been prevented through supreme court decisions from continuing such private construction contracts that were common in earlier times.
But Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds has advised the legislature, at its request, that the new legislation that would justify such repairs on the ground of winter snow removal convenience is of "doubtful validity."
The sponsors of the bill had sought to avoid questions about the validity of such construction by limiting such contracts to instances where repairs could be justified on the basis of providing ingress or egress for snow plows during the winter season.
Reynolds' opinion will probably hurt the prospects for the bill. The contested measure would have imposed a limit of $300 on the size of such contracts for repairs or construction on private drives and roads.

gram slated for preliminary or final House action this week.
Endangered by undercurrents of politics and religion are multi-billion-dollar housing and school bills.
A coalition of conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats was waiting to scuttle both of the Senate-passed measures if the opportunity arose.
Catch-All Housing
The catch-all housing and urban development bill awaits the pleasure of the powerful House Rules Committee. It is scheduled for House debate starting Wednesday if the Rules Committee gives the go-ahead. Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., indicated this would be forthcoming without undue delay.
The bill carries a price tag ranging from around $5 billion to more than $10 billion, depending on who makes the estimates. It includes a controversial provision for 40-year, no down payment loans for housing for families with moderate incomes, plus construction of 100,000 units of family housing. It is similar, except for the down payments provision, to the Senate-passed bill. Conservatives have lambasted the housing measure as too costly and impractical.
Choked Bill
It was their opposition which helped the Rules Committee choke an omnibus housing bill last year.
In deeper trouble is a $2.5-billion bill for aid for public schools. It also was killed off last year by the Rules Committee.
Since then, however, the rules group has been enlarged to give liberal Democrats a voting edge they lacked in former years.
Smith has balked at calling a committee meeting on the school bill until other school measures, providing long-term loans for private and parochial schools for non-sectarian purposes and loans for college students are cleared by the House Education Committee.
Look At Proposals
"We should take a look at all these proposals together," he told a reporter. "I don't propose to call a hearing on one bill only when other measures dealing with the same subject are pending."
Complicating the picture is the insistence of some members that the House act first on the private school loan bill.
In this group is Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, a Roman Catholic. Some Catholic members fear that if a public school aid bill—as advocated by President Kennedy—is passed first, the House will shelve the private school measure.
Rayburn Wants Action
Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., wants action first on the bill to provide financial aid for public schools only.
It's a question of what comes first.
The Rules Committee may have the final say. Administration leaders may attempt to force the committee to set a deadline for action on the public school measure. They aren't sure, though, that they have the vote. Three liberal Democrats on the committee are Catholics, and while they have voted for public school aid in the past, they might insist on concurrent clearance for the private school measures. If only one of them balked, Smith and the committee conservatives would be in control.

Other Measures
Overshadowed by the brewing housing and education controversies are several other administration measures on this week's congressional agenda.
The House has scheduled a vote Tuesday on presidential plans to reorganize the Federal Trade Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board.
The Senate plans to act sometime during the week on the annual Agriculture Department appropriation bill, a measure to help municipalities cope with water pollution problems, a bill extending emergency tax rates and a bill broadening the Social Security program. All have been passed by the House.
Committees of both chambers will continue foreign aid hearings.

George H. Bender Dies in Ohio; Was Ex-Senator
CLEVELAND (AP) — George H. Bender, former Republican U.S. senator and congressman for 16 years and one of Ohio's most colorful politicians, is dead at 64.
Death came unexpectedly yesterday to the man who ruled the Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) GOP organization as its chairman from 1938 until 1954, when he won the seat to fill out two years of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft's unexpired term. Bender died after suffering a heart attack at his suburban Chagrin Falls home.
Insurance was his business, but politics was Bender's love and career.
At 24 Bender claimed his first political victory: election to the state senate. He stayed on the job for a decade.
Eight years later, in 1938, Bender moved up to Washington as a congressman. He was defeated only once in eight congressional campaigns, the 1948 upset by Stephen M. Young, now Ohio's junior senator. But Bender turned the tables on Young two years later.
After winning Taft's seat, Bender lost in a re-election bid two years later to the popular Democratic governor, Frank J. Lausche, a fellow Cleveland native who still holds the senate seat.

Nelson Opposes Heavy Surtax For Incomes

Governor Tells Press Conference, 'It's Poor Method'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A heavy surtax upon individual income tax payers would be a poor way to resolve the tax policy stalemate that threatens the Republican-led legislature, Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson said today.
The governor told his weekly news conference that such a method of balancing the state budget — often used before by legislatures facing financial problems — would be "no solution at all to the problem before us."
The governor referred to long-range tax revision, about which he and the Republicans who control the legislature have been quarreling for months.
Surtax Increased?
Nelson guessed that the required rate of a surtax would be 45 to 50 per cent in contrast to the 20 per cent rate now in effect. But other estimates at the state house have it that the rate would have to be about 60 per cent in view of the impending deficit.
As they have for weeks, reporters questioned the governor about the tax disagreements with the legislature which lately have led to the probability that there will be a stalemate.
Republicans have no apparent intention to enact Nelson's plan for tax revision based on higher, regular personal income taxes, plus redistribution of existing taxes, and the GOP leadership to date has been unable to command a majority of Republicans for an alternative reworking of the tax structure keyed to a sales tax.
Nelson was asked about his reaction to the apparent plan of the Republican leadership to approve an income tax withholding system to sweeten a sales tax bill.
The Democratic leader replied that most Republicans never really opposed the withholding proposal they knocked down twice two years ago, "but they were against it simply because I was for it."
The governor said he intends to go to the National Governor's Conference in Hawaii later this month but that he can hurry home if legislative developments require his presence in his office.
He said the legislature should remain on duty trying to solve the tax problem and others, when he was told that there is talk in legislative circles about putting off tax legislation until a fall session in October.

Tornado, Floods Hit Texas as State Gets Ten Inches of Rain

Hundreds Homeless, 20 Dead As State's Rivers Go on Rampage

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A tornado whirled from leaden skies during 10 inches of rain Sunday night, injuring five persons and destroying two units of a public housing project.
Elsewhere in Texas, floods from prolonged heavy rains drove several hundred people from their homes.
"It's a mess out there," a policeman said as he watched several ambulances stall in flooded streets.
Gas Mains Broke
Gas mains broke. Power lines snapped. Telephones went dead. But there was no fire. Nor was there a dollar estimate of damage from the tornado that hit hardest at the Island City Homes addition southwest of the business section of this port and resort city of 67,175.
All through south and central Texas, heavy rains were reported which sent rivers and creeks rampaging and contributed to 20 deaths over the weekend.
Fifty miles southwest of here and also on the Gulf of Mexico, another tornado touched at Freeport but did only slight damage. Other funnel clouds were sighted at Corpus Christi, Victoria and Robstown.
Austin Flooded
Inland at the Texas capital, 350 persons were forced from low lying homes at Austin before waters began receding after nine inches of rain. The Colorado River flowing through the city was controlled by a chain of lakes, but considerable flooding of low lands resulted downstream. Blanca Herrera, 45, drowned when a flooded creek washed her car from a San Antonio bridge. Fifteen persons had formed a human chain in the rolling water to reach her stalled station wagon. She and six others were saved, but she returned to retrieve her coat and drowned.
Far to the northwest, the south plains town of Littlefield near the New Mexico border had two inches of rain and hail in 15 minutes, fanned by hurricane-force winds of 75 miles per hour.
The Rio Grande churned toward a 30 foot crest at Laredo, highest since the disastrous flood along the Mexican border seven years ago. The crest would be eight feet below the International Bridge that replaced one washed away in 1954. Upstream, the river returned to about normal flow at Eagle Pass and Del Rio.

Menominees Will Honor Rep. Laird
KESHENA (AP) — Rep. Melvin Laird, Marshfield Republican, will be honored here next Sunday by the Menominee Indians whose reservation recently became Wisconsin's 72nd county.
John Fossum of Neopit, tribal chairman of a "Mel Laird Day," said the event "is our way of showing our appreciation for his interest in our welfare."
Laird's counsel Fossum said, has been "invaluable in this big change from our long revered tribal institutions to becoming part of this complex state of Wisconsin."
The event, open to the public without charge, will feature a full slate of Indian ceremonials.

In Philly, Pittsburgh
Hotels Serve Sunday Drinks for First Time
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two quiet Englishmen walked into the bar at the Sheraton Hotel in downtown Philadelphia Sunday and ordered two glasses of beer.
Bartender John Brown told them they were making history—for it was the first time that liquor was sold on Sunday in hotels in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the state's two largest cities.
The Englishmen — an anonymous pair — looked startled, but said it seemed to be a good idea. Residents in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh last month approved in a referendum legalizing Sunday sales of liquor in hotels and motels between the hours of 1 p.m. and 10 p.m. Heretofore only private clubs could sell liquor on Sunday. The Philadelphia Hotel Association says the sales — which further liberalized the blue laws — will mean $5 million more a year in convention trade.
In Pittsburgh it was reported that business was rather slow. Hotel operators, however, expect it to pick up.

Trip Called Off Counterfeit Tickets Set Off Riot at Boat

NEW YORK (AP) — What started as a Hudson River excursion by 3,000 Harlemites turned into a riot Sunday when 1,000 holders of counterfeit tickets showed up at the pier.
More than 60 persons fainted or were trampled in a rush to board the excursion boat, the Hudson Belle.
The trip upriver to Bear Mountain, was planned as an annual Father's Day event for the Negro residents of Harlem. At the scheduled hour of departure, 9 a.m., the 134th St. pier was swarming with people in a holiday mood.
1,000 Too Many
Too many people, in fact. Among the 4,000 were the 1,000 unwitting holders of counterfeit tickets.
The Hudson Belle was still at the Wilson Line's pier in Jersey City, N.Y., delayed by a 200-man picket line of the National Maritime Union.
When the Hudson Belle shoved off an hour late to pick up the excursionists in Manhattan, a picket boat tailed along, with 11 jeering seamen in the bow.
Got Excited
On the pier, the excursionists became increasingly excited as word spread among them that some were holders of bogus $3 tickets.
Forty policemen were on hand when the Hudson Belle dropped her gangplanks. The throng surged forward and the rioting began. Nine persons were carried off to a hospital. At least 50 more were treated at the pier.
Small fires, apparently from cigarettes, began to smoulder on pier timbers. An additional 100 policemen were called in to aid in controlling the mob.

Trip Cancelled
About 2,500 managed to fight their way aboard the rocking vessel. But Capt. George Barry cancelled the trip and ordered them off. As they left, they hurled beer cans, bottles and insults at the pickets who backed their boat out of range.
Ten members of the National Maritime Union were arrested two blocks from the pier after a fight with two members of the Hudson Belle crew.

Legislative Caucus In Disagreement on GOP Tax Revision

Chances for Agreement on Sales Tax Frustrated by Dissenters

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The week that the Republican legislative command had announced would produce a GOP tax revision package has ended in frustrating and possibly fatal disagreement within the Republican legislative caucus.

The chances for agreement on a sales tax program dressed up with enough allurements to attract an approving signature from Gov. Gaylord Nelson have rapidly diminished during recent days, and the legislative corridors are now ringing with predictions that the grand strategy of the legislative Republican leadership will fail.

Chances are that Republicans could muster a majority vote for a simple sales tax measure of the kind that is in effect in other states.

Difficulties Arise

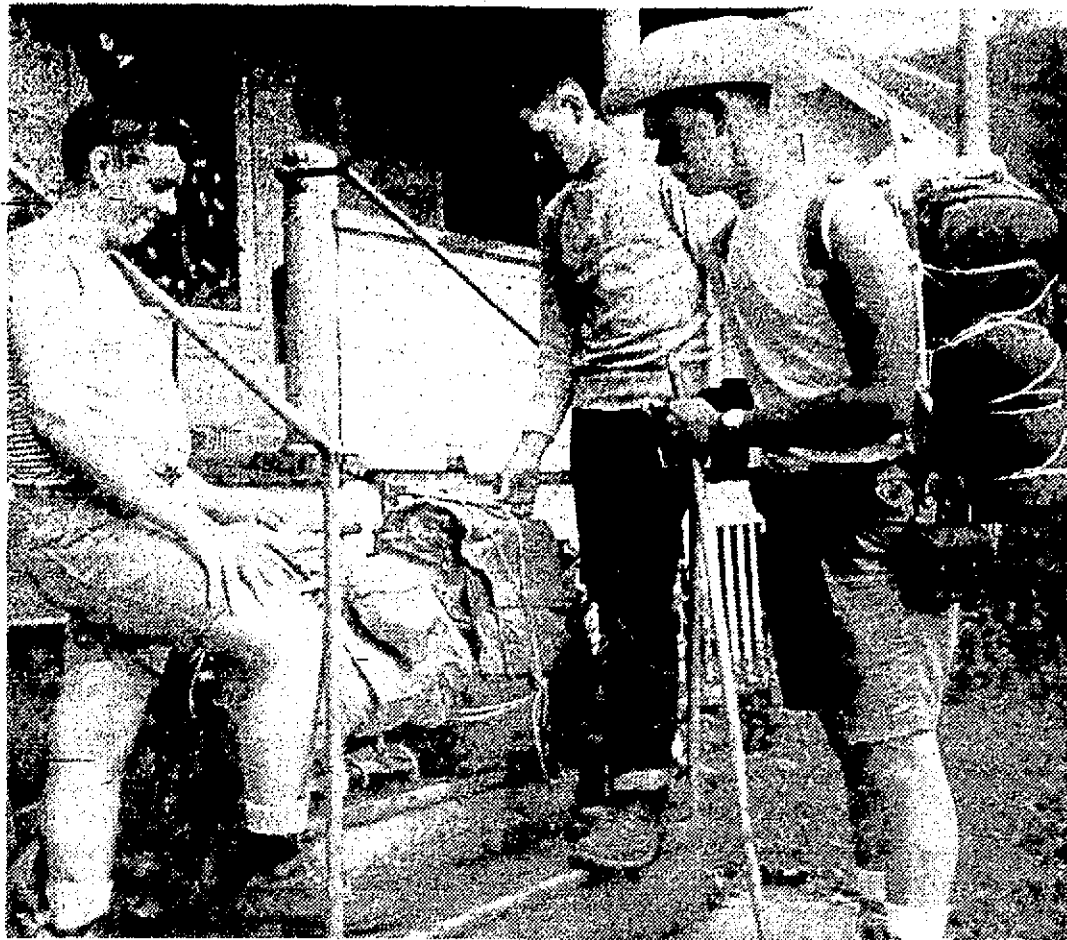

Their difficulties arise from the objections and doubts of some of their members to the auxiliary details of the tax package.

Those incidental features of the bill under deliberation in the privacy of the legislative Republican caucus room are mostly tackled on out of political necessity, real or imagined. The Republican leadership is fairly sure that Nelson would refuse to sign a sales tax unadorned. He wants concessions in other directions, they are sure.

One of those concessions that the caucus captains had reluctantly concluded they must offer him is an income tax withholding law of the kind he has demanded eagerly for three years.

Republican Minority

But a substantial minority of Republicans is extremely loath to consent to such an innovation. As

After Hiking 30 Miles of their proposed 70-mile trek, rain forced the above intrepid trio to call the expedition to a halt. The three, who had planned on hoofing it up to Gardner Dam Boy Scout Camp, bogged down 10 miles north of Shiocton Wednesday night and admitting defeat, called home for a ride back to Appleton. All members of Boy Scout Troop 8, sponsored by the First Congregational Church, the hoofers are, left to right, James Laga, 13, 1031 E. Kay St.; Gary Volkman, 14, 2100 N. Harriman St. and Rodney Gauger, 17, 1315 N. Harriman.

it now appears, the hold-outs on that issue will be sufficient in number to prevent its inclusion in the tax revision package.

There are difficulties also in the drafting of the sales tax proper. Many Republican assemblymen, having grown up in a state where political parties for 30 years have denounced the sales tax for its burdens upon the poor, insist upon softening exemptions. But it is not easy to agree on what they should be. One suggestion is for a credit against income taxes. But that might mean cash rebate claims against the state treasury, which some Republicans find hard to accept.

The whole sales tax package is related to personal and real property tax relief.

How Much

But how much to each? There is yet no sign of agreement among the geographical factions in the caucus room. Farm district members, already fearful of voter reactions to a sales tax, are insisting upon a 100 per cent repeal of the personal property tax, with an eye to the grateful response of farmers who have grumbled about their livestock levies for years. But such an exemption would require so much money that there would be relatively little remaining from the sales tax receipts to make a pitch for the gratitude of the city voter, who pays real estate taxes.

Republicans were told that the package they had under review during the last week would permit a real property tax reduction, state-wide, of about 10 to 12 per cent. Many of them felt that such a cut would be too little to be noticed by most voters and, in any event, too little to soften possible voter antipathy to a new state levy in the form of a three per cent tax on sales.

The Republican caucus leadership has not yet given up hope for coaxing the doubters and the rebels of the house and senate caucuses into line, but there is more talk about alternatives, including:

Alternatives

1. A resort to the individual income surtax that has been used often before, and which would probably rise to a rate of 50 to 60 per cent for each of the next two years merely to cover the state budget deficit.

2. A step-by-step increase in the personal income tax schedules, as proposed by Gov. Nelson, with the heaviest increases in the middle and lower income brackets.

Either alternative would be extremely unpleasant for politicians who know they must face their constituents in the next campaign.

Surtax Highest Levied
The surtax would be the highest levied by the state in modern times, make the state's top effective rates the highest in the country, and run counter to the quasi-agreement among the parties that there is a relation between high tax rates and the success of business recruiting efforts by the state government.

The increase in all levels of the regular income tax, with the emphasis on the middle and lesser incomes, probably could not be achieved without the withholding technique, as the Democrats have already acknowledged. The anti-withholding Republicans probably could not be counted upon to surrender in such circumstances.

In such dilemmas, the legisla-

Hitting Jailer Gets Man Probation

Marvin Barth, 21, 733 W. Spencer St., admitted attacking a jailer in Outagamie County jail and was sentenced to six months in jail in Municipal Court. The sentence was stayed and he received probation for one year.

Barth recently returned from a 60-day mental test... at Central State Hospital. He was sent to the hospital after the attack because Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede found reason to doubt his mental condition.

The hospital found Barth able to stand trial.

Jailer Edward Metko testified April 25 that Barth two days earlier hit him in the face and neck and banged his arm against a cell wall. Other prisoners had to pull Barth off, Metko said.

The youth was in jail for disorderly conduct at Kaukauna Community Hospital after a car crash. The crash ended a five-mile chase by Outagamie County policemen from a Freedom beer bar into Kaukauna. Barth received lacerations in the accident.

ture has a strong tendency to postpone decision. Thus today there is at least as great a chance that the painful financial task will be laid over to the fall session, as that the perplexed legislators will be able to choose between the unpleasant alternatives before them.

Ribicoff Hits AMA in Speech To Democrats

Secretary Backs Medical Care Under Social Security

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham Ribicoff has blasted the American Medical Association, saying that 180,000 doctors are not stronger than 180 million Americans.

Ribicoff attacked the AMA Saturday night as he addressed 2,000 persons attending the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day fund raising dinner of Wisconsin Democrats. He hit at the association's opposition to medical care for the aged under Social Security.

"Medical care for the aged is a proper extension of Social Security and a new advance for social rights and the general welfare," the secretary said.

General Welfare

He also said that President Kennedy's social welfare programs are a definite advance under the general welfare clause of the U.S. Constitution.

Touching on federal aid for education, Ribicoff said:

"The time has come to recognize that the federal government must aid education. We must not expect our teachers to have to work in the summer because they earn less than enough at their teaching jobs to support themselves and their families."

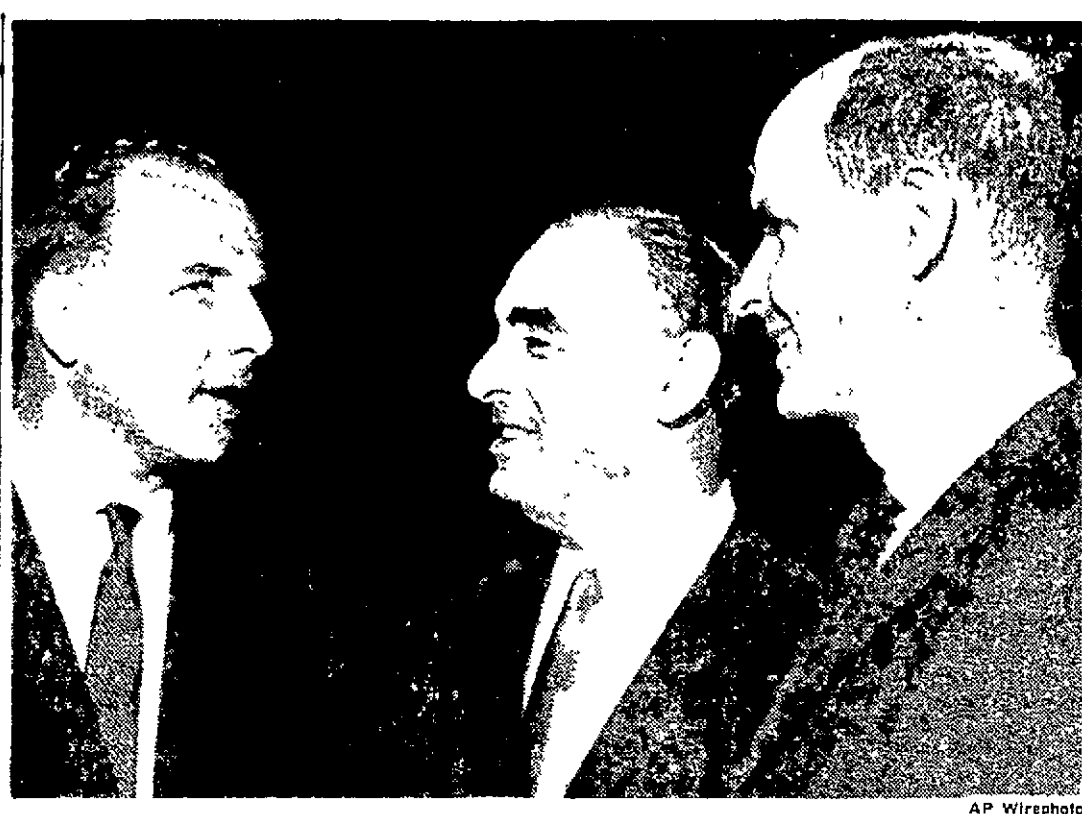

Proxmire Speaks

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., addressed a meeting of Democratic county chairmen and said that extremists are becoming a serious problem and predicted "it's going to get much, much worse before it gets any better."

The extremists, the senator said, are hating the cause of the free world. He did not mention any groups by name but said he referred to those who consider almost anyone who disagrees with them as communistic.

Directed Sabotage

Brous told a U.S. newsman he masterminded the sabotage. Jensen told Mexican police he blew up the three installations and was that we are losing and have lost that much of the free world, even extremists are becoming a serious problem and predicted "it's going to get much, much worse before it gets any better."

The committee appropriated $1,000 to pay for literature to support the programs of Gov. Gaylord Nelson and approved spending $500 to do the same for President Kennedy. The committee also authorized a payment of $20,000 to the national party as a portion of the state party's share of the 1960 election deficit. Wisconsin Democrats will owe another $10,000.

hombings. Another was to produce a "scare" to bring nationwide recognition of his group.

Brous described it as "like the John Birch Society but more active."

Brous said he's non-Communist but supports nationalization of public utilities. He claimed his group is suing the telephone company for $47 million.

The communications towers were key links in nationwide communications. They handled telephone and telegraph circuits for public use and circuits used in U.S. defense operations.

Stations Not Named

Located in the desert, the stations are automatic and normally unmanned. They are part of AT&T's system of relaying signals by line of sight. The blasts caused only minor disruption of military circuits because equipment automatically switched messages to another system.

FBI agents in Las Vegas, Nev., Sunday filed a complaint charging Brous, Jensen and other unknown persons with conspiracy between May 1 and May 28 to commit sabotage by blowing up and destroying the microwave station at Wendover, Nev.

The others blown up were at Knolls, Utah, and Cedar Mountain, Utah.

Ensenada police said they went aboard the 42-foot ketch, the Moonsoon, at 6 p.m. Saturday on a tip that heavily armed persons were living aboard.

Disarmed by Police

Detective Emilio Mendez said Brous stood on deck with an M2 rifle in his hand, a pistol in his belt and two hand grenades on a table beside him. The four policemen disarmed him.

They arrested Brous and his wife, then the other two men when they appeared 2 1/2 hours later, Jensen carrying a bag with two hand grenades in it.

Mendez said the yacht's arsenal included two 50-caliber machine guns, three carbines, three rifles, a shotgun and 1,500 rounds of 22-millimeter and 30-caliber ammunition.

Also, he said, there were a "bundle" of TNT, "a great big bomb," and two two-way radios.

At the Ensenada police station Mrs. Brous' face was bloody. She told police she had fallen down a flight of stairs.

Arsenal Cost $6,000

Alfredo Trujillo Mier, consultant to the Mexican federal district attorney, said Brous told him it cost $600 to blow up the stations and that he had spent $5,000 on the arsenal.

Brous told Mier he had sent 19,000 letters from various Mexiference in Geneva and their own lesser-rank delegations meeting in Laos in the rebel-held jungle town of Ban Namone.

That procedure indicated that formation of a coalition regime is a long way off.

"We all agree that Laos should be neutral, sovereign and independent," Souvanna Phouma said.

Formation of a national union regime made up of all the Southeast Asian kingdom's warring factions would enable the country to send a single delegation to the Geneva conference, which is bogged down by Communist refusal to expand the powers of the International Control Commission in Laos so that it can check on continuing Pathet Lao attacks in violation of the cease-fire.

A coalition government presumably would result in a quick end to military activity, and the Geneva conference then could get on with its main task—creation of procedures to keep Laos peaceful, independent and neutral. Until the princes end their meeting and report to the Geneva meeting, that conference is expected to mark time.

Blindness Seen For Daughter Of Late Comedian

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Barbara Burns, 23, daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns, has been hospitalized for observation of an eye condition and a friend says she is going blind.

The UCLA Medical Center said only that she is "under care for a condition which is interfering with her vision."

But Jack Strait, who identified himself as the operator of a small recording firm and a friend of Miss Burns, said Sunday night: "She has inflammation of the optic nerve. She is going blind. All she can see is blurs."

Strait said Miss Burns is destitute and "if we don't raise some money they'll have to remove her from the hospital."

Miss Burns has been arrested a number of times on suspicion of narcotics violations. She served 90 days for one such violation.

Judge Nominated To Federal Court In Midwest Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has nominated Roger J. Kiley, 60, Illinois Appellate Court Judge and once a Notre Dame football star, to be the new U.S. Circuit judge for the Seventh Circuit.

The nomination, actually an appointment, will go to the Senate this week for approval.

Judge Kiley, of Chicago, will succeed the late Judge W. Lynn Parkinson. The Seventh Circuit includes Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. The judgeship appointment is for life at a $25,000-a-year salary.

Judge Kiley, a Democrat, was elected judge of the Superior Court of Cook County in 1940 and assigned in 1941 to the Appellate Court of Illinois. He had practiced law in Chicago for 16 years.

Suspects Riot Organized

"From all appearances, the riot was organized," Sheriff Henry H. Hill said. "We've talked with many persons and have learned that quite a few in the gang were in Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) when college students rioted there earlier in the year." Hill blamed the outbreak on too much drinking.

Sweatshirts inscribed with the names of colleges throughout the country were worn by the gangs fighting police. Local officers were aided by State Highway Police, sheriff's deputies, volunteer firemen and Civil Defense units.

It was the firemen who finally broke up the gangs with a watery broadside from their high pressure hoses.

All of the officers were roughed up. "They seemed to go for the uniformed men," said one deputy. "We've all got bruises," said another, "not one of us got away."

Deputies Hospitalized

Deputy Sheriffs Vernon Schauer and James VanDeelen were hospitalized. Schauer suffered broken ribs when trampled by the gangs. VanDeelen was struck on the head several times.

"There were some good people down there," said one officer. "They kept telling the rioters to get their gangs together and go home. They tried to help the officials."

"I was scared," said Mrs. Viola Soldmann who heard the noise from her home several blocks away. "They looked like gangs of college boys ganging up on people," she said.

Among those arrested Saturday night and held for arraignment to-day was David Bathke, 20, of Wausau, who was charged with getting their gangs together and go-

Nelson to Press for Civil Rights Laws

FATHERS:

FAMILY SECURITY CHECK-UP

Every year, millions of fathers have health check-ups. Yet, millions of fathers don't check up on their family's financial health.

Metropolitan's Family Security Check-Up is a service which lets you do just that. It is a service which can bring you new information and correct mistakes.

What you could lose without one

There are mistakes, oversights, gaps in the average man's financial security program. Too much of it is haphazard. Too much of it is left to chance. It lacks a plan. Or, too often, it simply falls behind the times.

For example, the Social Security law has been changed nine times since its inception. And the Social Security benefits your wife and children could get may not dovetail efficiently with your pension or insurance programs. Then too—you can unintentionally "disinherit" a child, in effect, if you have overlooked naming him among your beneficiaries.

More than an interview—a service

Metropolitan, the Company you look to for authoritative information on physical health, offers a way to check up on your family's financial health.

Metropolitan representatives have been trained in Metropolitan's own schools and are qualified by solid experience to bring you this Family Security Check-Up service. They are equipped with businesslike charts and tables that show you exactly where you stand.

Whether you need insurance or not, this service makes sense. Remember, Metropolitan is as local as Main Street—as close as your phone. Call your Metropolitan man today.

There is no obligation—except to those you love.

Family Security Check-Up

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT DOES FOR YOU

With the help of your Metropolitan man

1. You check the facts: your Social Security, your home, your life insurance, your pension plan, your savings and other assets. You may be surprised to learn how much you're worth.
2. You weigh your responsibilities: mortgage or rent payments, education, retirement, accident and sickness emergencies; how much it would cost your family to live without you.
3. You learn where you stand. You determine your weak and strong points... whether the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend. You get the facts in front of you.
4. You plan for the future. Based on these facts, you decide what action, if any, may be needed to give you a family security plan, tailor-made to your own needs and ambitions—one which makes good sense for you.

Tax Revision Again in Trouble

The Republicans in the state senate find themselves in an embarrassing position because of the sudden rebellion of five of their members.

Senators must stand for what they think is right. No one should criticize a senator or attribute ulterior motives to him for a stand for or against legislation. However, there is something unusual about this case which should interest all citizens of Wisconsin.

Wisconsin has been considering tax revision for no less than six years. Under Gov. Nelson, study has been made of the subject and recommendations presented to the legislature. It is perfectly clear to all who wish to read that the Wisconsin tax situation has reached a point where revision is needed. Two previous administrations have pushed aside this problem trusting to luck and a prosperous community to carry them through. Now, however, measures before the legislature have been produced through hundreds of man hours of toil on the part of special committees named by the governor, by the governor's staff and by members of the legislature. The time for general argument is past. The situation calls for action. For the first time in many years it appears that Wisconsin has a chance to get a fair look at a tax revision proposal. Recent events indicate, however, that the five balking senators may be able to put the state back about two years to where it was when the study began.

Reports from Madison indicate that Sen. Allen Busby, Milwaukee, told his colleagues that he preferred a 50 per cent surtax on the income to balance the budget at this time or to riding along with Gov. Nelson's tax bill, which provides for a one per cent across-the-board hike in existing income tax rates. Apparently Busby was followed by Sens. Reuben La Fave, Oconto, Earl Leverich, Sparta, and Chester Dempsey, Harland. A fifth senator, Peter P. Carr, Janesville, also refused to go along because he opposes the initiation of a system of withholding taxes which is proposed in the GOP bill. We can understand Sen. Carr's stand in opposition to the withholding plan. That plan was defeated at the recent Republican state convention in Eau Claire and there is indeed much to be said against it.

Most of the things that can be said against it have been said in these columns in the past. It is unnecessary to repeat them. But the practical politicians including members of the state legislature have pointed out that they face great difficulty in drafting a bill which will be acceptable to the Republicans and also to the Democrats. To do so, compromise will be necessary. Many have felt that the inclusion of the withholding program would be of great help in winning Democratic support and particularly in getting Gov. Nelson to sign the bill.

Most legislation is the result of compromise. Neither party can have everything its own way. Many feel now that Wisconsin is in such great need of a general tax revision program that the adoption of withholding would be a reasonable price for the Republicans to pay in exchange for the adoption of a sales levy.

However, the proposal of Sen. Busby is difficult to defend. He offers nothing constructive. He would go back to the very thing the state has been working to escape from for more than two years. That is the continuation of the present high state income tax rates and the addition of a 50 per cent surtax. Busby, La Fave and the others who are following their lead simply are telling the people that the hundreds of man hours of labor that have gone into the investigation of this subject have been lost. They are saying in effect that the experts on taxes, the experts on the state's economy, all those who feel we must get rid of the burdensome personal property tax, lower the general property tax rate, encourage the development of industry in the state in order to provide jobs for our present surplus labor and for thousands of young people who will be growing up and entering the labor market in the next few years, have been wrong.

The stand taken by the maverick senators is discouraging indeed. However, the people of Wisconsin can get tax revision if they think it is worth while by putting forth a little effort convincing their representatives of the importance of favorable action now.

Same Threat to Berlin

Reports from the meeting in Vienna between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev indicated that Mr. Kennedy had told the Russian leader that any efforts to close access routes to Berlin, or try to make us deal with East German representatives, would be considered a belligerent act by the West. The answer of the Soviet Union has been another demand for the Allies to get out of Berlin, couched this time in diplomatic language. It is another phase in the battle of wills and wits that is known as the cold war.

This time the Russians have suggested an immediate conference of those who were at war with Germany to sign peace treaties "with the two German states." There is the usual business about "saber rattling militarism" in the Federal Republic and how well the East German government adheres to its obligations and agreements. Berlin should be converted "into a demilitarized free city." Once the treaties were signed, the access routes to Berlin would have to be negotiated with East Germany.

Just in case the West does not want to have an immediate conference, Russia proposes that six months be given to the two Germans "to agree in any way acceptable to them on the questions pertaining to a peace settlement and reunification. The four powers will declare in advance that they recognize any agreement which the Germans would reach. In case of a positive outcome of the talks between the German Democratic Republic and the Federal Republic of Germany, a single peace treaty would then be agreed to and signed. If the German states are not able to agree on the aforesaid questions, measures will be taken for the conclusion of a peace treaty with both German states or with one of them at the discretion of the countries concerned."

This all sounds so logically reasonable. Six months should be adequate for the German talks, the note says, since "in the 16 years after the war the understanding has matured of the necessity of liquidating the remnants of World War II in Europe." If the United States doesn't

The Right to Dissent

Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court says that Americans still have the right to dissent which they may exercise in the face of a trend toward conformity.

The justice pointed out that he dissented from the recent supreme court decision requiring the Communist party to register as an arm of a foreign power because he believed that "Congress has made the advocacy as well as the doing of certain things a crime."

He pointed out that if Wisconsin had a law requiring registration by anyone who planned to rob a bank, the law probably could not be enforced as it would be in violation of the Fifth Amendment which says that a man cannot be forced to testify against himself.

We are glad to know that Americans still have the right to dissent for many of them will want to dissent from Justice Douglas' explanation of this particular decision. The example he gives is not comparable with that of being an active member of the Communist party. A better example would be a law which required persons to register if they joined an organization which had for its purpose the robbery of banks.

Quite obviously no one can be punished for thinking of overthrowing the United States government. But when a person joins an organization which has for its purpose the overthrow by violence, and if the person joining the association is active in the organization and understands its purpose, then it would seem that he is doing, not, advocating or merely thinking of doing. There are many steps leading to the overthrow of an established government. One early step very well could be the joining of an association which has such overthrow for its purpose. No government should be required to wait until it has been overthrown before it can take action against its attackers.

Russians Use Space Flight To Beat Propaganda Drums

From Rep. John W. Byrnes' Memo

The first man in space is named Yuri, not Tom or Pete or Joe. A Russian cosmonaut, not an American astronaut, is the first man to circle the earth in a free flight and return home safely. While this event had been foreseen as inevitable in view of Russia's early start on large booster rockets, it still came as a blow to national pride. The Russians, as the newsreels and television showed last week, are making the most of their achievement for propaganda purposes. What will be the effect of this new Russian space first?

The achievement gives Russia no immediate military advantage, it is generally agreed. There is apparently little a man can do, at the present stage, in a space vehicle which cannot be done just as well or better by electronic control mechanisms. The flight does not affect the missile balance or deterrence capabilities. It does emphasize again the Russian ability to lift larger payloads into space due to the greater thrust of their rockets. This may have military implications in the future but this capability has been recognized since the first sputnik.

The impact upon uncommitted nations may be to increase Soviet prestige; Russia will play this angle for all its worth. Khrushchev may start to talk tougher and be harder to get along with, if this is possible.

The flight shows both the strength and weakness of the Soviet system in contrast to ours. They are able, by ruthless central direction, to concentrate large resources on a single objective. In space, they have been concentrating on spectacular feats involving large vehicles with animal and human passengers. They are devoting large resources to their program without regard to the low standard of living of the Russian people, to the extent that Khrushchev, while praising the first cosmonaut, felt it necessary to promise a further boost in living standards. The American space program has been noteworthy for its wide range, its attempt to make scientific discoveries which would aid mankind to achieve a better life, for the diversity of its approach toward propulsion and instrumentation.

Proxmire Backs Bill To Save $10,000 Daily

For four years, a campaign has been conducted unsuccessfully in Washington to save the American taxpayers $10,000 a day. Apparently to a government accustomed to thinking in terms of millions and billions, $10,000 is too little to be concerned about.

The Treasury has a fund of $100 million to back the old, large-sized paper currency. Officials of both the Treasury Department and Federal Reserve System agree that keeping the reserve fund is a sheer waste. If the fund could be abolished, Government borrowing would be reduced by $100 million and $10,000 a day in interest saved. Nevertheless, since 1957 efforts to end the waste have failed.

Looking Backward Federal Troops Take Jefferson City

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for June 20, 1861.

Jefferson City, Mo. — The capital of Missouri was taken possession of this afternoon (June 15) on the arrival of the steamer January by five companies of Col. Blair's regiment of Missouri Volunteers under the command of Lieut. Col. Andrews and a company of regular artillery under Capt. Tollen.

All were under the command of Brig. Gen. Lyon. The balance of the force remained on board the J. C. Swan until further orders.

A company of regulars thoroughly searched the country for contraband articles and found some wheels and other parts of artillery carriages. No violence was offered, but on the contrary, the boats containing the Federal troops were received with enthusiastic cheers by a large concourse of citizens.

Gov. Jackson and the other leading secessionists had left here on the steamer White

Potomac Fever — by Fletcher Knebel

Since the president strained his back planting a tree, the White House has a new slogan: "Tree, spare that woodsman."

Republican leaders demand the White House get tough with Khrushchev. They speak as statesmen, leaving it to the hired help to quibble over such details as where, when and how.

Kennedy weekends in Palm Beach. Both Democrats and Republicans have learned that the real trick of politics is not how to put a man in the White House, but how to keep him there.

A Senate committee finds that murder and mayhem take up half the prime TV time. Solution. Send the Peace Corps to the networks.

Infinity: A kind of foreverness that begins when an after-dinner speaker says, "And in conclusion."

Although Kennedy strained his back planting a tree, Agriculture Secretary Freeman has good news for him. If he'll just get in the habit of not planting things, eventually he'll qualify for a subsidy.

Under the Capitol Dome Belated Tribute to Robert Lynch's Idea

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Nearly two decades ago the late Robert Lynch, for a long time the assembly representative of the city of Green Bay, was appealing to welfare officials and fellow lawmakers for support of his idea that forestry work camp training would be useful for some of the juvenile delinquents committed to state institutions at great expense.

Mr. Lynch never made much progress with his idea. In point of fact, he was ignored by the welfare workers and by his seatmates.

But the other day a parade of state officials went deep into the woods of Jackson County to take part in the dedication ceremonies of the state's first youth camp for juvenile delinquents, intended to provide the outdoors work and training that Mr. Lynch had envisaged so long ago.

No one thought of paying a little tribute to that political pioneer. That is not the way of bureaucratic politics. Mr. Lynch might have smiled a little, had he survived, and remarked that it doesn't much matter who gets officials of both the Treasury Department and Federal Reserve System agree that keeping the reserve fund is a sheer waste. If the fund could be abolished, Government borrowing would be reduced by $100 million and $10,000 a day in interest saved. Nevertheless, since 1957 efforts to end the waste have failed.

Rep. Westland, Washington Republican, who was first to introduce corrective legislation, says: "Nobody's against changing the law, but something always seems to go wrong." U.S. Senator Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat, who sponsored legislation in the Senate, says: "The situation is a clear indication of the lack of interest in saving $3.5 million a year in these days of multi-million dollar budgets."

Illustrative of the things which have gone wrong is the fate of a corrective bill sent to the Senate Banking and Currency Committee by the Treasury Department with a request for its adoption. An official of the committee objected to the wording and insisted on rewriting it. By the time he had rewritten it, Congress was out of session.

This year, another effort is being made to stop the waste. The Senate has approved a bill introduced by Sen. Proxmire without opposition. It has gone to the House. The problem there, according to one house member, is whether the House can find time to save $10,000 a day.

DEPARTURE

This is the first imaginative departure in the routine of institutional confinement and treatment that the welfare department has achieved in many years.

Yet it will be watched with deep interest by private citizens concerned about the evidently magnifying problem of delinquency, on the one hand, and startled by the enormity of the costs of standard institutional care, on the other.

One legislative finance committee after another in recent times has been distressed when the per capita cost figures of some of the state welfare institutions are laid before them. But few legislators are disposed to offer real challenges. There is reluctance to be debated in the jargon of the welfare workers, and so there has developed a certain fatalism about some of these programs.

Yet the rate of return of some of these offenders — of recidivism as the textbooks would have it — continues to alarm some onlookers who have wondered whether the simpler outdoor life might not be more fruitful for some of these maladjusted persons than the mechanical regiment of incarceration behind stone walls and the ministrations of specialists of abundant categories.

There are literally thousands of man-years of challenging and productive work in the state forests and conservation preserves, as the conservation department is eager to testify. The wonder is why it took so long to get this one, small, simple project off the ground — and there may be some wondering also why a legislative appropriation in 1959 should lead to a ground-breaking ceremony fully two years later.

THE NEGLECT

In many recent years of legislative and public preoccupation with "welfare", it has generally escaped notice that the corrections institutions, as such, have had a comparatively low priority. The current construction of the juvenile delinquent camp, the new boys' corrections institution in the Kettle Moraine forest of eastern Wisconsin, and the new medium security prison in Dodge County suggest that the new leg is now being overtaken.

The idea lingers, however, that simpler arrangements might be considered for some of these obligations of the state toward its misfits. In the state mental hospitals today there are being received scores of alcoholics who are treated at tremendous costs with not very easily observable results. The hospital superintendents, given their choice, would probably decline to admit them. But the idea that the drunk is the innocent victim of disease is now solidly entrenched in public policy.

Judge Carl Flom of Dane County recently suggested a work camp in the woods for the drying up of such patients. One wonders whether his notion isn't worth pursuing — when the per capita costs of mental hospital confinement are reported.

Best Diplomatic Asset Is President's Lady

From The Milwaukee Sentinel

This country obviously has acquired a diplomatic asset in the beauty, charm, and warmth of its new First Lady. Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy captivated Canada and particularly blase Ottawa during the goodwill visit she made there with President Kennedy. As Prime Minister Diefenbaker attested, much of the credit for the President's success in improving our relations with our northern neighbor must go to Mrs. Kennedy.

Charlie to Boss: Beauty Show Job? Boss to Charlie: No, Try War Trip

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MEMO:
TO: The Boss
FROM: Charles House

Dear Boss:
The summer so far has been a bit dull. I am of the opinion that our esteemed readers should be served some articles of significance and lasting value. I have what I conceive to be a wonderful idea.

CHARLIE

Soon to come is a magnificent beauty contest down in Florida. Now I am preparing myself through intense study to go down there and write a series of historical documents on the social significance of American beauty contests. I believe the world of our readers is crying out for enlightenment on this subject. When should I leave?

Over the years it has been my prerogative to select the reporter who I solemnly consider to be the best fitted to cover these beauty contests. Each year I choose him with great care because I am aware that he must be mature, emotionally secure. He must be a fine craftsman, demure, handsome, an excellent writer and jolly company. In short, Charles, I did not have you in mind for the coverage of the beauty contest. I do, however, have what I conceive to be a good assignment for you. Are you good at history?

profess to be a poor historian. And, I might add, that reporters who are poor historians very seldom remain reporters in this establishment. Furthermore, they are NEVER invited to the company picnic.

The Boss

Dear Boss:
I am not really so very bad at history. Boss. I just said so because I feel that our readers ought to have me go to Florida and cover that beauty contest. Besides, just think what an interesting angle it would be if I covered the beauty contest from a HISTORICAL point of view! So, Boss, may I? May I cover the beauty contest?

Charlie

Dear Charles:
No. The selection of the reporter has already been made by me. I do not like to change my decisions. I have made the assignment and I will not change it. I am delighted to know that you are a good historian. Now. What do you know about the Civil War?

The Boss

P.S. You are cordially invited to attend the company picnic. Bring your own weiners and buns.

The Boss.

Dear Boss:
Well, I certainly am a little disappointed over not being selected for the difficult task of covering the beauty show. I have studied the Civil War to a certain degree. But when I open old, dusty books they make me sneeze. Therefore I do not feel qualified to write with authority on the Civil War, without sneezing. May I ask just which one of our reporters you have chosen to cover the beauty contest?

Charlie

Dear Charles:
I will reveal the identity of the selected reporter in my own good time. And you might as well get ready to do a considerable job of sneezing.

The Boss

Dear Boss:
You mean you want me to cover the Civil War instead of the beauty show? But to do a good job would take years! And, Boss I wasn't just being nosy about the reporter you have chosen for the beauty show. I was just trying to figure out who it is because I thought that your description covered ME.

No kidding, Boss. Who gets the assignment?

Charlie

Dear Charles:
Please do not badger me. The description did not fit you. (You are not jolly.)

Yes, you are to cover the Civil War, or a phase of it. Choose some important elements and go down South and write us a series of historical importance. Visit a battlefield or two and then cover a significant series of engagements—like Sherman's fantastic military march through Georgia. Get out some history books, sneeze to your heart's content. But get the story. This, you know is the centennial year of the Civil War. It is the most exciting war in the history of the world. You are fortunate indeed to get this assignment.

The Boss.

Dear Boss:
Well, okay. I've now started to study the Civil War and Sherman's crazy march from Atlanta to the sea. When do you want me to leave

Former Kimberly Man Now Hollywood Actor

Anton Van Stralen Appears in Double
Movie Bill at 41 Outdoor This Week

KIMBERLY — The Fox Cities can boast about a hometown boy who has made good as a movie, TV and stage actor.

He's rugged-looking Anton Van Stralen of Hollywood, now home for six weeks visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Van Stralen, 312 N. Pine St., Kimberly. The 6-foot blonde actor has an imposing credit list of acting chores since he graduated in 1956 from Pasadena Playhouse.

The actor appears in both movies of the double bill scheduled at the 41 Outdoor Theater from Wednesday through Saturday nights. He plays the part of a detective in "Date Bait" and in the second feature, "High School Caesar," he portrays the owner of a teenage hangout.

In Many Shows

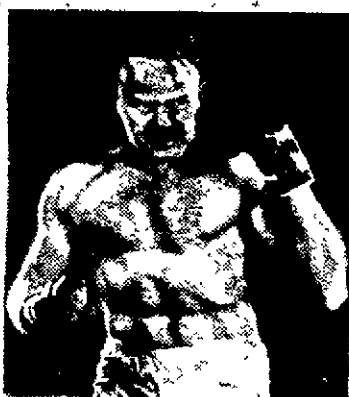

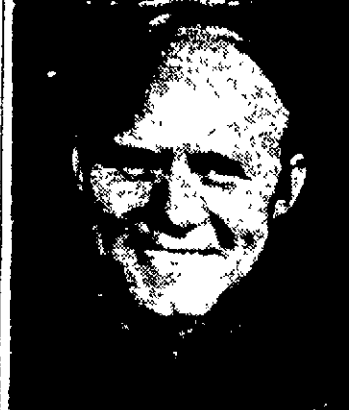

He has acted in a dozen or more movies and has appeared in even more stage plays in various theaters in the Los Angeles area. His TV work also has kept him busy. He has appeared in about 20 "Playhouse 90" programs, besides many shows such as "Climax," "Studio One," and "Pursuit." His parts have ranged from walk-ons to speaking roles. He also has appeared in locally televised court shows in Los Angeles and the nationally known "Day in Court."

When he's not acting, Van Stralen works as a stagehand at the network TV stations, legitimate theaters and movie houses in the Los Angeles area. He also has worked as an electrician at all the major movie studios.

During his childhood in Kimberly, the actor attended Holy Name Grade School and he is a 1940 graduate of Kimberly High School. He served three years in the Marine Corps during World War II before completing his education at Marquette University, receiving his degree in business administration in 1952.

He worked two years as road construction superintendent for the White Construction Co., Milwaukee, before deciding to become an actor. It was then that he enrolled in the Pasadena Playhouse drama school.

Besides the two movies coming

These Are All Pictures of the same person, actor Anton Van Stralen of Hollywood who is visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Van Stralen, 312 N. Pine St., Kimberly. Van Stralen is shown at the upper left as he really looks. In the other pictures he is "in character" for various dramatic roles he has played.

very demanding. There will be a couple of musical shows coming in, the Glenn Miller band being one of them, and at least two new whodunits bowing in too. But for the most part, summer in television is a long, twice-told tale.

The Ed Sullivan show celebrated its 13th birthday on TV Sunday night and George Gobel, filling in on one of Dinah Shore's nights off, celebrated Father's Day.

A galaxy of stars assembled to sing a birthday message to "the great stone face," as Sullivan is called, but it turned out to be neither witty nor amusing.

Gobel did a rather ill-tempered sketch about Father's Day. Maybe next year TV variety shows will get on a new kick that pulls them away from insult as a weak substitute for humor.

Dave Garroway made a sentimental adieu to his "Today" show audience on Friday and almost broke down in tears while doing it.

Until the network decides on a permanent replacement for him, the program will operate with a "man of the week" filling in for the vacationing star. This week, John Chancellor of the network's news staff is handling the show.

Although a number of announcers, including Hugh Downs, have been mentioned as replacements for Garroway, who wants to leave the show, it is now believed that NBC expects to name someone from its news department.

Speaking of commercials, next season GE Theatre will put all its selling talk into one period, in mid-show, but it will run for three minutes.

Screen Rights Bought For Williams' Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Before its arrival on the Broadway stage, the screen rights to Tennessee Williams' new play, "The Night of the Iguana," have been sold. The announcement of the purchase, by Ray Stark and Eliot Hyman, reported the price at a half million dollars.

Theatrical Producers Blamed for Timidity, Lack of Imagination

NEW YORK (AP)— The main problem in the theater today is producers, says Producer Carmen Capalbo.

The "weakness and complacency of most of them," he feels, is responsible for lack of imagination and experimental entertainment.

Show business is so complex now, Capalbo concedes, that producers "have to be responsible to a lot of other interests besides the public and critics." But it is timidity that gets him.

"Producers in general create an image of a mass of jelly with a cigar stuck in the middle," he asserts.

Retired Men With Money Uninteresting

BY THOMAS COLLINS

Retired people who have money and who read this will be quite certain it does not apply to them. People who are approaching retirement, with money enough for good living, will feel sure it'll not happen to them. However—

Collins

Here is what things are like for some men (and their wives) when they retire with money to spend. The information is based on a trip of more than 10,000 miles which I have just made among the country's best-dressed retired people.

1. Retired men who have nothing to do, and no dreams, no matter how much money they have are often tiresome to other people. They converse charmingly in the good hotels, on the jets and on shipboard. They are graceful to man and dog alike. But they have little to talk about except what happened back in 1946 in the company they worked for, or what their son George told his boss last week, or what some other tiresome fellow said to them this morning—and would you like to meet him?

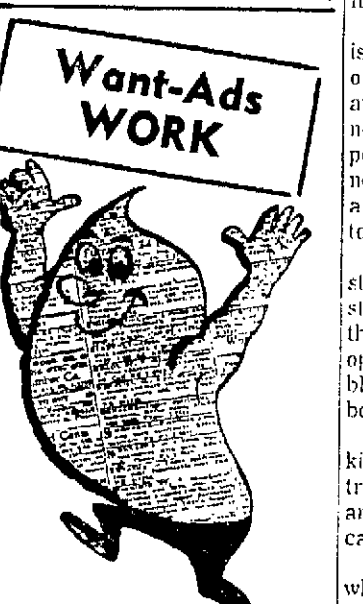

2. Such men conduct themselves, as a rule, with a touch of frugality. Though they travel first class and stay in the best hotels, they board their dollars and count their change—more so, for instance, than the man and wife who are retired on $250 a month but are willing to blow some of it in Las Vegas and live on vegetable soup for the next two weeks if they lose. They tip 15 per cent. The retired man with money seems inclined to keep it.

3. All retired men, but especially those with money, can be objectionably proud of small things. They tell you their home is located on the finest mountain in Arizona, or on the loveliest street in Bryn Mawr, Pa.; that their grandchildren are making higher marks than any children in the Norfolk, Va., schools; that their friends back home are worried because they have been away so long; that their dog pouts when they leave him.

4. Retired men with money are usually not too interested in anything you have to say.

5. They seem to have vetoed tomorrow—what may happen in Washington next week, what Moscow may do next, how they will spend the hours of the next few days. These things do not seem to occupy their minds. Nor will they talk with you for long if you dwell on the future. They like yesterdays better.

6. Retired men with money seldom talk about their money—how they have invested it or how they made it. Maybe this is why

Fond du Lac Man Heads Postmasters

EAU CLAIRE (AP)—Louis J. Andrew of Fond du Lac is the new president of the Wisconsin chapter of the U.S. Postmasters Association, succeeding Robert W. Edwards of Beaver Dam. Vice presidents elected at the annual state convention Saturday were Norm Losby of Eau Claire, Bernadine Zeichert of Black River Falls, Al Czarnecki of Muskego and Phil Kinney of Mason. Harold Van Buren of Hartland was reelected secretary-treasurer.

The state chapter voted to support John P. Snyder of Oconomowoc for president of the national body.

Dissolving Techniques Used For Kidney Stones Only

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently you wrote that "there's nothing known that will dissolve gall stones in humans without dissolving the rest of us, too."

"Does the same hold true for kidney stones and bladder stones? If so, why is an attempt made to dissolve bladder stones if they have to be removed. For stones high in the M. R."

A cogent question. No, gall stones and kidney (and bladder) stones are not exactly alike. Most bladder stones are crushed if they are too large to remove. For stones high in the kidney, there is a technique by which the stones can be treated with a special solution and they become smaller, either to be passed normally, or dissolved.

Not All React. Not all kidney stones will react suitably to this treatment, and in any event it is prolonged, and one should be prepared to undergo it for a period of time.

I most certainly add that this is a relatively new procedure, so one should not expect to find it available everywhere. Like most new procedures, which require expertise, this method cannot be taught just by sending out a bulletin. The technique itself has to be taught.

The difference between gall stones and kidney or bladder stones is, in an important respect, this: There's no way, short of an operation, to get at the gall bladder and whatever stones may be in it.

In the case of the bladder or kidney, the medication can be introduced by means of a catheter and cystoscope. The medication cannot be given by mouth.

However, the procedure is one of printing and handling, which requires the skill of a specialist—in this case a urologist.

Eats Salt and Sugar. "Dear Dr. Molner: My son, now almost 3, just loves salt and sugar. Our doctor told me to stop him from eating too much. How possible.

to do it is a problem, but I want to know why he should want them so bad, and what harm too much salt and sugar can do? — C. R."

There's no physical "cause"; he has just happened to acquire a taste.

How to control it? Just allot him a reasonable amount and that's that! I know this works. At his age, he can accept new habits more easily than older persons.

Harm? Perhaps no harm immediately, but it establishes a faulty habit of eating that may continue through life unless it is discouraged. Excess sugar is not good for young teeth; later in life it isn't good for the waistline. Excess salt can cause retention of water in the system. It may not be fat, but it is weight. And in some diseases, as of heart or kidneys, excess salt may in later life be dangerous. A low-salt diet is doubly difficult for a heavy salt-eater.

Breast Lumps. Dear Dr. Molner: I have had a lump in both my breasts since I was a girl of 12. Is it cancer? I have not been to a doctor because I am afraid. Please tell me what to do. — H. M. C."

Let's make a bargain. I'll tell you what to do, if you'll do it! Presence of lumps in both breasts is a very strong indication that it is not cancer. Changes would not have been apparent over the years. So go to the doctor and find out about these lumps. The problem could, for example, be simple mastitis and require that nothing be done.

Want to know how to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of this news-paper for a copy of his leaflet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost.

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Best Plan for Berlin So Far To Do Nothing With Firmness

BY DAVID M. NICHOL
Chicago Daily News Service

BOON, Germany — The United States and its Western Allies are in an awkward and dangerous position in Berlin.

What to do about it?

There are almost as many answers as there are people who can read and speak. These range from abject surrender to the Soviets to starting a preventive war tomorrow.

But the best that has been devised so far seems to be to do nothing — and to do this with firmness and imagination.

Doing nothing with firmness in Berlin is by far more difficult than it sounds. Both the Soviet and the East German Communist leaders very much want the Western powers to do something. Preferably, in Communist eyes, the West should get out altogether and allow the country and then the continent of Europe to be absorbed in the Soviet sphere.

Two Opposing Systems

If the west won't get out, the Soviets want the Allies to give moral and legal approval to Germany's division into two violently opposed systems of government and society.

In the process the West would be expected to agree that West Berlin, with its 2,200,000 inhabitants, become a "demilitarized free city."

Its burgeoning economy would be crippled and its liberties of free speech and press and secret ballot curbed, as they are in the Communist-ruled portion of the city and in the surrounding Communist zone.

Under these pressures and the looming dangers behind them, a based initially on freely elected local councils and then expanding to a national scale.

Increased Obligations

The moral obligation alone is immense, and it extends to the 17,000,000 in East Germany and East Berlin as much as to the 55,000,000 in West Germany and West Berlin.

The obligation is not lessened one bit but rather increased because the Soviets have refused to honor it.

For their part the Western powers went to incredible and sometimes indefensible lengths in their efforts to get Soviet execution of plans to which the Soviets had agreed.

For the West now to turn a blind eye to this obligation would be to damage seriously whatever moral prestige it may have among other peoples.

Weak, Divided Nation

There are reasons of hard-headed statesmanship, as well, for refusing to agree to Germany's permanent division.

If history has any overriding lesson in Central Europe it is that a weak and divided Germany almost inevitably is the cause of war.

In private the Soviets certainly also recognize this fact. The division of Germany in their view is only a step towards its reunification under Communist control.

It follows, logically, that there is no isolated "Berlin problem" as such, one which can be resolved in a vacuum, but rather a "German problem." Both Mayor Willy Brandt in Berlin and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn see this clearly.

Self-Determination

For the "German problem" there is a relatively simple solution. If "self-determination," for which the Soviets shout so loudly in other parts of the world, were to be applied in Germany through genuinely free elections the Communist regime in the Eastern portion of the country would be swept away overnight.

A peace treaty then might be

An Appleton Post Office delivery truck is declared safe to drive as Outagamie County Police Sgt. George Else applies the official safety check sticker. All post office vehicles were checked for defects by county police. Three were found defective and the faults corrected. County, Appleton and state police have been carrying on frequent safety checks since early spring.

negotiated, with a new central government representing all Germany, and the nation would be prepared to take its proper role in the free world.

The trouble with this solution is that it can't be applied at the moment.

The Soviets have refused to permit free elections in East Germany and the present Communist rulers of the region say they will start a civil war rather than be voted out of office. The West quite probably is unwilling and unprepared to start an aggressive war.

Vitality, Ingenuity

On the other hand, if the West is correct in its belief that history is on the side of free men and that Western society has vitality and ingenuity and the will to survive the Communist threat, then the day will come when such a solution will be possible.

Admittedly, it is not easy now to see how it can be achieved. But stranger things have happened in the past and probably will in the future.

Meantime, any acts of omission or commission that reduce the long-range likelihood of such a solution are a blow to the Western case and a loss to free men everywhere.

One is, not haggling simply about a customs stamp or the right of free transit in Berlin. The issue is much bigger. It is the big one.

Fear of Solution

One day, if the Kremlin archives ever become public, they probably will prove that Premier Nikita Khrushchev's ultimatum of 1958 about Berlin was prompted by fear that such a solution already was taking shape.

It often is forgotten that for four or five years before this ultimatum things went relatively smoothly. Berlin was recovering rapidly from the setback imposed on it by a year-long Soviet blockade.

The city's economic and political ties with West Germany were developing organically and without any Soviet protests or interference. Traffic by Berlin standards moved freely. The atmosphere was relaxed and confident.

Even in Communist-ruled East Germany life was improving. The flow of refugees to the West was dwindling. Some of the earlier pressures surrounding daily existence had been relieved.

Something to be Done

Eastern Germany wasn't exactly slipping out of the Soviet orbit but the pace of its communization was slowing.

If East Germany were to be preserved for the Soviet bloc, if the whole of Eastern Europe was to be tied up to fit the Soviet pattern, then something must be done.

Khrushchev did it and plunged the world into a new and enduring crisis. The Soviets created it deliberately and for what they hope will be their own benefit. It has been the cause, already, of new repressions and privations in East Germany.

For the West to agree would be to invite a whole series of new crises as its position weakened steadily. To do nothing with firmness and imagination for the present at least seems more sound.

'But, Mommy, I Didn't Leave the Light on'

TRENTON, Mo. (AP) — About dusk each evening a farm family noticed a light was on in the barn.

Each member of the family accused the other of turning it on. Each denied it.

The guilty party turned out to be the family goat. It chewed on a string which was attached to a pull chain light fixture.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONAD gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

Protect Babies From Too Much Sunshine

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children need sunshine; but we are likely to overdo the idea in summer. The human skin is a tender organ needing tender care; it needs washing with a gentle soap, sunshine in moderation and fresh air. Mothers want to give the little ones their full quota, but trouble lies ahead unless they are careful about it.

It is unwise to expose a baby, naked to the sunshine, even inside the house, as it streams through the glass. This can burn a child and cause him suffering and, sometimes, illness.

Any exposure to sunshine should be made gradually, not all in a rush. This holds for all children, including boys, the "tough guys." They may feel tough mentally, but their skins can nonetheless be severely burned by lying shirtless in the sun. Girls need also to be warned about getting their precious tan gradually.

mother who with that bottle of linseed oil and limewater that Grandma had prescribed to her, comes to the rescue.

But babies and runabouts must be protected, their tender skins exposed gradually to the sun and air. That way they get the full benefit of the sunshine and the summer breezes with no bad effects.

And while we are considering the care of babies in the open air, let us remember that their eyes should be shaded from the rays of the sun. Pull down the top of the pram far enough to cut off the sunshine from the baby's face. It is most unwise to let him lie exposed with the sun on his eyes. It affects them though they are closed.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

In Time for Summer?

A woman goes all out to get her car, home, husband and children ready for the summer season. Then she usually discovers there are precious few days to attend to her own needs before heat and holidays arrive. Actually, the deadline's this week. Just look at the calendar!

For the sake of your comfort, calm and comeliness, you'd best check on personal requirements at once:

What's due your hair? A styling, trim, tint, permanent? And have you a full supply of do-it-yourself aids—shampoo, rinse, pins, rollers, nets, spray, pomade?

Are your cosmetic and skin-care products keyed to summer wither and weathering? Be sure to use a lightweight base, and don't forget to step up the color of both your base and lipstick to complement a deepening tan.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

WANTS ORIGINALITY FOR DOUBLE WEDDING

My sister and I are planning a double wedding and we would appreciate any information you have concerning proper stage arrangements and etiquette. Do you have any original and clever ideas for ceremonies, receptions and decorations? Also, what other advice might you have for such a ceremony?

Louise Davis Answers:

I wish you had been a little more explicit with the meaning of stage arrangements. Etiquette is largely common sense and the Golden Rule which give you many answers. A double wedding is the same as any other wedding except that there are two brides and two bridegrooms. Their attendants may be separate or combined. I advise you to think twice before deciding on original or clever ideas. Oftentimes they can be too corny, dramatic or unconventional. Dignity throughout is important and avoids criticism. A double wedding is original enough. Your father escorts both of you at the ceremony.

Mrs. Gary Athey

agara Falls, the couple will live in Green Bay.

same time. It is advisable to discuss the processional with the clergyman and the situation will then clarify itself at the rehearsal. Be sure to have enough ushers to seat the guests regardless of the number of attendants you and your sister will have. For the receiving line I suggest the following order: Your parents, the two bridegrooms' parents, the older bride, her bridegroom, the younger bride, her bridegroom, then all of the attendants for the two brides.

You pay little attention to East's unblocking play because you have problems of your own. Both red suits are blocked. If you are careless, you will get only two tricks in each of those suits.

You cannot afford to go right after the diamonds. If you do, West will take the king of diamonds, cash his good clubs and then force out dummy's ace of spades. You will need the rest of the tricks, but dummy will be enthrall with both red suits still blocked.

Clear the Way

You must clear the way by cashing the ace and king of hearts to begin with. Then lead the ace and jack of diamonds.

West takes the king of diamonds and his good clubs. You discard the two low spades from dummy, and West then leads the nine of spades to dummy's ace.

This puts you in dummy for the first and last time, but you are able to stay there. You cash dummy's queen of hearts, discarding the queen of diamonds from your hand. This unblocks the diamonds so that you can cash the rest of dummy's long suit.

Thanks to your foresight you win one spade, three hearts, four diamonds and a club.

There is no value in suppressing this suit, shabby though it is. If partner happens to have five clubs and four diamonds one of you should mention diamonds if you are ever going to get to your best suit.

Questions Wisdom of Credit for Youngsters

BY JOY MILLER N N N N N
NEW YORK (AP)—When a 12-year-old can saunter into a store and put a lollipop or a baseball bat on his own charge account, is that carrying credit a little too far?

Or is it teaching him responsibility, making him a debt-conscious small edition of pop?

Whether it's robbing the cradle or performing community service, some stores in some states make charge accounts available to children as young as 12.

"This phenomenal growth of teen-age credit is one aspect of the consumer credit explosion," says Hillel Black, who came across on-the-cuff plans for junior during research for his book "Buy Now, Pay Later."

"Kids get allowances from their parents, have part-time jobs — and it's all their money to spend the way they want to. The teenage market now is figured at $10 billion a year; by 1967 it's expected to rise to $15 billion," Black says.

Risks Involved

But there are certain risks in selling debt to children, he points out. Nearly all adults have a credit history, but kids don't. How do you decide which are good risks?

"A credit manager in one Pennsylvania store told me that if parents show a good credit record, he'll take a chance on their offspring," says Black. "If the parents' record is bad, he may reject the child."

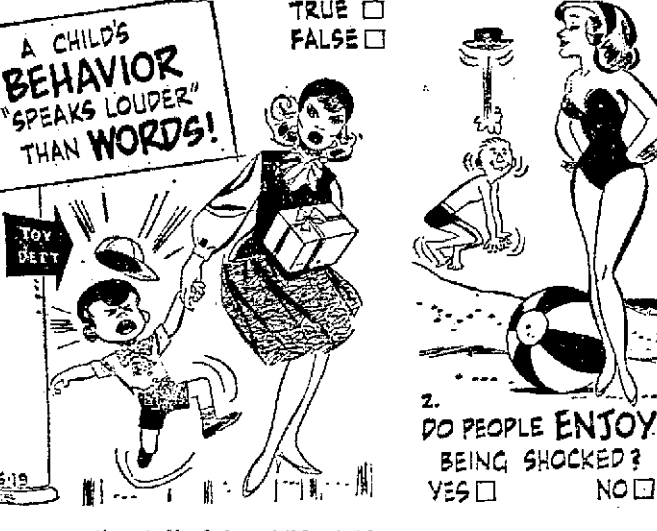

"He went on to say that although he doesn't tell the child why he is being rejected, the youngster always knows it's because his parents owe a lot of money. I seriously question whether this is a healthy thing for children, with the credit sins of the fathers being handed down to the next generation."

There's no doubt, of course, that most adults have more than a nodding acquaintance with buying on time. The typical American family today owes $5,000, a 413 per cent climb in 15 years. "I don't think credit itself is bad," Hill says. "It's necessary to our way of life and our economy. It supplies jobs, it allows

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

True, says the staff of the Child Study Association of America. They go on to say that learning how to interpret a child's behavior helps us understand what he's trying to communicate even with his words. This means that parents must listen to the "over-tones" which may be quite as important as the "loud chords" in a child's communication. Hearing the "music" of a child's life is not as easy as listening just to his words, but it is necessary if we are to get on his "wave" length. For added help with this problem, read the common-sense advice in the booklet "Your

Hard-to-Get Girl Is Winner In Game of Attracting Dates

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm completely baffled and I need a word or two from you.

I'm 23, a college graduate (male) and I work in an office. There are a few cute chicks around here, and one in particular has caught my eye. She is interestingly aloof and I know for certain that a few guys have tried to date her but failed to score.

I asked her out last Friday night and she accepted. We had a great time and when we got to the door of her apartment I said matter-of-factly, "I wonder what it would be like to kiss you."

This is no pass, just an experiment."

She replied, "Look, Thomas Edison, I can tell you what it would be like. Great. Now goodbye." Then she shoved me aside and shut the door.

Have I been rejected? Frankly, this has never happened before. What's the score? — S.K.

DEAR THOMAS EDISON: The score is one to nothing — in her favor. Any more questions?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 34, divorced, no children and self-supporting. Friends consider me better-than-average looking and fun to be with. For the past three years I've been going with a man who claims to be separated from his wife although he lives at home. He never mentions his family and says home is where he changes clothes and gets his laundry done — nothing more.

I never see him on weekdays or holidays. He says he can't introduce me to his business friends or relatives so I miss out on many nice social events. When I mention marriage he asks me to be patient.

Please don't tell me this is a run of the mill triangle. This is different. We are very much in love. This man has looks, money and social position. I'd hate to lose him because I didn't have the sense to wait just a little longer. What's your opinion? — Grey Skies

Dear Grey Skies: You're color blind. The skies are black and the ceiling is zero. Sorry, this is a run of the mill triangle, Toots. They all say they're in love.

No matter how you rationalize, it adds up to the same dreary plot: married men — foolish woman — back-street affair — wasted years. Stop seeing the two-timer while you're still "better-than-average looking and fun to be with." A few more years of this routine could find you permanently soaked in.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1961)

Dropped Fly Ball Leads to 5-4 Des Moines Triumph

DES MOINES — The Des Moines Demons scored three unearned runs in the last of the ninth inning Sunday to beat the Fox Cities Foxes, 5-4.

The Foxes won the series opener, 5-1, Saturday behind the pitching of Jim Dunlap.

With the bases loaded and two out in the ninth Sunday, Des Moines' Chico Heron lofted a high fly to right center. Frank Montgomery and Jim Liggett hesitated, each thinking the other would take it. Finally, Montgomery made a desperation attempt and dropped the ball — two runs scoring.

Ron McCutcheon then hit one over the pulled-in infield to score the winning run.

The Foxes scored all their runs and made all three of their hits in the seventh inning. Runs scored on Smiley's single, Anthony's double, Liggett's sacrifice fly and Bill Heath's error.

The Foxes wasted little time in scoring Saturday. Leadoff batter Frank Montgomery bunted safely and stole second. He scored on Joe Pulliam's single.

Pulliam reached second on a throw to the plate and scored on two infield outs.

Sam Bowers produced the third run with a towering homer over the 350-foot mark in left field. The ball cleared the double-decked fence by at least 40 feet.

The Foxes added another in the sixth when Pulliam tripled and scored on "Photi" Anthony's single.

Anthony also scored in the ninth when he doubled, stole third and came all the way home on catcher Pat Corrales' overthrow.

Second baseman Anthony saved him once with a sensational leaping catch of Dick Edwards' savage liner with the bases full.

"Photi" also took a hit away from Chico Heron with a neat backhand stop and was the middleman in three double plays.

Macs Rally to Beat LC-K, 11-4, Remain Tied for Second Place

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — The Menasha Macs spotted Little Chute Kimberly an early lead and then broke loose in the middle innings for a 11-4 Fox River Valley League victory here Sunday.

With the win, defending champion Macs remained in a second place tie behind league leading Freedom. Menasha has a 3-1 loop record while LC-K is now 2-2.

Jim Meyer was touched for three hits and a pair of runs in the first inning by the Papermakers but settled down. Although he was in frequent trouble the rest of the way, he allowed only single tallies in the fifth and ninth.

Put Game on Ice

The Macs trailed, 2-1, until the fourth when they counted five times and then put the game on ice with three more in the sixth. Menasha added an insurance pair in the eighth.

LC-K took the lead with a pair of runs in the first inning. Rog Vander Wyl tripled to open the game. Dick Mulry walked but was cut down in a double play with Vander Wyl scoring. Gene Peerenboom singled, Tom Vanderpas walked and Hank Peerenboom singled Gene home. Warren Polman grounded out to end the frame.

The Macs counted once in the second on Darold Eggert's single, an infield out and Clem Massey's single.

Load Bases

In the fourth, Bud Koehnke walked to start the Menasha five-run parade. Lee Peterson singled and Massey walked to load the bases.

"Butch" Fahrrenkrug hit one down the third base line that was bobbled and two runs scored. Meyer then unloaded a triple that scored another pair and Meyer scored on a sacrifice fly. LC-K threatened by putting men on base in every inning but one. However, Meyer was tough in the clutches.

Camilo Pascual Squabbles With Allison and Umpire

CHICAGO (AP) — The Minnesota Twins lost a doubleheader Sunday, falling 4-3 and 10-7 before the Chicago White Sox who got ninth inning homers from Billy Goodman and Nelson Fox in the first game.

The second game, spiced by the squabbling of Minnesota right-hander Camilo Pascual, saw the Sox bang out 14 hits including seven for extra bases.

Pascual and teammate Bob Allison got into a fight in the dug-out after the third inning but Manager Cookie Lavagetto said to take a 9-2 lead. Before Pascual no blows were struck. With the left, he got into a heated argument at bat in the third. Minnie went with plate umpire Joe Palumbo singled and got a big parrela while the crowd of 22,644 jump toward second on the first home run the Twins' right-hander.

Braves Slam Five Homers, Win, 10-2

McMahon Sparkles In Relief

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves closed out their longest road trip of the season with a bang Sunday, hammering out five homers as they won their fifth game in 13 starts during the tour.

The home runs gave the Braves, a total of 27 in 10 games and a 10-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Braves put their bats aside, today to return to Milwaukee where they will open a home stand Tuesday night against the San Francisco Giants.

Still in Sixth

The slugging of the Braves, who remained sixth, 9 1/2 games out, failed to overshadow a great relief pitching performance by Don McMahon who claimed his third victory without a defeat. The big right-hander, who apparently has returned to form, worked five innings, allowing four hits and a single walk while fanning two.

McMahon took over after Carl Willey, who allowed both Dodger runs, loaded the bases in the fifth.

The Braves roughed up four Los Angeles hurlers and hung the loss on starter Don Drysdale, now 5-4.

Milwaukee batters warmed up in the first inning by scoring one run on singles by Gino Cimoli, Frank Bolling and Eddie Mathews. The Braves got down to work in the third. After Mathews walked, Hank Aaron, Joe Adcock and Frank Thomas hit successive homers. It was No. 11 for Aaron, eighth for Adcock and fifth for Thomas.

Adcock's Ninth

Adcock hit his ninth of the year in the next inning after Mathews and Aaron walked.

The Braves scored their ninth run in the seventh on an error and a single by Bolling. Roy McTurn to Page 13, Col. 1

ELKHART LAKE — An expected duel in the 100 mile failed to materialize Sunday when Chuck Baldwin of Appleton was forced to withdraw his "Ol' Yaller II" because of a slipping clutch, and a powerful Scarab, driven by Harry Heuer, Chicago, hit another car early in the race. Heuer eventually finished fourth.

Three other Fox Cities drivers were entered in races Saturday and Sunday. Les Behm, driving a Porsche in a 100-mile for Class F production and class H modified Saturday, finished fifth in Class F and ninth overall.

O. N. "Bud" Ellman Jr. placed seventh in a Stanguelini in the 100 mile race for Formula Junior cars Saturday.

Milwaukee Yacht Crosses Line First

Because of little wind which made the race one of the slowest in years, some yachts remained on the Lake Michigan Sunday night and winners remain to be decided.

Appleton upped its record to 2-0 in the Central division of the Fox Valley Legion League Saturday by beating Waupaca, 13-6, at Waupaca.

A steady attack and the 7-hit pitching of Wayne Trunrud made up for five Appleton fielding lapses.

At 5:45 p.m. today Appleton plays host to Kaukauna at Goodland Field. Tom Lonigro will hurl for Appleton.

Appleton jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the top of the first Saturday when Dick Stehr doubled home Bill Hopkins.

In the bottom of the first, Waupaca struck back, taking advantage of three errors to score two runs. They capitalized on Appleton miscues again in the second, scoring three unearned runs. The home club added another unearned run in the third inning to take a commanding 6-1 lead.

Appleton came to life in the fourth when Jim Woller slammed a pinch single scoring one run, and Trunrud hit with a 1-bagger driving in two more.

The sixth inning saw Appleton recapture the lead, scoring three runs. "Rocky" Bleier brought in the tying and lead runs with a double.

Appleton scored another run in the seventh, and broke the game open in the eighth when 10 men batted and five runs scored.

Redlegs Win 12th Straight From Phils, Hike Lead

Cardinals and Pirates Split; Giants Beat Chicago, 7-2

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Talk about Dempsey and Firpo. Cincinnati has knocked the Phils down 12 times and the season isn't half over. If the referee doesn't step in soon, somebody had better call the cops.

Fred (close the gates of mercy) Hutchinson and his Reds have won 12 straight from the Phils. That must be the earliest series clinching since the old Cincinnati Red Stockings went all the way (won 55, tied one) in 1869.

As a result of their 7-2 and 10-0 victories over the Phils, the Reds lead the National League by 1 1/2 games. San Francisco, a 7-2 winner over Chicago, is second and Los Angeles, beaten by Milwaukee 10-2, is two full games off the pace.

Pittsburgh's defending world champs are 5 1/2 back after splitting a pair with St. Louis. Bob Friend won the first 5-3 but Larry Jackson got an even break for the Cardinals by taking the second game 7-3.

A former Phil, Gene Freese, led the big Cincinnati attack with seven hits in eight trips and Vada Pinson, rolling along at a .500 clip in the last five games, chipped in with two hits in each game. Wally Post, another former Phil, slammed two homers as Cincinnati slugged Phil pitching for a total of 26 hits in the two games.

Howie Nunn's fine rescue pitching, no runs in 7 2/3 innings in relief of Jim Maloney, earned him his second victory. Jim O'Toole pitched a unique 10-hit shutout in the second game. Don Ferrarese and Chris Short were the losers. Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda each hit three-run homers for San Francisco, giving Juan Marichal the victory over Don Cardwell. Dick LeMay, a rookie southpaw from the Texas League, gave up only two hits in four shutout relief innings for the Giants.

Dick Groat's sacrifice fly, following one of three errors by Card shortstop Julio Gotay won the first game for Pittsburgh despite Stan Musial's seventh homer. Jackson survived a shaky seventh inning and finally was replaced by Bob Miller in the ninth inning while winning his third, a 10-hitter. The losers were Curt Simmons in the first and Joe Gibbon in the second.

Cub League Meeting Reset for Tuesday

MENASHA — Bob Karisny, the Menasha Recreation Department baseball supervisor, has announced that the organization of the Cub League has been re-scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at Jefferson Park.

The meeting was to have taken place this morning but was postponed due to the rainy weather. The Midget League will organize at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow as previously scheduled.

Millan closed out the scoring with his fifth homer in the ninth.

Singles by Charlie Neal in the second and Norm Sherry in the fifth produced the Dodger runs.

After coming on in the fifth, McMahon retired the next three batters in order without a run scoring. The next three Dodgers also went down in order. Two hits put a Dodger on third in the seventh but McMahon got away without any trouble.

The Dodgers collected singles in the eighth and ninth out each time a doubleplay removed the threat.

Jensen Hurls Macs to Win Over Waupaca

Crowd of 400 Attend Booster Game at Menasha

MENASHA — Don Jensen hurred the Menasha Macs to a 3-0 victory over Waupaca Saturday night in the annual "merchants booster game".

A crowd of around 400 fans saw Jensen limit Waupaca to only six hits.

Jensen fanned eight and walked one in chalking up the victory. He allowed only one runner to reach third base and three others got as far as second.

Unearned Run
The Macs scored an unearned marker in the second inning when Bud Koehnke singled, stole second, went to third on an infield out, and scored on an error. They could touch Waupaca veteran, Bob Hanson, for only four hits.

Bob Jensen scored an insurance marker in the eighth when he ran for Butch Konezke after Konezke had drawn a walk to open the inning. Jensen went to second when Carl Springer was hit by a pitched ball, to third on Bob Karisny's single, and scored on an infield out.

Menasha hurler, Jim Meyer, and last year's Mac manager, Fritz Heiss, were presented with awards prior to the game. Meyer was the Fox Valley League's top pitcher and Heiss was the "most valuable" player.

Miss Faulk Wins Third Women's Title

DILLSBURG, PA. (AP)—Youth took a back seat to experience in the windup of the Women's Eastern Open golf tournament. As a result, Mary Lena Faulk of Sea Island, Ga., today held her third straight championship.

When the chips were down, in the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff, the seasoned Miss Faulk calmly sank a 10 foot birdie putt to walk off with the $1,247 first prize Sunday.

A short time before, 26-year-old Jo Ann Prentice, who has never won a tournament on the ladies' professional tour, blew a three-footer that would have given her the championship on the final green of the 54-hole event.

The missed putt sent Miss Prentice into a three way deadlock at 214 with Miss Faulk and Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif. Miss Prentice, of Birmingham, Ala., nearly burst into tears when the putt rolled an inch or two wide of the cup. She threw down her club and golf glove in disgust.

Miss Faulk recently won the Western Open and the Triangle Round Robin.

Air is free. Gasoline costs money.

Here's how you can burn more free air, burn less gasoline to get more miles per gallon as you drive your carburetor clean:

Now Skelly, who sells gasoline, brings you a new Regular gasoline that can help you cut gasoline costs...just by driving:

Your carburetor is designed to mix gasoline with air so that it will burn in your engine. The throttle, which is located in the throat, or "windpipe," of the carburetor controls the amount of air your engine "breathes." It works somewhat like a damper in a stovepipe.

At slow speeds, or when your engine is idling, the throttle allows only a small amount of air to flow into the engine—and, of course, only a small amount of gasoline.

But when dirty deposits build up in your carburetor's throat, your engine can't get all the air it needs to breathe right when the throttle is closed. It begins to idle "rough." It may die frequently in traffic or at stop signs. This wastes gasoline.

Needed: More Air . . .

The answer is to restore the proper fuel-air balance. But if you reset the throttle to let in more air, you also let in more gasoline. The thing to do is to get your carburetor clean, so that it can breathe all the air it wants without using extra gasoline.

You can pay from $8.50 to $25 to have this done—or you can do it yourself, at no extra cost, just by driving. How? Easy:

"Unglue" That Dirt:

If your car uses regular gasoline, switch to Skelly Regular with detergent-action KT-3, the special new formulation that "unglues" dirty deposits from metal carburetor parts. In actual Skelly tests, KT-3 outperformed nearly 40 additives now being offered. And, even though KT-3 costs Skelly extra to make and inject into Skelly Regular Gasoline at terminal points all around the country, you pay nothing extra to get KT-3.

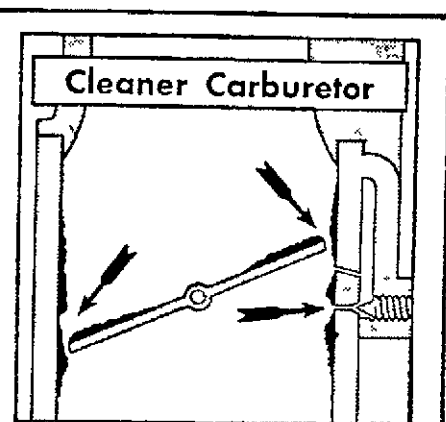

So try it. See your Skelly dealer. Get Skelly Regular Gasoline with KT-3. Clean your carburetor just by driving, to get more miles per gallon.

New API Oil Change Recommendations:
• Every 30 days in winter • Every 60 days in summer • Never to exceed 2,000 miles.
Skelly endorses these recommendations.

Drive your carburetor clean . . . burn more free air, with

Skelly Regular Gasoline

WITH NEW STEPPED-UP KT-3

Cleaner Carburetor
Cleans carburetors 30% better than all additives tested. New Skelly Regular with KT-3 dissolves the gum that binds dirty deposits to vital carburetor areas shown by arrows above. That lets your engine breathe free—and does it just by driving!

... And A Cleaner Engine, Too:
New Skelly Regular with KT-3 also . . .

- Cleans valve areas 20% better than all additives tested.
- Cleans intake systems 19% better than all additives tested.
- Even cleans your combustion chambers better than all additives tested.

Open Champ Littler Takes Golf Spotlight

Jumps to Fourth In Earnings, Plays At Grand Rapids

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Pro golf's roaming tribe will be led by newly crowned U.S. Open champion, Gene (The Machine) Littler, into the $30,000 Western Open starting Thursday at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Replacing South African Gary Player, the leading PGA money-winner, and faltering Arnold Palmer—still second in the cash list—the 30-year-old Littler will be the man in the spotlight in this shift of the golf warpath from eastern to western Michigan.

Besides the tremendous prestige Littler acquired in his 281 triumph in the 61st National Open at tricky Oakland Hills course Saturday, he also vaulted from 34th to fourth place in the PGA money list.

Littler's one-stroke victory in a thrilling photo finish was worth $14,000—biking his year's earnings to $21,866. Player, who finished the Open in a three-way tie for ninth at 287, continues as top official money-winner with $53,704. Palmer, who now has been knocked off the Master's throne—by Player in April—and unseated as U.S. Open king by the rejuvenated Littler, picked up $900 for his three-way tie for 14th at 289, to hold second in the cash race at $45,585.

Palmer started too late with too little, after rounds of 74-75, to match the roaring finish from the seven strokes off the pace which gave him the 1960 U.S. crown at Denver's Cherry Hills with a closing 65 for 280.

Only other cash-collector ahead of Littler in the PGA lucre sweepstakes now is Doug Sanders, the man who didn't make it in Saturday's hectic closing open double-round.

Sanders had a 14-foot birdie putt rim the 71st hole and trickle a foot away which cost him a possible tie with Littler and notched him second with Bob Goalby at 282.

Littler attributed some of his success in his 73-68-72-68 Open conquest to a tip from fellow pro Ted Kroll. "Ted suggested, before the tournament, that I swing a little more upright and direct," said Littler. "I was swinging too flat and hitting the ball in the neck."

Two old timers, four-time winner Ben Hogan and Sammy Snead, now shut out of the coveted Open title in 21 successive tries, finished with 289 and 290 respectively.

For Hogan, it was the first time in 15 tournaments since 1939 he failed to finish among the top 10. Bantam Ben now will have to qualify in order to play the 1962 U.S. Open at Oakmont, Pa., where he won his last Open crown in 1953.

Although generally heralded as a "monster," Oakland Hills 6,907-yard par 70 layout was lamed for 18 sub-par rounds in last week's end's competition, that compared with only two when Hogan won the 1951 Open on the same course with 287.

Morrison '9' Tips Harrison In 10th Inning

Bill Zirbel's Grand Slam Decides Game

HARRISON—Bill Zirbel smacked a grand slam homer in the top of the 10th inning to lead Morrison to a 11-7 victory over Harrison here Sunday.

The victory kept Morrison in a second place tie in the Fox River Valley League with a 3-1 record. Harrison has dropped four straight.

Harrison held a 7-4 lead until the seventh when Morrison scored a run to make it 7-5. In the eighth, Morrison counted a pair of fallies after two were out to send the game into extra innings. Harry Eichorst sent the tying run home with a triple for Morrison.

Two Men Out

In the tenth, Wayne Otto singled for Morrison and John Dollar reached first on an error. The next two batters flied out to center and Ed Otto walked. Zirbel then hit his long clout over the right field fence to give Morrison and relief hurler Roger Drewiski the victory.

Harrison outfit the victors, 14-3, but errors in key situations were costly.

Hit Two Homers

The Edinger brothers, "Buck" and Don, each hit a homer for Harrison. "Buck's" blast came in the first with the bases empty and Don's was in the sixth with a mate aboard.

Paul Roffers started for Morrison but was lifted after four innings. Drewiski went the last six frames, fanned eleven and issued no walks.

Joe DeBruin went the distance for Harrison and gave up eight hits, struck out five and walked five.

The Hand of White Sox first baseman Roy Sievers and the foot of Twins' Lenny Green strain for first base in the Minnesota-Chicago first game Sunday. Larsen, Hacker, Herbert Help

Lopez Pleased With White Sox Pitching

BY JOE MOOSHL

CHICAGO (AP) — Victorious in 10 of their last 11 games, the Chicago White Sox think they are gradually putting together what soon might be the best pitching staff in the American League.

"Why not," says Manager Al Lopez, "It might not be the best as far as the top two or three pitchers are concerned but depth-wise I think we'll have the strongest pitching in the league very shortly."

One reason for Lopez optimism is the addition of Don Larsen and Warren Hacker in the bullpen to help Turn Lown and Russ Kemmerer.

Larsen came in a four player deal with Kansas City, which included starter Ray Herbert, and Hacker was picked up from Chattanooga, Southpaw Billy Pierce is gradually returning to form and sharp work by Cal McLish and Juan Pizarro—both acquired in a winter deal with National League clubs—certainly gives the Sox staff depth.

Helps A Lot

Herbert already has a pair of victories. Pizarro has won two in the last 10 days after fighting off an early plague of wildness.

"Pizarro has helped a lot," said Lopez, "so has Herbert and as soon as Early Wynn gets over his elbow trouble our pitching will be in real good shape."

The canny, patient Lopez is not particularly worried over his club's slow start although he wishes the team hadn't slumped so badly.

"Now that our pitching is getting into shape we'll win a lot of ball games," said Lopez. "Maybe we'll win enough to get back into contention. I honestly think that we presently have what could be the best staff in baseball. Remember, this is going to be a long season with 162 games and the

Zone Changes Denied by City Planning Unit

Two zoning requests were denied by the Appleton Planning Commission at a meeting this morning.

The commission denied a request to rezone a vacant lot on the east side of N. Richmond Street immediately south of W. Glendale Avenue. The request was that the property be rezoned from single family area to commercial and light manufacturing.

It was explained that rezoning of the property would give three different zoning areas within a space of one block.

Also denied was the request for rezoning the property at 1235 W. College Ave. from a two-family district to commercial and light manufacturing.

In other action, the commission okayed preliminary approval for the Richard Zeidler plat and the Crestview Manor preliminary plat was held for further study.

The recommendation of the board of public works that N. Rankin Street not be extended at Wisconsin Avenue was upheld by the commission.

New Miss Appleton Smiles, Sheds Tears of Happiness

Elizabeth Cole Wins Crown In Talent Contest of Beauties Representing City Saturday

BY HAROLD KURTZ

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A smile broke through tears as Elizabeth Cole learned she was the new Miss Appleton for 1961 Saturday night.

The occasion was the second annual Miss Appleton pageant sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Appleton High School auditorium. Twelve girls competed for the crown, which could lead to the Miss Wisconsin and Miss America titles.

Miss Cole, 19, is a sophomore at Lawrence College from Waukegan, Ill. She won her crown in four appearances—evening gown, talent performance, sports attire and an on-stage interview.

Talent Number

"Main Speaker of the Evening," an original humorous monologue, was her talent number. The attractive brown-eyed, brown-haired co-ed enjoys music and dramatics.

First runner-up was H. Pamela Oldershaw, Appleton. The second runner-up was a two-way tie between Ruth Beyer, Appleton, and Nancy Bodenstein, Port Washington, another Lawrence student.

Nancy Sorensen, Neenah, was named Miss Congeniality by vote of the 12 contestants.

Miss Wisconsin

Presenting the crown to the new Miss Appleton was Miss Wisconsin, Karen Marie Farenbach, Racine.

Miss Cole won a $300 scholarship, crown and trophy. Nine other gifts including luggage, clothes and jewelry were given to her, plus the right to represent Appleton at the Miss Wisconsin pageant in Kenosha July 7 and 8.

"Oohs" and "aahs" greeted the appearance of each contestant. Judging was based 50 per cent on talent, 25 per cent on beauty and 25 per cent on personality.

Entries and talent presentations include Sharon Kay Barker, Appleton, comic pantomime; Miss Beyer, Magic Cane dance number; Miss Bodenstein, piano solo, Elude by Liszt; Carol Bowers, Vocal solo Big Daddy and Charleston dance number; Miss Cole, humorous monologue; Frances Koller, Appleton, comic monologue; Marcella McHugh, Menasha, comic monologue; Carole Ann Moen, Shiocton, vocal solo "Honey Bun"; H. Pamela Oldershaw, Appleton, fashion show of dresses she designed; Karen June Schermitzler, Appleton, Hawaiian hula dance; Miss Sorensen, whistling and dance number, and Judy Ann Vanderlois, Kimberly, clarinet solo.

Judges were Mylan E. Ross,

Fond du Lac; Norman Knutzen, Stevens Point; William Jelinke, Milwaukee; Mrs. Donald Anderson, Appleton, and Mrs. A. A. Mellentine, Stevens Point. Judges ballots were audited by Frank Okada, Appleton.

Also appearing on the program was Miss Appleton for 1960 Mrs. Judie Van Alstine Spellman, now of Oshkosh. She was presented with a recording of her prize-winning song "Mr. Wonderful" which she sang at the pageant last year.

The National Guard State Trophy for team marksmanship was awarded to Troop A, Reconnaissance Squadron, Black River Falls.

Artist Bohrod Paints Realistic Pictures, Hopes Abstract Art Will Not Survive

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — Aaron Bohrod, artist in residence at the University of Wisconsin, whose one-man show is currently on exhibit at the John Nelson Bergstrom Art Center, has great sympathy for the average citizen who feels "uneducated" about art.

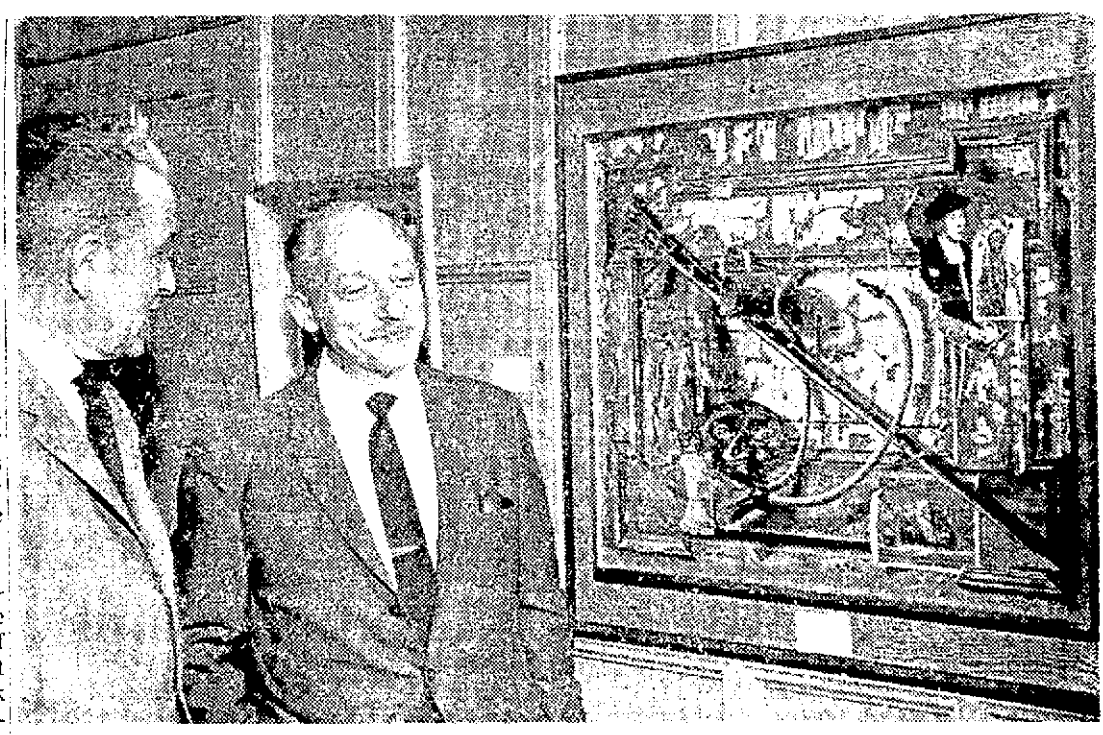

"People who generally have good sense about a book or a movie and do not hesitate to say what they like should be able to say they don't like some paintings, but because a small group seem to be arbiters of taste and have selected some artists for their stamp of approval a painting is considered 'art', whereas other artists with equal attributes are ignored."

Abstract Art

Bohrod was speaking specifically of abstract art, which he "hopes will not survive. Some of them are like a handsome carpet on the floor — beautiful to look at for the moment. But my conception of a serious artist is one who wants his craft to become important and meaningful, and in fact works so that it becomes more so with each painting."

Bohrod's paintings, the exact opposite of abstractions, are exquisitely detailed. His still lifes, which he began painting in 1953, are meticulous reproductions, down to the newsprint itself. His reflections on glass and his paintings of objects seen through glass are exact and so perfect that viewers unconsciously try to brush off stains, flies, or bits of paper, which seem to be outside the painting.

Bohrod, called one of the greatest artists of this century, is not among the "ignored." His paint-

Prof. Charles Brooks of Lawrence College, who also is curator at the John Nelson Bergstrom Art Center, discusses one of Aaron Bohrod's paintings with the artist at the reception held in his honor at the Neenah Museum Wednesday evening. Currently on exhibit until July 20 are 35 works. The museum is open to the public Wednesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 6 p.m.

Mr. Bohrod began painting landings and museums, and even scapes, and became internationally famous during World War II when he painted battle scenes for Life magazine. Since then he has turned almost entirely to still life painting and he says "there is joy and adventure involved when I have an arrangement of objects I have not painted before."

His arrangements are flexible in that he may add an object or take one away if he finds it is

No Longer State Symbol

Shintoism Accepted by Millions of Japanese

BY KENNETH ISHII
TOKYO (AP)—Not so long ago, "Shinto" conjured up visions of millions of Japanese worshipping the emperor, then the symbol of the might of militarist Japan. Today, Shinto is no longer an instrument of the state, but millions still accept it—a mixture of the ancient ritual and belief that has survived the centuries. Officials say there are six million households today that accept Japan's indigenous religion, and who contribute $500,000 a year to shrine coffers. But Shinto is not a religion in the strict sense of the term.

Shinto means "the way of the gods." It has no organized teaching, no dogmas, no images or idols. Practically, it is the worship of anything mysterious, superior — anything that inspires awe. Such things are considered "kami," or deities. Thus, the ancients worshipped important ancestors, a custom the militarists seized on to propagate the emperor's "divinity" and rally national unity. There also are deities of food, wind, fertility, storms, good fortune, and so on. At the apex of them all stands the goddess Amaterasu, the mythical ancestress of the Japanese nation whose spirit is enshrined at the grand shrine at Ise—the mecca of Shintoism. Shinto mythology has it that Amaterasu (the heavenly shining goddess) was one of the many offspring of god Izanagi and goddess Izanami who created the world. Amaterasu ruled the realm of light, and Takehaya-Susanowo (valiant - swift-impetuous - hero), another offspring, ruled the nether regions. Few if any Japanese take this legend seriously any more, or the myth the militarists fostered that the emperor was a direct descendant of Amaterasu. Shinto officials explain this is because of Shintoism's emphasis on purity and cleanliness. The shrines were last rebuilt—for the 59th time—in 1953 at a cost of $1,667,000.

Artist Hopes Abstract Art Won't Survive

jects he works with a large magnifying glass but since this is an "awkward" way to work, he does not usually do this.

For Average Person

For the average person, who feels that "art" is something they cannot understand, and whose taste in pictures is, if anything, for the "pretty" landscape, Bohrod's paintings will be an exciting experience. Looking at his work one discovers all sorts of things for himself, and it is with a thrill that one finds a hitherto unnoticed object in a painting, after returning to examine it again.

Bohrod himself is a warm, outgoing man who speaks a layman's language, and is not at all the off-beat, temperamental artist so often described in novels. He is practical as well as humorous, and extremely patient with the uninitiated. And when he says "there is a great deal of joy" involved in his work it is obvious that he means it.

"The Red Cabbage" is famous for color and line as well as the magic reproduction of glass. A tiny self portrait of the artist at work is seen in the reflection, as well as the slight distortion of the objects placed behind the bowl.

Prime Minister Met By Angry Crowd at Kingston, Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Jamaican Prime Minister Norman Washington Manley, was greeted Sunday by a shower of sticks, stones and bottles when he returned from a London conference at which Britain agreed to independence for its 12 Caribbean territories by next May 31. A crowd of 6,000 to 8,000 opponents of an independent West Indies federation interrupted Manley when he started to speak on Kingston's main thoroughfare, King Street.

Police armed with tear gas bombs and batons broke up the demonstration.

A referendum is to be held later this year to decide whether Jamaica will join the federation.

Neenah Youth Fined $305 For Wild Chase, Accident

OSHKOSH — James E. Luedtke, 18, 355 Meadow Lane, Neenah, was fined $305 by Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane this morning, and the judge said he was recommending six months suspension of Luedtke's drivers license in case there were not enough points accumulated for revocation for a year.

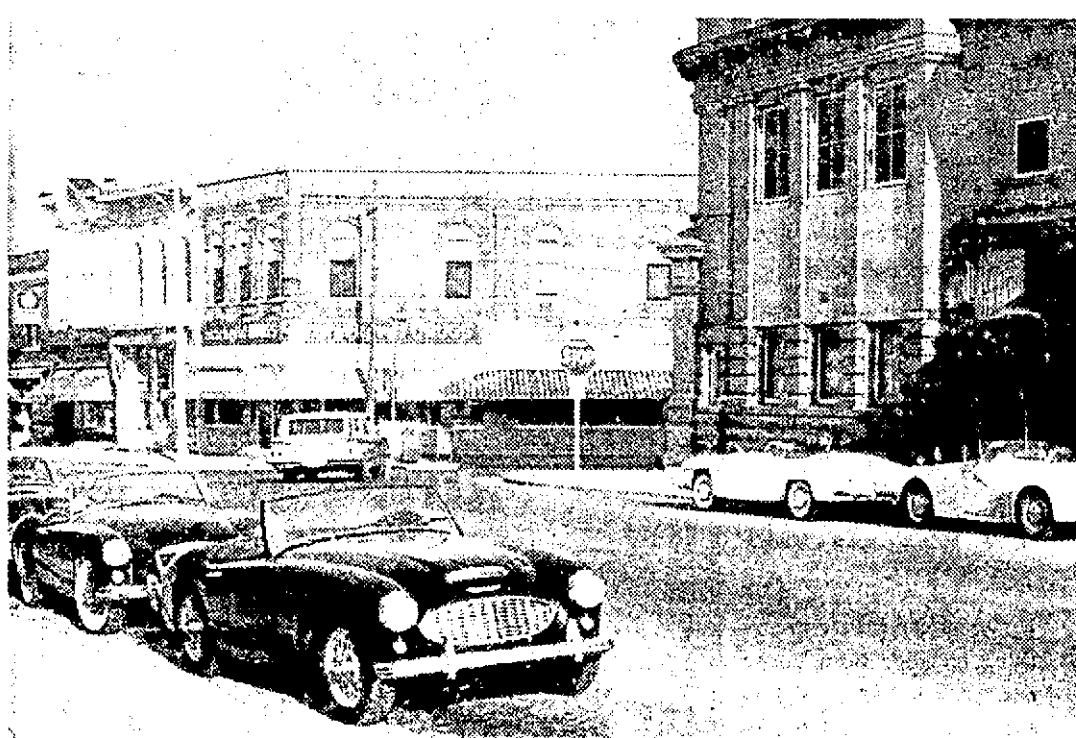

Luedtke last Monday admitted speeding in excess of 100 miles an hour while being pursued by a state traffic patrolman, and ignored two stop signs at U.S. 45 and County Trunk GG and at GG and County Trunk T.

Judge Cane set the maximum fine of $200 for the speeding charge and $50 for each stop sign violation.

Luedtke was arrested early Saturday morning after his car went off a Town of Vinland road as he fled from State Traffic Patrolman Neil McCallum.

Gerry Geiger, 15, 1018 Main St., Neenah, a passenger in Luedtke's car was taken to Theda Clark Hospital in a county squad car for treatment of head injuries and bruises.

McCallum said that during the chase the speedometer on the squad car had gone beyond the 100 m.p.h. mark.

In the Early Morning, before the Elkhart Lake Road America fans left for the races, Chilton's streets near Hotel Chilton were lined with sports cars. Most of the vehicles were owned by an Elkhart, Ind., sports car club which reserved the entire hotel for the weekend of the races.

Road America Upsets Routine

CHILTON — A smattering of the color and gay pageantry of Road America 20 miles south of here rubs off on the local citizenry on the weekend of the championship sports car races.

Streets near the Hotel Chilton are lined with sports cars whose knowledgeable owners have long since learned that hotel accommodations are non-existent at Elkhart Lake, the racing center.

Bob Kennedy Says He Used Marshals After Enforcement Failed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told sharply critical Southern senators today he ordered U. S. marshals into Alabama to protect the "Freedom Riders" only after local enforcement had broken down.

Repeating to questions by Sens. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., about the Freedom Riders, Kennedy testified: "Whether you like them or not they had a right to travel, and when the law broke down, I believe that anybody on this committee would have done exactly what I did."

Kennedy was testifying before a senate appropriations subcommittee in support of a $294,239,900 appropriation for the Justice Department.

He said it cost the government $225,000 to send several hundred specially deputized marshals to Alabama after the Freedom Riders and a justice department official were beaten by a mob in Montgomery.

Miss Aileen Rummel, nurse director of the VNA, will conduct the lessons, which will be illustrated with slides.

The staid old hostelry bubbles with new life as the gay sports car set gathers after returning from the day's racing. Congregating in the dining room and cocktail lounge, they discuss speed and times as well as slightly foreign matters such as cubic centimeter displacement, torque, R.P.M.s and their relationship to racing success.

Brighten Night Life

Colorfully but stylishly attired, they brighten the community's night life to such an extent that one wonders if the cars or their owners are sportier.

The majority of the sports car drivers who made Chilton their headquarters this year are from Elkhart, Ind. Mrs. Richard Ruhe, who with her husband operates the Hotel Chilton, said a representative of the Elkhart, Ind. contingent stopped here in early May to reserve the entire hotel for the weekend. The group arrived Friday.

License plates of others staying at nearby motels indicate they are from Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Snubs Sports Cars

Amid the racy little vehicles, Dad, driving the family station wagon powered by a conventional old 300 horsepower engine, defensively snubs the small cars throwing verbal barbs at their being "impractical and certainly uncomfortable."

Then, when he's alone in the car, he sneaks off to a side street and stomps on the gas pedal. This done, he is smugly satisfied that "it may not be as peppy as one of those foreign jobs, but the old buggy's still got it."

With the youthful hot rod crowd, the reaction is totally different. They gaze at the speedy vehicles with reverence and awe.

Tired Jokes

The en masse appearance of the low slung cars on the community's streets has revived a number of tired jokes.

For example, one citizen remarked while having his morning coffee that he was about to step on a bug on his way to the restaurant but noticed just in time that it was a sports car. Another said his dog has finally overcome its frustrations. It's been chasing cars for years, he added, but this week it finally caught a few, carried them to the back yard and buried them.

The influx of sports car fans has had at least one reverse reaction. A man having breakfast Saturday morning at a Chilton restaurant said he was a native of Elkhart Lake but was getting out of town "while all those crazy sports car drivers are there."

Warns Industry Of Trouble In Apprentice Lag

Director of Program Cites Enrollment Drop Since World War II

MADISON —(AP)—The state-wide lag in apprentice training is going to cause serious trouble to Wisconsin industry in a few years, Charles T. Nye, director of apprentice training for the state, warned Saturday.

"Unless the number of apprentices entering into the skilled trades are stepped up sharply now," Nye said, "industry will be in serious trouble in a very few years."

50th Anniversary

Nye's warning came on the eve of the 50th anniversary of the law, enacted in Wisconsin June 18, 1911.

Since that time, Wisconsin has been a recognized leader in training of apprentices for industry. In the past half century 30,000 Wisconsin apprentices have been graduated to journeyman status to form the backbone of the state's skilled work force.

Reached Peak

The apprentice program, directed by the State Industrial Commission, reached its peak after World War II.

"In 1948 we had nearly 14,000 apprentices in training, most of them under the G.I. Bill," said Nye. "There are only 4,200 in such training now," he said.

Nye said the number of apprentices in training must get back to the 14,000 mark by 1971. He placed part of the blame for the training lag on industry itself.

"There are about 24,000 employers in Wisconsin who have the potential to train apprentices, but only 2,000 are actually training them," said Nye. "This is due partly to a lack of knowledge of the program."

But also to blame is a rather common practice of "pirating" new journeymen from companies that have trained them.

Unsettled business conditions in the past three or four years also have hurt the apprenticeship program, Nye said.

Nye said the apprenticeship division itself must shoulder some of the blame for the lag in training.

Not Emphasized Program

"We have not emphasized the need and the benefits of the program enough and school guidance counselors in the past have not been aware of the problem," he said.

Nye said his division is now in the midst of a campaign to correct the state-wide shortage of apprentices. Several regional meetings have been held and a state meeting on apprentices' problems is scheduled next year.

Byrnes Leads Fight to End Tax on Travel

State Congressman Initiates and Heads Attacks for Bill

BY FRANCES McKUSICK

WASHINGTON — A fight for repeal of the Federal transportation tax which was initiated and led in the House by Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, apparently will be continued soon on the Senate floor, it was learned today.

Encouraged by the pencil-slim defeat of the Byrnes transportation amendment by only seven votes in the House last week, Senator George Smathers, D., Florida, has publicly disclosed he will sponsor a similar amendment on the Senate floor when the general tax extension bill comes up for a vote.

Demonstrating the need of airlines and railroads for relief, Byrnes quoted the chairman of both the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board, pointing out that these two regulatory agencies were made up of bi-partisan membership.

Not First Time

Byrnes then reminded the House that repeal of the transportation tax would not be the first time a tax adjustment had been made during a budgetary deficit. He pointed to the removal of cabaret taxes, motion picture taxes and tax on transportation of property. He also pointed out that a "substantial portion of the revenue loss from repeal of the tax would be offset by an increase in income tax receipts as a result of elimination of tax as a business deduction as well as improved earnings of the railroads and airlines.

Other members of the Wisconsin House delegation who supported the tax reduction included Reps. Henry C. Schadeberg, Vernon W. Thomson, William K. Van Pelt and Melvin R. Laird, all Republicans.

Voting against it were Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeier, Clement J. Zablocki, Henry S. Reuss and Lester R. Johnson, all Democrats.

Not voting was Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, (R., Mercer).

Jo Hoffman, playground craft instructor. Registration will take place Tuesday and Wednesday morning at Lincoln School.

Don Yenke and Ed Lowther, Cannonsburg, Pa., won the race in a Corvette, averaging 76.426 miles an hour.

Bad Clutch Forces Race Car Driver Son of Appleton Lawyer to 'Scratch'

BY DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

ELKHART LAKE — A dejected Chuck Baldwin leaned against the side of his sedan Sunday morning and decided to "scratch" his sports car, "Ol' Yaller II," from that morning's 100 mile modified sports car race at Road America track.

The decision was a frustrating one for the 25-year-old son of Appleton attorney Karl Baldwin. A week had been spent in preparing the car for the race.

Saturday young Baldwin spent eight hours putting new clutch plates in the car. In his practice runs Baldwin discovered pressure plate springs had lost some of their tension and the clutch was slipping.

Wanted to Race

Chuck wanted to race although he knew he could not win. His crew and his wife, Kay, finally talked him out of it, saying he was slated to race Thursday at Indianapolis and then in the Continental Divide race. Running the car with a bad clutch could cause extensive damage to the vehicle — not to mention danger to the driver.

This competitive spirit is shown in Chuck's record in three seasons of sports car driving — 27 starts, 18 finishes in the top three.

He got his start in racing in 1957 in Mexico. While living there in 1957 and 1958, Chuck competed in nine races, driving a Chrysler-powered Van Beuren Special. His record was two firsts, two seconds, three thirds and a track record at San Luis, Potosi.

Third Start

He did not race in 1959 but came back last year in an A-C car was Carroll Shelby, international famous sports car driver.

a five-lap preliminary race at horsepower. Top speed, Baldwin said, is about 190 miles an hour.

His wife shares Chuck's enthusiasm for racing. She not only attends the races, but also works on his crew. She confessed to racing her own car at one time. It was in 1954 with a MG TC. She declined to say where or how she did.

With a year to go at the University of Wisconsin Law School, Chuck said, he plans to continue racing after graduating. "It's a great sport," he commented.

Chuck says he would like to try the "big cars." "At least," he said, shaking off some of the morning's discouragement, "they don't have clutches."

Tipsy Driver Pays $106 Fine

Robert E. Boaman, Neenah, Found Guilty by Justice

Robert E. Boaman, 28, route 1, Neenah, pleaded no contest to drunken driving and was found guilty by Police Justice Arthur J. Ales.

Ales fined Boaman $106. Boaman lost his driving privilege for a year.

Boaman was arrested March 29 on the Racine Street bridge and tested .19 on the drunkometer at Appleton. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Warrants Issued

Father of Seven Steals Equipment to Support Family

A rural Fox Cities area father who tried to support his family of seven children by stealing and selling farm equipment faces nine counts of theft. Sheriff officers say he admitted selling $1,399 worth of equipment for $303.

Warrants naming Gerald L. Bohringer, 36, route 4, Appleton, have been issued charging him with the theft of four barn cleaner motors, three rotor tillers, an outboard motor and a power mower.

Sheriff's Lt. Jack Zuelzke said Bohringer admitted taking a barn cleaner motor from the Carl Rohloff farm, New London, May 28, and from the Clinton Mack farm, Shiocton, May 29. Farms in Shawano and Winnebago Counties provided him with the other two motors, Zuelzke said.

Zuelzke said Bohringer said he took the boat motor from Raymond Tyler, Shiocton, on May 29, the rotor tillers from Oshkosh area farms and the power mower from a Shawano County farm.

Sheriff's Alert

Sheriff Robert Heinritz alerting of electrical and resale shops led to Bohringer's arrest by Outagamie County Patrolman Calvin Spice Thursday night.

A Kaukauna shop owner reported the purchase of a suspected motor and gave the sheriff a description of the seller's car. Spice arrested Bohringer on U.S. 41 near Kaukauna as a result of the shop owner's description.

Friday, Bohringer accompanied Zuelzke and Winnebago County Sheriff's Lt. Richard Gunther to the other buyers of his loot.

The barn cleaner motors were

Kidnapper Finds Kimberly Man's Body

Anton C. Van Vreede, 68, 324 N. Sidney St., Kimberly, was found dead at his home by his granddaughter Saturday. Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said death was due to natural causes and could have been accidental.

Kemps, notified of the death by Jansen Funeral Home, said Van Vreede apparently died and fell at a basement stairway, probably Saturday morning. Van Vreede had lived alone for about five years. A daughter, Mrs. George Gracyalna, route 2, Appleton, became concerned when she could not reach her father Saturday afternoon and called her sister, Mrs. Alvin Casper, 318 N. Sidney St., who sent her daughter, Sandra, to see her grandfather. The girl found his body at the foot of the basement stairs.

Kemps was assisted in the investigation by Kimberly Patrolman Donald E. Schmeck.

Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the Holy Name Catholic Church, Kimberly, with burial in St. Paul Cemetery, Wrightstown. Survivors include three daughters, a son, three brothers, five sisters and 10 grandchildren.

Lawrence Says
'Shameful' Era
In U. S. History
Now Released
FDR Made Deal With Stalin on Poland,
Columnist Declares

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — A shameful chapter in American history now has been revealed after 17 years of secrecy. Documents just published by the State Department show that a president of the United States went to a "summit" conference during World War II and made a deal with the Communist dictator —Josef Stalin—whereby much of Poland's territory was deliberately conceded to Russia and the way was paved for similar deals that permitted the Communists to grab small countries.

Lawrence

What was even worse, a president of the United States told a foreign ruler that his own decisions were related to a fear he might not retain a bloc of votes of American citizens of Polish extraction and that, for this reason, the deal had to be kept secret—at least until a presidential election was over. Actually, these facts have not been disclosed until now.

Disregarded Rules

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, was the president of the United States who participated in these secret negotiations in 1943 at Teheran (Iran). He disregarded the rule of the Constitution which says that the chief executive "shall have power by and with the advice and consent of the Senate to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur."

It is out of this clause in the Constitution that a president derives his power to conduct foreign policy. The right to make temporary agreements or understandings directly related to the military conduct of a war has never been questioned, but any pact which is as far-reaching as a division of territory after a war certainly comes within the category of a treaty. The Senate should have been consulted.

The carving up of territory—utterly disregarding the wishes of the people and their future opportunities for self-government—is something associated usually with the absolute monarch. A president of the United States is supposed to be the champion of freedom and of the self-determination of peoples. The Polish People didn't start World War II. On the contrary, it was Hitler's attack on Poland that drew Britain into the conflict. Yet President Roosevelt was later a party to the partitioning of Poland so as to satisfy Communist Russia, which had seized a large part of Poland in 1939 while a partner of Hitler.

Why Revealed?

It might be asked why a Democratic administration in Washington today makes public hitherto undisclosed documents that reflect so gravely on the conduct of foreign policy by a previous Democratic administration.

The reason may be inferred from an Associated Press dispatch of Feb. 17 last quoting from an exclusive story in the New York Daily News which stated that President Eisenhower, on leaving the White House, took with him proof sheets of the papers on the Teheran conference. The article said that Republican leaders, who had conferred with Mr. Eisenhower, asked him to keep a copy of the papers in definitely to see whether they would be withheld or released in part by the State Department. So apparently the Kennedy administration had no choice but to give them in full to the press.

Much of the Teheran story has been told over the years, but never have the American people learned the details of the secret deal between President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin. It so happens that Charles E. Bohlen, who at the time was first secretary to the American embassy in Moscow and acted as interpreter for Mr. Roosevelt, accompanied President Kennedy at his recent conference in Vienna with Nikita Khrushchev.

What Was Said

The State Department's published record—based on Mr. Bohlen's extensive notes—now shows Mr. Roosevelt discussing the Polish question in a private talk with Marshal Stalin Dec. 1, 1943, as follows:

"The president said he had asked Marshal Stalin to come to see him as he wished to discuss a matter briefly and frankly. He said it referred to internal American politics. He said that we had an election in 1944 and that while personally he did not wish to run again, if the war was still in progress, he might have to. He added that there were in the United States from six to seven million Americans of Polish extraction, and as a practical man, he did not wish to lose their vote.

"He (the president) said personally he agreed with the views of Marshal Stalin as to the necessity of the restoration of a Polish state but would like to see the eastern border moved further to the west and the western border moved even to the River Oder. He hoped, however, that the marshal would understand that for political reasons outlined above, he could not participate in any decision here in Teheran or even next winter on this subject and that he could not publicly take part in any such arrangement at the present time.

"Marshal Stalin replied that he had understood.

"The president went on to say that there were a number of persons of Lithuanian, Latvian and Estonian origin, in that order, in the United States. He said that he fully realized the three Baltic republics had in history and again more recently been a part of Russia and added jokingly that when the Soviet armies reoccupied these areas, he did not intend to go to war with the Soviet Union on this point."

Thus did an American president lend his power and influence to the formation of the present bloc of satellite states in Eastern Europe. Recently some enthusiastic admirers of President Kennedy have been saying that he is "very much like Franklin D. Roosevelt."

One wonders whether, after Mr. Kennedy's secret conference alone with Nikita Khrushchev in Vienna, the comparison will someday be pressed by Republicans instead of by Democrats.

Today's Prescription Is The Biggest Bargain In History

We think you will be interested in the following facts taken from the February issue of American Druggist.

The average family today spends about $22 a year more for prescriptions than it did in 1929. Largely because of the wonder drugs in those prescriptions, you can expect 10 more years of life than you could in 1929. This means that the typical family pays about $2.20 for each extra year of life expectancy. That's why we say... "TODAY'S PRESCRIPTION IS THE BIGGEST BARGAIN IN HISTORY!"

Stock Policing Needs Tightening

BY SYLVIA PORTER

There's an urgent reason for more stringent policing of the nation's stock market and for tightening of the rules governing buying and selling of securities before Congress gets around to writing any new laws to deal directly with today's problems.

The reason is simply that so many of us are now involved in the stock markets or about to become involved that any serious trouble in Wall Street will hurt millions of innocents on the Main Streets of towns the country over and endanger the economic health of our entire nation. This is not an exaggeration.

Near Investing
The informed estimate is that a record 15 million of us own stocks today but that's only the beginning of the tale. Another 13 million are what the New York Stock Exchange's president Keith Funston, calls "on the threshold" of investing, nearly twice as many more are in the "interested" stage. By any standard, our stock market has become a mass market and Funston's forecast of 25 million stockholders before the end of the 1960s could turn out a gross understatement.

The informed estimate also is that 14 per cent of America's families now own stocks against less than 8 per cent as recently as 1952 and this too is only the beginning of the tale. A Michigan Research Center survey indicates that in the last couple of years, purchases have been most notable among the lower income groups—families least likely to be on guard against crooks and least able to afford losing their nesteggs. The conservative prediction is family ownership will rise to 20 per cent by 1970 and the additions will be amateurs.

There is undeniable evidence of reckless gambling recently by the gullible in unknown new stock issues and many who have been buying risky issues at inflated prices from the insiders are sure to lose their shirts. Again this is only the beginning of the tale. A sound, thriving market for new stocks is imperative if our corporations are to raise through stock issues some of the billions they must have to expand during this decade. A healthy new issue market is essential if the supply of good new stocks is to be sufficient to meet the growing demand over the years ahead and thus keep the level of prices reasonable.

Hearings Coming

Next Tuesday in Washington, a House subcommittee will open hearings on legislation which would launch the first broad inquiry into the stock markets in a generation.

The testimony will be on a resolution to grant the Securities & Exchange Commission $750,000 to carry on the inquiry and if what I know is any criterion, Congress is going to hear plenty to justify authorizing the study. But the probe's findings wouldn't be due until January, 1963 — which is a long way off. In the meantime...

The SEC and other concerned policing agencies should really clamp down on the come-on ads for stock speculation being put out by so-called "investment advisers" who are no better than touts. Some of the lures being printed by newspapers and magazines which boast they screen their ads are abominable and while the SEC has started to tighten the rules, it can do a lot more and so can Wall Street's own self-policing groups. There also should be an all-out attack on the "advisers" who build secret positions in a stock, tout it, then sell out to the public. If this isn't manipulation, what is?

Tighten Control

The regulatory agencies with powers over banks and other lending sources should tighten control over credit extended in the over-the-counter markets. There is a major gap in the control laws here but while we wait for Congress to fill it, much can be done to curb abuses. The SEC and others should blast with force at the rigging of prices of new stock issues (and other stocks too). There has been some outrageous misuse of "public relations" to influence a stock's price; instances of manipulation or its equivalent are well known.

I could list many more areas in which the policing agencies — at all levels of government as well as in Wall Street itself — should and could act at once without new legal powers and I'm only an outsider. No one in Wall Street with half an eye open can deny this.

Bride of Singer's Son Killed in Auto Crash

GRANTSVILLE, Utah (AP) — The bride of Anthony P. Downey, 25, son of singer Morton Downey, was killed Sunday in an automobile accident during the young couple's honeymoon trip.

The former Sandra J. Arpaia, 21, Hamden, Conn., was one of two persons killed in a head-on collision near this western Utah town. Downey was injured, but was listed in fair condition.

They were married June 30 at Wallingford, Conn., and were driving west to Seattle, Wash., where Downey, a salesman, had been transferred by the Monetti Co. of Smithfield, Va.

A sailor, Daniel A. Sexton, 19, driving the other car, also was killed in the wreck. Sexton's father, S. D. Sexton, lives at Walls, Miss.

Installation of the New steam turbine and generator at the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna, is nearing completion, according to Herbert Gerend, power superintendent. The photo shows the turbine in place. In the background workmen are lowering the generator to floor level.

Brokers May Show Dissent

Committee Faces Argument Against Nelson Nomination

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Dissatisfaction among real estate brokers about Gov. Gaylord Nelson's proposed reorganization of the state real estate brokers' licensing board may be put on the record here Tuesday when a state senate committee under Republican control considers the Democratic governor's nomination of a new member of the regulatory agency.

The governor's nominee is Harold Gilbert of Elkhorn. He was chosen to replace Julius Dinger of Eau Claire, one of the most widely known real estate men in the state, who has been board chairman and is one of the leaders of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Boards.

The association reportedly does not intend to oppose Gilbert, but it will explain to the senators that it had asked for the nomination of an upper Wisconsin representative on the control agency.

There are reports that Gov. Nelson seemed sympathetic when the brokers formally appeared in his office several months ago to argue for a geographical distribution of the seats on the board which exercises tight control over the licensing of brokers and their agents, and supervises their business practices closely.

The other two members of the board are M. William Gerrard of LaCrosse and Howard Meister of Milwaukee.

Gilbert's confirmation by the state senate would give the chairmanship of the agency, it is assumed in capitol circles, to Meister who was Gov. Nelson's first appointment a year ago.

Meister is one of the most active politicians in the state and is now the chairman of the state party's largest unit, in Milwaukee County.

No Pay Raise For Rothwell This Session

Finance Committee Won't Sponsor Bill Giving Him $20,000

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—Angus Rothwell of Manitowish will probably serve his first term as state superintendent of public instruction at the $17,000 salary that prevailed when he announced himself as a candidate for the office and won the election last April.

The legislative finance committee Thursday declined to sponsor legislation that would have boosted his salary to $20,000, the equal of the pay of the governor of the state, and substantially above that of all the other elective officers of the state government.

The measure came from Sen. A. A. Laun of Kiel, whose district includes Rothwell as a constituent, and committee members supposed that it was at the request of the superintendent-elect.

To provide a pay increase for the new state official, the legislature would be required to act quickly and enact the authorization before he takes his oath of office early in July. The state constitution prohibits salary increases during the term of office of an elected officer.

Discussions by the appropriations committee members indicated that they plan later to sponsor a general pay increase for elected officials from the governor down, and for major state department heads, of a percentage not yet determined. Subordinate state employees have already been assured salary boosts.

Such increases in the case of most of the officials, however, would become effective only as their elective or appointive terms expire and they are chosen for new terms. The assumption in capitol circles is that legislators will also provide another step in pay for themselves if such legislation is offered.

Science Shrinks Piles

New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) —

For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly.

And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Harried Lobbyists Trying to Get Bills Passed at Busy Time

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON—Those harried men dashing around legislative corridors are lobbyists, trying to shepherd their bills and resolutions at a time of accelerated work in both houses of the legislature.

These are the weeks during which the legislative counsel—as they prefer to be called—probably earn the big fees they charge their clients. The legislative pace has quickened to such a degree that it requires a fleet-footed and mentally agile fellow to keep track of the daily calendars of both houses. One mistake, and frequently a measure on which a lobbyist has toiled for long and weary months is lost irretrievably.

The men unfortunate enough to be responsible for half a dozen measures, trying to defeat or to pass them, finish each day in a state of near exhaustion. They include the agents of the big trade associations and a half dozen of the prominent free lances.

The two deans of the state department of agriculture board have been proposed for retirement by Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

They are Harry C. Dix of Menomonee, Dunn County, a veteran of 14 years on the state board, and Paul C. Schmidt of Medford, who was one of the original choices for the board when it was set up in its present form 21 years ago.

Gov. Nelson's men, subject to confirmation by the state senate, are unusually young for appointment to the board of directors of a major state agency, James Michael of Cadott is 29; Albert F. Thomas of Linden is 33.

The recent publicity from the Eau Claire state Republican convention about a probable candidacy for governor by Paul J. Rogan, the former legislative leader and insurance commissioner, was premature with respect to the 1962 Republican ticket situation.

Rogan wants to "keep in sight," as the politicians put it, but he is not likely to run next year. During the next decade a Rogan campaign for the governorship is that it requires a fleet-footed and mentally agile fellow to keep track of the daily calendars of both houses. One mistake, and frequently a measure on which a lobbyist has toiled for long and weary months is lost irretrievably.

The problem of the politician out of office is keeping in public view. Bogan will try to keep his hand in party organization affairs. He is now having a considerable success in the insurance business in Milwaukee.

Harold Gilbert, the Elkhorn retractor who has been nominated by Gov. Nelson for membership on the three-man state real estate brokers' board, wanted the place two years ago but was turned down for Howard Meister, the Milwaukee County Democratic chairman. Realtors knew that they probably couldn't persuade Nelson to rename Julius Dinger of Eau Claire, the top member of the board and a Republican, but they had asked for the nomination of a representative of northern Wisconsin.

The state department of public welfare was caught in an embarrassing error in political relations when it sought authorization for a Walworth County prison camp without consulting the district's legislative representatives. They might have objected in any case, but as it turned out they could protest that they didn't know what was going on until a bill was introduced.

The mail and other materials going out of Gov. Nelson's executive office is probably of greater volume than during the regimes of any of his predecessors. One of the reasons is that the governor has employed a larger staff or assistants, and especially to handle communications, public information, and the like. Some past Republican governors used to grumble in private about the skinny staff arrangements they had, but always hesitated to ask for more money than was spent by the man they replaced. Gov. Nelson made the break, and it will be a useful one for his successors later.

The long campaign of the professional educators to up-grade the professional requirements for teaching in the public schools is likely to fail again in the current legislature.

An interim committee had brought in a bill designed to require that in the future all newly licensed teachers must have four years of professional training. Many of the rural teachers of the state today have two year college diplomas. But the assembly in a test vote the other day watered down the bill, and then killed it. Although the measure remains alive, its prospects are poor.

The Public Expenditures Survey, an attentive agent of the taxpayers' clubs on the legislative sidelines for a long time, is likely to emerge from the current tax deliberations of the legislature with its prestige enhanced. Survey staffers are sitting with the GOP tax writers in caucus regularly.

In spite of the near-desperate appeals of the retail milk distributors of independent ownership in some of the smaller towns and cities of the state, it seems unlikely that the legislature at this late date will give serious consideration to such a sweeping and controversial proposition as their demand for a state fluid milk and ice cream price control law.

Even some of the sympathetic legislators, and especially on the Democratic side of the aisle, are asking why such complainants did not back earlier legislation, now defeated, to provide stronger enforcement machinery in the anti-trust and unfair trade practices fields.

Although the legislature has enacted a sweeping court reorganization bill at the urging of the Judicial Council, and created numerous new local courts in recent years, it apparently is not willing to approve the final judicial council reform urged by the Council.

The agency has been planning for the creation of the office of court administrator, under the chief justice of the state supreme court, who would be a kind of business manager for the far-flung local judiciary. The administrator would be charged, among other duties, with statistical studies designed to apportion judicial manpower most effectively.

But the legislative finance committee is balking, and its adverse report will probably doom the measure.
